OPPORTUNITY SEEN FOR AIDING FARMER

Oregon presents 50 opportunities to make money to California's one, Dr. William DeKleine, director of the Marion county child health demonstration, told the members of the Salem chamber of commerce at Monday's luncheon, commenting on his observations while visiting the state to the south recently.

He added that one of Oregon's biggest opportunities is the flax industry, which he considers following a recent inspection of the state flax plant, to be the one big coming industry of the state.

Flax raising is a paying business for the farmer, and business men are faced with an excellent opportunity to help the farmer by encouraging this industry, he added.

Wheatland Fruit Ranch Promises Heavy Harvest

WHEATLAND, June 25.—(Special).—The Beaver Island Fruit company of this place, owning 166 acres of river bottom land, has peaches, filberts and hops, giving promise of a rich harvest. This land is owned and operated by a number of Portland physicians.

With plenty of capital to develop the land, which is a rich sandy soil, with facilities for irrigating directly from the river, and with a vision of the possibilities of the future it is not difficult to predict that this will be one of the show places of this garden spot of the west at no distant date.

Cherry Orchards Attract Visitors From Illinois

Saturday night there were 291 cars registered in the municipal auto camp, and Sunday night 27. A large number of cars from the middle west and the east appear on the register each night.

Sunday night Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Eilers of Palmer, Illinois, arrived in Salem after a trip of three weeks. They came by way of Denver, Colorado Springs and Salt Lake, and will go to California from here.

They were going to leave Salem yesterday morning, but as they were driving around they saw a fine place to pick cherries and spent the day there. Cherry picking was a change and a rest from the constant driving, and they liked Salem so well that they have decided to spend several days here before they journey southward.

Mrs. Eilers was interested in the fruit industry; in their central Illinois home country each farm has a few fruit trees of its own and a few berry vines, but no one makes a business of raising fruit as is done here in the west.

As auto camp managers go on their daily tours of inspection they often find sales slips of Salem merchants lying about the grounds. These slips indicate that the tourist visitors are leaving money in Salem; it is to the interest of Salem district to cultivate tourist visitors just as to develop other industries for which the city is well fitted.

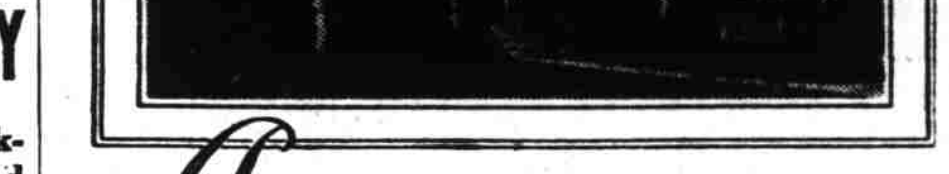

Operation of Trains in Pacific N. W. Inexpensive

SEATTLE, June 25.—(AP).—It is cheaper to operate trains through the northern districts of the Pacific slope than to operate them anywhere on the plains west of Chicago, H. W. Prickett, manager of the Utah traffic bureau told the interstate commerce commission.

He introduced an elaborate system of surveys and studies of railroad operating costs and earnings to support his contention that there is no justification for higher freight rates in the mountain territory of Utah and Idaho than in level plains to the eastward.

His figures quoted a cost of 7.87¢ per ton mile in the mountain Pacific region, 8.61¢ in the southwest, and 8.28¢ in the Rockies and Chicago.
