Mill to Resume—
Tomorrow morning the customary bustle of workmen will be noticed again at the Spaulding mill. The plant has been shut down since Tuesday evening when a $10,000 blaze occurred, doing most harm to the huge belts and the filling room. The entire mill will be going along as usual Saturday. Superintendent G. W. Skeels anticipates.

Loose Fingers—
S. M. Huseelman, a painter who has worked in Salem and vicinity for some years, is nursing his left hand as the result of an injury earlier in the week which took off part of three fingers. Accidental discharge of a gopher gun as he was placing bait in it was responsible for the loss. Mr. Huseelman lives on a small ranch on route six, east of town.

For Your Vacation—
A jar proof watch will stand the knocks. See them at Pomeroy & Keene's.

Sons to Hold Picnic—
The annual picnic of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War will be held at Champoege park next Sunday, July 15. The picnic is a state-wide event, and will be attended also by the auxiliaries and friends of the members.

New Registry Fees—
Postmaster John Farrar of the Salem office yesterday called attention to the fact that new registry fees went into effect along with other changes announced as effective July 1. In the past, the limit of insurance on packages or letters was $100, with the fee 15 cents for the first $50 and 20 cents for $100. With the new rates, a single letter or parcel may be registered up to $1000, with a graded fee of from 15 cents to $1.00. Postmaster Farrar says the new rate is undoubtedly due to public demand for increased insurance, as in the past people were continually asking for registry beyond the $100 limit.

Roberts Home—
Mr. and Mrs. John J. Roberts, who have been spending a two weeks' vacation at Yellowstone national park, arrived in Salem yesterday.

Has Operation—
Cecil Dancer, son of C. H. Dancer of route three, Salem, underwent an operation for removal of appendix at the Deaconess hospital yesterday afternoon.

Tracy Sues Fast—
It took E. F. Tracy less than 24 hours to begin legal action for damages growing out of an auto accident with Edward Beck. The accident occurred at the corner of South High and Mission streets at about 6 p. m. Wednesday. Thursday he filed in circuit court a complaint in which he puts the entire blame on Beck and demands a total of $675 damages.

Looney Clan to Meet—
The Looney club, descendants of Jesse and Ruby Bond Looney who were pioneers of 1843 in Oregon, will hold its annual reunion at Santiam Park, near Jefferson, on July 15, according to announcement made here yesterday. Members from all parts of the Willamette valley are planning to attend.

Old WU Student Visits—
Dr. and Mrs. Philip Stricker of San Francisco visited Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Mills yesterday. Both members of the family are physicians. Mrs. Stricker, who attended Willamette university from 1909-11, was then Miss Florence Duplay, and was a classmate of Mrs. Mills. The Strickers are en route to British Columbia on their vacation.

Answer in Divorce Case—
August Schuky yesterday filed his answer in circuit court in the divorce suit brought against him by Pauline Schuky. He declares that "the trouble between plaintiff and defendant has been caused and brought on by one of the children of plaintiff and defendant telling their mother that defendant is possessed of a large amount of personal property and that he does not give the same to plaintiff to spend because he is penniless, whereas in truth and in fact defendant has no income except . . . less than $2000 per annum." They were married in Germany in 1920, he says. She had accused him of tearing the clothes off her back and throwing them in the pig pen, and other acts of cruelty.

Divorces Sued For—
Two divorce suits were begun in circuit court here yesterday. Rhoda Whitted, who was married on July 13, 1921, to F. C. Whitted, asked separation on the ground of desertion. The desertion took place on August 1, 1926, she asserts. She asks that she be given her maiden name, Rhoda Taylor. Property rights have been settled between the two. Alice Herbold sued for divorce from Walter Herbold, stating that after living with him between August and December of last year she found it impossible to live with him any longer and left him, going home to her mother. Various acts of cruel and inhuman treatment on his part are alleged. She asks that she be given her maiden name, Alice Ryan.

MONTANA TOURISTS TO STAY IN SALEM

Auto Camp Visitors Come From All Corners of Country and Continent

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Nelson of Denton, Montana, registered at the municipal auto camp again yesterday. They came in June for a few days, then took a trip all over the Oregon highways and returned for another few days. After another trip they have returned and will remain at the city camp until they find property on which to locate. Their former home was in the heart of the best wheat basin in Montana.

In an auto camp one may find visitors from all corners of the continent. In addition to a large number of visitors from all the coast states, there were last night in the city camp James Porter of Springfield, Missouri; Fred Frank of Assiniboia, Sask.; a party whose home is in New Jersey, and a family from Sand Springs, Oklahoma.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Keeler, whose home address is Turlock, Calif., were Salem visitors. Mr. Keeler is representative for a financial concern interested in industrial finance. His work has enabled him to see much of the fruit growing industry in the West, particularly in California. He reports that the orange growers are well organized, and by virtue of this are able to control their market in fine shape. In his home district many foreigners are in the melon business; many of these people are Swedes, and there are also a large number of Armenians, and some Greeks and Mexicans. In the Imperial valley, the Japanese predominate.

LOCAL MEN NAMED ON WINDOW BOARD

George F. Vick Also Chosen Vice-President of Oregon Window Company

The first annual stockholders meeting of the Duo-Run Reversible Window company was held at Portland July 11 and a good many Salem residents who have recently become stockholders were present.

George F. Vick of Vick Brothers company, and president of the Salem chamber of commerce was unanimously elected as a member of the board of directors to serve for the ensuing year together with four other members, namely: J. T. Morrow and George L. Whipples of Portland, Thomas L. Sadler of Forest Grove, and W. E. Loos of Salem.

The board of directors held their first meeting immediately following the adjournment of the stockholders' meeting to elect their officers, as follows: J. T. Morrow, president, George F. Vick, vice president, and W. E. Loos, secretary-treasurer.

The Duo-Run Reversible Window company is an Oregon corporation controlling patents of a new type double-hung reversible window that permits washing the outside of the window from the inside of the room thus eliminating all hazard and inconvenience of cleaning windows in the old way. They are especially desirable in buildings more than one story high where window washing becomes a dangerous undertaking.

The Spaulding Logging and Equipment company is the local manufacturer and from present indications many new homes in Salem will be equipped with these windows.

W. E. Loos, local representative is rapidly completing the financing of the company after which the windows will be marketed over the entire United States, on a royalty basis.

Approximately 600 Take Part in Film at 14 Street Playgrounds

Wednesday afternoon was what the kiddies have been longing for the past month or more. It was their chance to be in the movies, and they got it Wednesday—about 600 of them.

Children of all the city playgrounds went to the 14th street grounds yesterday afternoon and played more games and did more swimming than they have all done at once for a long time. More than that, Dr. David Bennett Hill was there with his movie camera and took pictures of them as they made pyramids, slid down the slides, played ball, and did all of the things they had to do with a few extras added for good measure.

There were contests of all kinds and prizes galore given by merchants of Salem to the winners.

Tomorrow afternoon Dr. Hill will take pictures on the Lincoln and Yew Park grounds, but will not take as many as he did yesterday at Fourteenth street. At a later date these pictures will be shown in the Salem YMCA, so that all the boys and girls can see how they looked.

Action by Radio Group Stirs Storm of Protest

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(AP)—The federal radio commission hearing protests from stations ordered to cease broadcasting on August 1, today was termed "reactionary" and its abolition predicted by Rep. Victor Berger of Wisconsin, while Rep. Celler of New York, said the commission was without jurisdiction in revoking the licenses.

Berger, in a demand that the socialist station WEVD at New York and station WIBA, Madison, Wis., be retained wrote the commission that the procedure was "unjust and high-handed" which "means a private monopoly constructed for the radio trust, a $3,000,000,000 combination."

This statement for the transmitter, erected in memory of Eugene V. Debs, late socialist leader, was only one of a large number of protests which have been filed in favor of its continued operation, and it was stated unofficially that the license for WEVD probably would be renewed.

Stations WBBC, WCGU and WMBQ, Brooklyn, were defended by Rep. Celler who asserted that the commission had only the right to regulate and not the power to confiscate or prohibit. This cannot be done he said unless adequate compensation is given as provided by the constitution.

The Davis amendment to the radio act is responsible for the "chaos" now existing, Celler said, describing it as on the false premise that the country may be divided geographically for radio reception. He advocated population as a basis for allocating radio facilities, saying that Brooklyn would be treated unfairly if the stations cited by the commission were removed.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—(AP)—A bill declaring that the Radio Corporation of America, General Electric and a half dozen other concerns "have divided among themselves the entire field of wireless" was filed today by Edward L. Smith, counsel for the federal trade commission with the commission asking it to deny would attract unlimited attention if an artist could paint it as really as.

The picture from this position gives a wonderful panorama of Salem. The river below with boats, canoes and bathers, the business district, the civic center with the state house and the state buildings in the background, the green trees and foliage with the sunbeams reflecting from the western skies and the beautiful homes of Salem all tend to take the thought of being in an airplane away from the passenger and one can only stare with astonishment at the beauty of it all.

The only fear that one has of flight is the anticipation, for as soon as the plane leaves the ground one's thoughts are taken away from himself and fear and he becomes absorbed in the wonderful view of the surrounding country. Not until one has actually taken a trip in the air can he realize what it means.

A president is like an appendix. You know he's there, and the job of removing him seems important, but you don't miss anything when he's gone.—Klamath Falls Herald.
