SALEM FORGES IN LEAD

Prominent San Franciscan Puts Salem Ahead of Western Cities; Col. Hofer Praises Sloganmaster's Work

Editor Statesman:

For the past eight years the Salem Daily Statesman has conducted an all-around slogan development campaign for the establishment of payrolls and industries suitable to the Capital City and all Oregon, and is planning to continue it on a larger scale. The Daily Statesman has recently installed a large press to enable it to print a large enough newspaper to handle the typed material bringing out all the details of nearly 30 fields of payroll industries that have been established and are specialized upon to keep the factories going and supply the raw material necessary to keep the wheels of industry moving, and employ all forms of individual and family labor.

This Hendricks newspaper had to grow with the growth of the community it was building under scientific stimulation and high pressure expansion of an industrial manufacturing and home building campaign. With science and manufacturing undergoing and existing plant and press facilities stimulus of manufactured output, a newspaper had to grow in capacity as well as the products and the manufactured product.

With the eight year period of offering to every enterprise the bonus of a progressive, optimistic daily newspaper, it is no wonder that Salem has become known as the biggest general payroll and industrial inland city in the state, or that the Statesman has acquired plant and press facilities that enable it to put out about 500 pages a year of aggressive, affirmative community boosting material, as it has done in the last eight years, or that the capital city has shown the marked effect of this by spreading in all directions with thousands of new homes, factories and business establishments.

Through the provocative stimulation that increases tenfold the chances of success of any payroll industry, Editor Hendricks has swung the community into the line (Continued on page 2.)

LANGLEY CALLS MEET AUGUST 4

OREGON BOURBONS DECIDE TO MAKE CAMPAIGN

Meanwhile Anti-Saloon League Demands Republicans Make Prohibition Big Issue

PORTLAND, Ore., July 21.—(AP)—Lotus L. Langley, democratic state chairman, announced today he would call a meeting of the state committee on August 4 when steps will be taken to press the presidential campaign of Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York. Langley last night failed to appear at a dinner here attended by prominent democrats of the state, because, he said, he did not want to preside as toastmaster if the campaign was to be discussed.

Following a heated discussion last night, a committee today visited Langley demanding that the meeting be called as soon as possible in order that the campaign get under way at the earliest possible date.

Langley said today that he had delayed issuing the call because only 22 counties are organized and he has been waiting for more. He assured his visitors that he is supporting the candidacy of Smith and that he did not realize when he wrote his letter refusing to be toast-master at last night's dinner, that it would cause a discussion.

The Anti-Saloon League of Oregon resents the announcement of Dr. Hubert Work, republican national committeeman, that prohibition is not an issue, and that the republicans will carry on a "constructive" campaign.

FORCES COMBINE TO FIGHT APHIS

WALNUT ASSOCIATION LEADING ATTACK

Power Dusters in Demand, Reports State College Entomologist

All available equipment in Oregon is being marshaled by the Walnut Growers' association, under the direction of G. H. Bentley, secretary to combat the walnut aphid that has just made its first appearance in the state.

The need for power dusters to aid in this work is acute, according to word received in Salem Saturday through Don C. Mote, entomologist of the Oregon State Agricultural college experiment station, and anyone having one of these dusters is asked to communicate with Mr. Bentley at Dundee.

Anyone finding the insects in his orchard is also urged to get in touch with Mr. Bentley.

The serious walnut pest is a species of aphid or plant louse, according to Professor Mote, but is not the common walnut plant louse that is present each year. This particular species has not heretofore been observed or reported in western Oregon.

Professor Mote states that growers may combat this pest successfully by a commercial two per cent nicotine dust, applied by means of a power duster.

It is best applied when there are no air currents, preferably during the early morning hours. Some of the growers, especially around Dundee, have already begun their trees. Where this preparation is thoroughly applied it may be counted on to control the pest.

PLAN NEW LIGHTS. HIGH Cluster System From Trade to Broadway to Kniven Street

Between $20,000 and $30,000 may be expended shortly for a cluster lighting system which will extend on High street from Trade to the site of the proposed Broadway bridge at the junction with Broadway, if present plans, contingent upon letting the contract for erection of the bridge, materialize.

Such a system, the expense of which will be borne largely by the same 30 owners of business property along the route, will provide for clusters similar to those now in use in front of the Elsinore theatre on that street, with six of the two-light clusters to the block, three on either side of the thoroughfare.

The High street business property holders, who have decided for the change, hope to have the city and city shares a portion of the expense for the clusters in front of the court house and city hall, respectively.

It is expected the proposition will go through, inasmuch as the city council will open bids for construction of the new bridge at the next session.

PLAN OCEAN HOP TODAY Flight to Be Made From Rockford, Ill., to Stockholm

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 21.—(AP)—A radio message from Greenland will be the signal for the hop-off of the airplane "Greater Rockford" on its projected flight to Stockholm, Sweden, Pilot Bert Hassel announced today. The big monoplane is groomed for the take-off at 10 a. m. tomorrow if weather conditions are suitable.

The radio message that will send him off will be a weather report from Greenland where he has arranged a base for his only stop, to refuel. Professor W. H. Hobbs of the university of Michigan's Greenland expedition, will send the message just as soon as Greenland weather appears suitable for the flight.

Both Hassel and Parker Cramer, his navigator and co-pilot, are ready for the trip, and the plane has been stocked with clothing and provisions and nothing remains to be done.

MINISTER GETS 90 DAYS Says He Sold Liquor to Find Men Who Needed Salvation

TENSION GREAT IN MEXICO CITY AS WAR LOOMS

Serious Threats Levelled Against Luis Morones, Minister of Labor

SOLDIERS HOLD STEADY Congressman Soto Y. Gama Hurls Ultimatum at President Calls Demanding Oregon's Enemy Be Ousted

MEXICO CITY, July 21.—(AP)—Mexico City and the country continued peaceful today but there was a general tension among the people, much suppressed excitement and a feeling of distinct uncertainty.

What is regarded as a virtual ultimatum to President Calles by Congressman Soto Y. Gama, agrarian leader close to Oregon, long a fiery figure in Mexican politics, that Luis Morones, minister of labor, "must go or there will be actual war" is frankly disconcerting to elements who are working to spare Mexico from another period of chaos and bloodshed.

However, it is felt that it is not unrestrained speeches, but control of the army that really counts.

Meanwhile despite Soto Y. Gama's declarations, the army continues to observe discipline and Secretary of War Amaro has issued an appeal to all the revolutionary elements to support the army which he promises will continue loyally to guarantee the maintenance of peace and order.

Oregon's Enemies Blamed Whatever foundation or lack of foundation the actual facts might reveal for their belief, the Oregon leaders assert the conviction that the political enemies of General Obregon were behind the "religious fanaticism" which the religious say was the immediate inspiration of the president-elect's assassination.

The name of Morones is constantly and openly used by Obregon leaders in discussing the assassination. General Obregon and Morones were long political enemies and no expressions that the secretary of labor has made since the assassination lamenting the crime have served to check the feeling against him openly expressed by some of the Oregon leaders. Even threats to kill Morones have been made publicly and some of the secretary's friends have advised him to get out of the country quietly if he can.

ASK SPUD HARVEST HALT Appeal Made to Stop Stampede to Markets at Loss

TOPEKA, Kans., July 21.—(AP)—An appeal to the nation's potato growers to stop harvesting and marketing of their crop for 10 days was issued today by the Kaw Valley Potato Growers' association through its secretary, E. M. Pugh.

Stating "Millions of bushels of potatoes were being dumped into the big markets by 'Panik' striking growers at less than half the cost of production," the appeal also said the nation's potato industry was in a state of "complete demoralization."

ANOTHER RAID PUT OVER Padlocks of New York Again Headliner Along Broadway

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP)—Five squads of prohibition agents descended upon the Broadway night club district late tonight, arrested four employees of one club and seized a quantity of alleged liquor and started a check of bar padlocked Friday night.

VIEWS OF $200,000 FIRE AT GLENDALE, OREGON

Brick walls and chimneys are practically all that is left standing in the part of Glendale, Oregon, that was gutted by the disastrous blaze of July 11. Upper left, fireplace and chimney at the Harvey home. Upper right, brick chimney of a raised school building. Lower left, looking south from main street, fireplace is all that remains. Lower right, the heart of the burned district. The fire started in the meat market which stood where the smoke is now seen. In the background, the brick wall that stopped the fire's spread in that direction. Just in front of it, the bank vault.

CONVENTION WON OVER OPPOSITION

LEO N. CHILDS VICE PRESIDENT OF N. W. REALTORS

J. F. Ulrich Makes Excellent Showing in Telling Delegates About Salem

Representatives of the Salem realty board and of the Salem chamber of commerce who attended the annual meeting of the Pacific Northwest Real Estate association held at Victoria, B. C., arrived home last evening bringing the good news that the next annual meeting of the association will be held in Salem.

A number of other cities were after the 1929 meeting, but the Salem delegation put up such a fight that just before the vote was taken, it was unanimously agreed that Salem should have the next annual meeting.

According to George H. Grabenhorst, vice president of the association, Salem next year will have the honor of entertaining hundreds of leading real estate men from all the Pacific coast states, Idaho and Montana.

Salem was also signally honored in the fact that Leo N. Childs was elected vice president of the association for the year 1929 and William McGiehrst, Jr., chosen as one of the delegates to attend the national convention next year.

One of the high lights on the program came when representatives from seven cities were each allowed five minutes to speak on "My Town." J. F. Ulrich represented Salem, and although the judges awarded him third place, his address was greeted with greater applause than all other speakers combined.

Salem was awarded second honor on attendance, computed on the distance traveled and the number of members in the Realty board.

The invitation inviting the northwest real estate men to meet in Salem was presented by George H. Grabenhorst, who read telegrams from Governor L. L. Patterson, Mayor T. A. Livesley and George F. Vick, president of the chamber of commerce, and the Salem realty board.

Those who attended the convention in Salem and whose work brought the 1929 annual session to Salem were George H. Grabenhorst, Leo N. Childs, J. E. Ulrich, W. E. Hanson and C. E. Wilson.

YANKEES MAKE RECORD JAUNT AROUND WORLD

Two Globe Circlers to Fly From Minneapolis to New York Today

COMPLETE TRIP 23 DAYS

B. D. Collyer and John Mears Achieve Ambition by Effecting Fastest Journey of Kind in History

MINNEAPOLIS, July 21.—(AP)—John Henry Mears and B. D. Collyer, globe circlers, completed a non-stop flight from Spokane, Wash., when they landed at Wold Chamberlain field here tonight.

They left Spokane shortly after 7:30 a. m. Pacific coast time, and they arrived here at 7:55 p. m. central standard time.

Mears and Collyer, by landing here, cleared up doubts as to their night stop today. It had been reported that they might make Omaha, Neb., their night stop, but they were persuaded by Kenneth Smith, member of a local aviation company, to come here for the night as his guest.

Their plane will be refueled and an early morning start for New York is planned.

Leave Early Sunday Shortly after their arrival Mears announced that they intended to leave Minneapolis again at 2 a. m. Sunday for the last hop of their 25,000 mile record breaking trip. If they can get to New York by 5 p. m. Sunday, he said, they will have encircled the world in 23 days, the fastest time ever made.

Nearly 300 persons were at the airport tonight to greet the fliers. Telegrams from them stated they had left Spokane at 7:30 a. m., with a 1,500 mile flight before them and with a plane capable of cruising 115 miles an hour. It was expected that they would arrive at the Wold-Chamberlain airport about 12 hours later, or at 8:30 p. m.

Favorable winds over Montana and Dakota helped increase the speed of the plane and brought them ahead of schedule.

Long Wait Made Many persons in the crowd at the air field had waited for upwards of two hours for the plane. The plane circled the field three times before coming down. As it touched the ground, the crowd of persons rushed across the field to the plane.

Mears was taken to the Smith home where he expected to go to bed. Although having traveled 1,500 miles since dawn, he looked fresh. Pilot Collyer chose to remain for a while at the airport, although he was visibly tired from the strain of guiding the plane.

LAWYERS ATTEND MEET General Exodus to Seattle Expected to Cause Deaths

PORTLAND, July 21.—(AP)—There will be a dearth of attorneys and judges in Oregon during the coming week, due to the fact that practically all who are able will leave for Seattle to attend the 51st annual convention of the American Bar association.

More than 300 attorneys and judges from Oregon will attend George S. Shepherd, president of the Multnomah county bar association, estimated today.

DEDICATE NEW CHURCH TODAY

Presbyterians' Edifice Beautiful, Up to Date

Building Ideally Designed for Worship and Religious Education; Costs $125,000; Colonial in Design But Modern in Arrangement; Many Gifts From Members

Vacuum cleaner and dustcloth were doing their bit yesterday evening putting on the little final touches in preparation for the big day today at the First Presbyterian church. Everything was installed in its place and ready for the ceremonies of this morning and afternoon.

The big new $125,000, edifice is Colonial in design, inside and out. However the Colonial fathers would have been greatly surprised to see a church built and equipped as this one is. Colonial in design, it is, but thoroughly modern in construction and equipment, and planned to meet the needs of a modern big city church.

The section for the department of religious education is the last word in modern Sunday school accommodations. And with its social room, kitchen and kitchenettes it is equipped to hold all the social gatherings of any organization of the church. For that matter it could hold two or three at once.

All of the two score classrooms have outside light and excellent ventilation, and all of them have blackboards and other teaching materials; many of them have maps. Each class has a room to itself, where discussion may be carried on at will without fear of disturbing other classes. In short, the Sunday school department is as near ideal as could be imagined.

The church auditorium is most pleasing in appearance. The whole is simple, quiet and dignified. The pews, which will seat 500 people with ease, are of mahogany; the chancel furniture and organ chairs which will seat 100 in the balcony are of the same material. The auditorium is lighted by six large chandeliers, supplemented by six smaller ones for the balcony and choir loft. The choir and organ lofts are above and below.

LOUD CHARIVARI STAGED Newly Married Couple Find They Have Plenty of Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Glimmer, who were married in Salem July 1, have a host of friends. This they discovered, more or less to their discomfort, when they returned yesterday from their honeymoon. The friends, who were captured by them and then proceeded to stage one of the longest and noisiest charivari parades Salem has witnessed for many months.

The newly married couple were transported in a trailer, with bright lights trained on them and tin cans rattling on the pavement.

Mr. and Mrs. Glimmer will make their home at 806 North Cottage street.

HAVANA, July 21.—(AP)—A proposal for legal inoculation with cancer germs of convicts condemned to death so that the disease may be clinically studied, has received the unanimous approval of the board of national sanitation. The proposal, it was said today, now will go to congress for legislative action.

It provides that condemned men voluntarily may be inoculated with cancer germs and that thereafter they remain under observation and treatment for 12 years. Should they survive and be cured they would be free from prison.

No Limit On Funds STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., July 21.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover is in agreement with those in charge of financing his campaign for the presidency that there need be no specific limit on the amount of individual contributions. The position of the republican nominee is that the party might accept a large contribution from a person who has no axe to grind with the government, but with far greater priority than it could accept a small donation from any individual respecting some favor from the administration.

Details of financing the campaign have been left with J. R. Nutt of Cleveland, Ohio, treasurer of the national committee and his assistants. And it was stated today that Mr. Hoover had not yet been consulted as to details. Having his first full day at his California home in months, Mr. Hoover spent the morning working on his speech accepting the nomination and then conferred at length with Governor C. C. Young of California, who was his luncheon guest. Before the conference began Governor Young and the commerce secretary met the newspaper correspondents to whom the governor expressed the abiding hope that California would return a substantial majority for its adopted son in the November election.
