

GREAT WHITE WAY SHOWS COMEDIANS

Joe Verdi and Franklin Record Will be Featured on Excellent Bill

Still they come! Bigger and better Fanchon and Marco stage "ideas" each week, and every one living up to our advance word about it. There's no denying it.

Today brings Fanchon and Marco's latest: the "Great White Way" idea. Fast snappy entertainment, typical of New York's night life.

Mr. Verdi clowns with a guitar, sings a little and pulls all his comedy talk in typical Italian dialect. He has toured the country over Orpheum and Keith, etc. Appeared in Geo. White's Scandals, etc. and is every inch aveteran entertainer.

Franklin Record well known western tenor in and around Los Angeles, particularly. Four years season on Broadway at the Casa Lopez, Vincent Lopez' famous night club. Has played with many musical stock companies. He will work with Verdi on his comedy chatter and assist on his guitar act.

Vina Zolla, a new coloratura soprano "find" by Fanchon and Marco, will be heard in songs with Elmer Herling, baritone.

The Sunkist Beauties will feature several new, fast dance routines, assisted by Betty and Marguerite in speciality numbers.

A new innovation in lighting effects will be shown for the first time in one of the numbers done by the Sunkist Beauties. The girls will first be seen doing the Black Bottom in pretty pink costumes, with little pink faces peering out from their bonnets. With the change of light, the girls faces change to black, and their costumes to polka dot affairs.

The stage setting is a scene in one of New York's night clubs, atop a skyscraper overlooking Broadway. Dazzling lights and splendor meet the eye at every turn.

'RAMONA' DOLORES' VERY BEST PICTURE

Glowing Romance of Old California Comes to Elsinore Tuesday

When Dolores Del Rio, who comes to the Elsinore in Helen Hunt Jackson's immortal love story Tuesday, first entered the films under the direction of Edwin Carewe, people said "she has a future."

When Miss Del Rio was seen in "What Price Glory" folks said she was "made." When the star gave the world her portrayal of "Katusha Maslova" in Tolstoy's "Resurrection," press and public openly agreed it was only "star material" that could render so perfect a characterization.

Now comes "Ramona"—that glowing romance of Old California with the artiste, Del Rio, in the star and title role. Directed again by Edwin Carewe, who piloted the actress through "Resurrection," and who knows her every histrionic talent, Miss Del Rio is said to better her height in the meteor-like screen fame that has suddenly become hers without any objection.

"It is made for her—that story," says Carewe.

"It is my best work so far," admits the star.

'THE BANDIT'S SON' COMING TO OREGON

That youth, with its freshness and imagination, adds virility and new ideas to a motion picture is evidenced by the current FBO attraction at the Oregon theater, "The Bandit's Son," in which the star, Bob Steele, is only 21 years old, the leading lady, Ann Sheridan, but 19, and the director, Wallace Fox, but newly elevated to the ranks of megaphone men.

Bob, who has been groomed all his life to be a western star, was only recently elevated to stellar ranks and made his debut in "The Mojave Kid," which received wide praise. Anne Sheridan, a product of eastern finishing schools, is comparatively a new light on the cinema horizon. Fox was assistant director on "The Mojave Kid" and did such fine work that FBO officials decided to put him in command of the Steele troupe on the second picture.

have read about Mother Goose. Just think of really getting acquainted with Mother Goose herself. And she will wear those very story-book clothes that you all like. For she really wouldn't be Mother Goose without those.

What you Kiddies are wondering is when Mother Goose will arrive. Well, you shall wonder no longer. She will be here Monday; next Monday; that is, tomorrow, Monday, July 9. And where? At Miller's department store. And at what time? Well, at three times really; for she will appear at the store at 11 o'clock Monday morning for an hour, and twice in the afternoon, at 2 o'clock and 4 o'clock, each time for an hour.

What glorious hours they will be, with Mother Goose sitting right there in the middle of the floor, and the whole crowd of youngsters gathered around about listening to those tales of Humpty Dumpty, Little Boy Blue, the old woman who lived in a shoe and had so many children she didn't know what to do, and other favorites. You'll find Mother Goose on the third floor. In fact, the whole third floor will be turned over to Mother Goose and you youngsters, a man from Miller's told the Statesman last night. By the way, "you youngsters" include not only the Kiddies of Salem, but those from all over Polk and Marion counties. Incidentally, you children will be surprised to know that Mother Goose is going to let you do some of the entertaining!

And now, Kiddies, just one last word, lest daddy has to tell you the writer is "all wet." This Mother Goose, whom you will see and hear tomorrow may not exactly have stepped from the story book. She is really Fan Furst, known far and wide as a mighty fine entertainer of children.

Here's wishing you all at least one pleasant hour with Mother Goose.

Cut-throat rates which were reported from some quarters in the Kansas City convention were markedly absent from the Houston business houses and the handling of the convention hall overflow in a vacant block across the street was a thoughtfulness which visitors were quick to commend. Mr. Fry says. Convention doings were broadcast to the crowds gathered in the vacant lot.

SEE AND HEAR STAR IN SCREEN REVIVAL

Warner Bros.' extended run production of "The Lion and the Mouse" on the Vitaphone, comes to the Capitol theater today. This brilliant screen revival of the Charles Klein stage success is made doubly momentous by the fact that it is the first film featuring dramatic dialogue along with the orchestration.

The all-star cast is headed by May McAvoy and Lionel Barrymore. Other well known players are Alec Francis, William Collier, Jr., Emmett Corrigan and Jack Ackroyd. "The Lion and the Mouse" on the Vitaphone is being hailed everywhere as the greatest and most astonishing entertainment on the screen.

TELEVISION DISTANT AS EDUCATION AID

MINNEAPOLIS, July 6—(AP)—Television as an aid to education is still far in the future, A. K. Astor of the Bell Telephone Laboratories; New York, told the National Education association today, "but talking motion pictures are here to stay."

"Adding to its development of accurate methods of transmitting, recording and reproducing speech and music," he said, "the laboratories arranged mechanisms for synchronizing the recording and reproduction of sound and scene in audible motion pictures. Immense possibilities for visual instruction are involved in these advances."

Describing educational films as "essentially informational," he explained that they were constructed either by writing a logical series of titles and then illustrating them in any way which promised to be effective or by making a logical sequence of pictures designed to guide the observer's mind to the desired conclusions, with the titles only incidental.

MOTHER GOOSE DUE IN SALEM MONDAY

Listen, Kiddies. Did you know that Mother Goose lived elsewhere than in the pages of those delightfully illustrated books Santa Claus brings from year to year? Or perhaps it was in that school reader that you first saw those glorious pictures of Mother Goose and read those fascinating little rhymes. No matter where it was, just give an ear to this: Mother Goose lives; that is, she is living. And now read this one: Mother Goose is coming to Salem! Yes, Kiddies, none other than Mother Goose herself. Well, you know what that means, you who
