"The House That Service Built"

VISITING MINISTER IN BAPTIST PULPIT

The Salem Baptist Mission, holding services at the Grand Opera house, had as pastor Sunday Rev. Earl Cochran, cousin of Justice O. P. Coshaw, and pastor of the Misspah Baptist church of Tacoma, Wash. Reverend Cochran came from the sound city to attend the Coshaw family reunion held at Brownville during the week-end, where he renewed acquaintance with many friends of his youth.

Besides being pastor of the Misspah church and engaging in various evangelistic activities, Reverend Cochran is well known in Northwest musical circles, being a singer of distinction, and having under his direction a church orchestra which is the pride of Tacoma. By request, he sang at both morning and evening services here. At the former, a brief resume was given of the Baptist convention recently held at Eugene. Both services were largely attended.

Mrs. Cochran and their two daughters, Lois and Eva, accompanied Reverend Cochran to Salem, and Miss Eva played the accompaniment to the solos sung by her father. Mrs. Cochran is a sister of Mrs. E. L. Weider and Mrs. Frank McFarland of this city. Miss Lois Cochran will be a guest of her aunts for a portion of the summer.

Others of the family returned to Tacoma Monday.

It was said that all of the northwest states would be represented at the convention.

Bits For Breakfast

Still they expand—The Southern Pacific is putting an addition 80 by 100 feet onto the 13th street cannery of the Oregon Packing company.

That cannery occupies what was once the hop warehouse of the Southern Pacific, opposite the passenger depot. That is a huge building, something like 100 by 500 feet.

The new addition will make that one of the largest cannery buildings in Oregon—if not the largest.

It is used exclusively for the canning of beans and pumpkins, and for storage purposes, in connection with the 12th street cannery of the same company.

Is Crater Lake moving? Eugene Register, read this from the Eugene Register:

W. C. Hall, of Eugene, yesterday received from Frank E. Semon, formerly of this city, a postcard picture of Crater Lake. There is nothing unusual about that, for Crater Lake is an impressive spectacle, and those who see it are justly fond of sending pictures of it to their friends. But this particular picture is startlingly titled. Its caption reads: "Crater Lake, Showing Wizard Island, California." Now here indeed is astonishing news. This writer was at Crater Lake some ten short days ago, and on that occasion this marvel of the high Cascade was still in Oregon. Yet we here learn, on the unimpeachable authority of the printed word, that it is now in California. Mr. Semon, who is evidently of a suspicious nature, is of the opinion that skulduggery is afoot, for he voices his belief that there has been dirty work at the crossroads in the following rhyme, which he pens upon the postcard:

California has the climate,
California has the oil;
California has the boosters
Who rave about her soil.
California has Yosemite
California takes the cake—
So recently, quite naturally,
She's taken Crater Lake.

Now we, on the contrary, are of a trusting nature. Knowing California's extreme modesty, we hesitate to suspect that she would claim anything that was not rightfully and undeniably hers. No, no, indeed! California would scorn such a thing. So we incline to the view that some amazing natural cataclysm has occurred, of which the world up this way yet knows nothing. It will be recalled, in this connection, that the geodetic survey reports that the McKenzie pass is slipping. So what is more reasonable than the conclusion that Crater Lake, too, is slipping—slipping southward? Perhaps, unnoticed by us of Oregon, it has slipped clear over the line into California. We call this possibility to the attention of the geodetic survey and urge, with all the powers of persuasion at our command, that a survey party be sent at once to Crater Lake to investigate.

BOURBONS DECEIVED BY SMITH ELEMENT

South Would Not Have Voted For Him If Facts Known, Word

PENDELTON, S. C., July 16.—(AP)—Had the South known that Governor Alfred E. Smith, democratic nominee, and Chairman John J. Raskob, of the democratic national committee would propose revision of the prohibition laws several southern states would have refused to participate in the Houston convention. United States Senator Cole L. Blease said in a letter to Mr. Raskob made public here today.

The letter replying to one from Mr. Raskob that went to many democrats, disagreed with the national chairman's statements that social conditions had "reached a state of decadence that demands correction."

"I think that such statements and position will cost the democratic party thousands of votes," Senator Blease said, "and probably bring to pass its defeat in the coming November elections."

"If the people of this nation had known three months ago that this was to be the position of Governor Smith and the chairman of the national democratic executive committee, I am satisfied that but few, if any, of the southern states would have participated in the Houston convention but would have held a Simon Pure democratic convention of their own and would have placed in the field a platform and candidates of their choice and invited all citizens of the United States of America to join them in the election of such candidates."

"I am supporting and expect to support the nominees of the Houston convention because I am a democrat, and having participated in that convention will support its nominees. However, I fear very much for the result unless we stand by and uphold the constitution in all respects as it is written."

"As a senator of the United States I shall not vote to repeal the Eighteenth amendment nor to modify or repeal the present laws for its enforcement."

MUSSOLINI ADMIRES US VICE-PRESIDENT

II Duce Greatly Surprised to Learn of Dawes' Musical Ability

ROME, July 16.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini admires warmly the musical genius of Vice-President Charles G. Dawes, and didn't hesitate to tell Milan Lusk, Chicago violinist, so tonight.

Lusk, invited by the duce to give a private recital at his summer residence, the Villa Torlonia, played as his first number a melody for violin written by the American vice-president. It elicited the exclamation:

"I didn't know the author of the Dawes plan was also a composer."

"When you go back," the premier added, "tell him I admire him."

Lusk presented Signor Mussolini with a copy of the melody. The premier hummed it over and said:
