

PLANT BOARD MEET TO BE HELD HERE

Prominent Horticulturists Have Part in Conference Convening July 12

Salem will be host to some 50 delegates of the western plant quarantine board for its three-day annual conference July 12, 13 and 14, reports Charles A. Park, president of the state board of horticulture. The sessions will be held in the representatives' hall at the state capitol.

This is the first time the quarantine board has met in Oregon, although it was organized 10 years ago. Delegates from 11 western states, Hawaii, British Columbia and Mexico plan to attend.

An extensive program has been arranged for the three-day session, including both entertainment and business features. Governor Patterson will be toastmaster of a banquet at the Marion hotel to be held the second day of the convention. The last day, Saturday, an excursion tour will be made to the campus of the Oregon state college at Corvallis, which the Corvallis chamber of commerce is arranging.

Mr. Park will discuss plant conditions in Oregon the first day, each state selecting a representative to cover for it this subject. Reports will also be given on quarantine in Hawaii and British Columbia.

The second day's program includes a paper by Prof. M. B. McKay, of OBC, on "Control of the European Earwig"; an address on "The Protection of Agriculture" by Garcia Robledo, from the department of agriculture of Mexico; and another Mexican delegate, W. M. Sain of San Jacinto and chief of sanitary agriculture, will speak.

Listed among the various speakers for the meeting and delegates are the following prominent men: Dr. Oscar C. Bartlett, state entomologist, Phoenix, Ariz.; W. C. Jacobsen, chief of bureau of quarantine, Sacramento; Prof. George M. List, chief deputy state entomologist, Fort Collins, Colo.; D. T. Fullaway, chief plant inspector, Honolulu; M. L. Dean, director bureau plant industry, Boise, Idaho; O. A. Pratt, inspector federal horticultural board, Mexicali, Lower California; Edward L. Dickey, chief of horticulture, Missoula, Mont.; George C. Schwels, state entomologist, Reno, Nev.; and C. L. Corkins, state entomologist, Laramie, Wyo.

NEWPORT PLANNING FOURTH PROGRAM

NEWPORT, June 30.—(AP)—The Newport chamber of commerce and the city council are sponsoring a Fourth of July celebration for this city, with Lester Martin in general charge of the observance. Through the untiring efforts of Senator Charles L. McNary, Martin has secured a naval vessel, the Sub destroyer, which will dock in Newport July 2 and will be open to tour of the visitors.

A parade will leave the port dock at 10 o'clock in the morning, to be followed by a band concert and the principle address by Prof. J. M. Brumbaugh, educator and orator of Oregon state college.

A bathing beauty contest will be one of the afternoon features with $20 in gold offered for the best appearing bather in suit. No one is barred from the contest.

A Lindy special fireworks display, declared the biggest thing of its kind ever attempted in Oregon, is scheduled for 9 o'clock that evening on the bay.

CROWD SAYS "FLY" HUMAN, ALL RIGHT

"I could 'a done that." "Why didn't he use the fire escape?" and "Too bad the elevator wasn't running." These were a few of the remarks coming from the crowd of people which yesterday afternoon filled the intersection of High and Court streets to see a "human fly" scale the wall of the Senator hotel.

Long before the scheduled time of the event, people began to gather in places where they could get a good view of the west wall of the hotel where the climb was to be staged. At 2:30 o'clock the "fly" emerged from a second story window and made a speech to the crowd, but the noise of traffic successfully drowned it. Soon he appeared on the street equipped with a can and the information that a silver offering would "be appreciated."

Soon after, he emerged again from the same window, and after another speech, cautiously climbed to the second story window. Then he scrambled up and up successfully to the fourth story window, where he paused for breath and another speech which could not be distinguished.

From the fourth floor up, the building is stucco, and near the top there is a projecting cornice. The crowd was wondering just how he would do it, when from over the cornice they dropped a rope with knots every twelve feet.

Miss "Razor" Is Barber at the University of Oregon

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene.—What more appropriate? Berice Razor, Eugene, was elected official barber for next year's senior class at the University of Oregon.

The senior barber has an all-year job, but functions only once, at the frosh-sophomore mix in the fall, when the barber shaves only once, at the signal for all seniors to remove their mustaches, and start growing new ones.

es, and the rest was comparatively easy. The "human fly" gave acts at the Oregon theater both afternoon and evening, which were highly entertaining and which received great applause from the audiences which saw them.

1928 AUTO FEES PROMISE RECORD

cars into commission until the first of July, consequently there is the usual midyear demand for licenses on July 1 and it is anticipated that the demand will not be any less during the current year than it has been in years past. This is the time of the year when a reduction in the license fees occurs in nearly all of the states, as the laws of practically all of the states of the union do not exact the full license fee for registration after July 1.

"The receipts from the tax on gasoline for the first five months of the year," said Secretary of State Koser, "aggregate nearly 12 per cents more than the receipts for the same period during 1927 and should the consumption of gasoline continue for the remainder of the year at the same rate as up to the present time, the total receipts from the gas tax should aggregate between $4,300,000 and $4,400,000, thus making the total from motor vehicle licenses and gas tax during the year 1928 in the neighborhood of $11,300,000 as against $10,400,000 for the year 1927.

"The state of California levies a three-cent gas tax, the states of Idaho and Nevada a four-cent tax and the state of Washington a two-cent tax. The fact that the rates may differ somewhat in some of the adjoining states does not appear to affect the tax upon the quantity of gasoline used in the operation of motor vehicles in Oregon. While some of the administrative officers in some of the states encounter some difficulty in the collection of the tax by reason of the peculiar manner in which the tax is imposed under our laws we are free from needless complications and it is believed that the tax is substantially collected on the entire gallonage of gasoline sold in this state and used in operation of motor vehicles."

CHAIN GROUPS NOT SUBJECT BANK LAW

is a question of both law and fact. If the holding corporations only hold the bank stock and the banking business is carried on by the banks themselves, in which such stock is held, though their own officers and employees, both the expense paid and the income received by the banks themselves, and they are not dominated or controlled by the holding corporations, then the latter are not transacting a banking business subjecting them to compliance with the state banking laws and supervision of the state banking department.

"But on the other hand if the holding corporations in fact dominate and control the business of the banks whose stock they hold, or operate such banks through the agents and officers of the holding corporations, thus in effect making business that of the holding companies, then the latter are held to be conducting a banking business and subject to compliance with the state banking law and supervision of the state banking department."

It was pointed out by the attorney general that while corporations formed under the general corporation laws of the state are authorized by the statute to hold stock in other corporations, banks cannot acquire and hold corporate stock as an investment, except for

Tourist Visitor Heeds "See America First"

The Municipal auto camp reported a "full house" both Friday and Saturday nights. The unsettled weather makes for a large rental of cabins and tents. It is probable that most of those who spent the night here last night will remain over today unless the weather makes the open roads especially inviting.

One of the most interesting visitors to the camp this season is David Philemon who comes from Bolling Springs, North Carolina. Twenty-eight months ago Mr. Philemon decided that he wanted to see America, and accordingly set out to see it. First he went north up along the whole Atlantic seaboard to Maine, going from town to town by bus and taking his time.

Then he worked his way over to Buffalo, New York, where he bought a bicycle. He rode this vehicle to Cleveland and sold it there last summer, as he found it rather too warm as a means of summer travel. He followed the Great Lakes gradually around to the western end of Superior. Quite a considerable part of this journey he made on foot.

Then he bought a Ford, and it has been his conveyance and companion ever since, and in it he has come across through North Dakota, Montana, and Idaho to Oregon. He arrived at the Salem city camp a couple of weeks ago and wanted work; the manager sent him to the berry ranch of B. E. Bower in the Waldo Hills region, where he stayed and worked the balance of the strawberry season. Now he is picking cherries, and in a few days he will travel on.

Mr. Philemon has had many interesting experiences in his lonely travels, and it is a delight to hear him tell them in soft, smooth-flowing Southern dialect.

Dried Buttermilk Now Thrifty Oregon Product

The movement towards conservation of waste materials, the making of by-products into useful marketable commodities is exemplified by the recent drying process of buttermilk in Oregon.

Dried buttermilk has all the food elements of fresh liquid buttermilk with further advantages of economy in freight. It proves to be a valuable constituent when incorporated in a feed mix for cattle, hogs and poultry.

Dried buttermilk is produced and marketed at a splendid profit, whereas in the past a vast amount of buttermilk went into the sewers except a small percentage which brought but two cents per gallon, or less. It is such ingenious efforts as this that make for prosperity.

OREGON EXPORTS LARGE

Of more than eighty million dollars of exports of Oregon products from the Columbia river considerably more than half of this amount is manufactured commodities having passed through one or more processes up to the completely finished article.

HOOVER BIRTHPLACE NOW KITCHEN

The room in which Herbert Hoover was born at West Branch, Iowa, 54 years ago, is now kitchen and dining room for Mrs. Jennie Scellars (left), widow, who has owned the home for 40 years. When the Hoovers lived there, the house comprised only the one-story section of the residence above. Mrs. Scellars is willing enough to have tourists visit the room, but they do interfere sometimes, she admits, with her cooking.

TWO NEW WORLD RECORDS RECORDED

ROCKWAY, N. Y., June 30.—(AP)—Two world records fell in one race before the candidates for the American women's Olympic swimming on the first day of a four day program of Olympic tryouts and national championships events at Rockaway playland pool today.

In retaining her national title at 440 yards, and qualifying for the Olympic team at the slightly shorter 400 meter distance, Miss Martha Norelius of the women's swimming association clipped nearly two seconds from her own record, covering the distance in five minutes, 49 3-5 seconds. Her former record for the 440 yards was five minutes, 51 3-5 seconds. This time also better the 400 meter record of 5:51 flat also held by Miss Norelius.
