SWEET BUTTERMILK USED IN NEW BREAD

Gregg Brothers of Better Yet Bakery Introducing Quality Loaf

Burl and Glenn Gregg of the Better-Yet bakery on North Commercial, will today introduce to the street, will today introduce to the public Gregg's Sweet Cream Buttermilk bread, which takes its name from the patented dried sweet cream buttermilk which is used in its making and which contains from four and a half to six percent butter fat.

The bread, which was introduced in Portland two years ago by the Royal Baking company of that city, is said to have splendid keeping qualities and the toasting value is said to be unexcelled. The bread will keep fresh even in warm weather for a period of six days, says Fred L. Ward of the Royal Baking company who introduced the sweet cream buttermilk product to his company and who is taking it to other cities in the northwest.

Care is taken to make the bread as carefully as the housewife would make it herself, only the purest ingredients and best flour being used. Mr. Ward has evolved a formula for making Sweet Cream buttermilk, this being a part of the service given to the

The Gregg Brothers will make the new loaf in the long one and a half pound and in the pound sizes. In connection with its manufacture, they are installing a special tempering tank, and will install a new steam boiler later. Because the bread costs a trifle more to produce, it is costing the grocer more, but in other cities where it has been introduced the slightly greater cost has not hampered the sales, once people discover its excellent qualities.
The product is, of course, wrapped in specially designed wrappers, carrying the slogan, "Every bite is pure delight."

SUSPENDERS CAUSE SPIRIT'S SEIZURE

PARIS, July 24.—(AP)—A spirit wearing suspenders caused the latest exposure of the famous medium, Vera, whose seances in the town of Mantes-la-Jolie have drawn patrons from all parts of France.

Two skeptical newspaper correspondents are credited with the discovery that Vera's principal ghost was a husky man named Joseph Blaise, a gardener by day. Blaise resented the interference and will soon be tried for assault.

After Napoleon, Josephine, the King of Rome and several other spirits had floated through the dark room the spirit of "Mademoiselle" appeared. One of the reporters reached for her hand and found it covered with callouses.

His companion pressed the button of a flashlight and disclosed the fact that the spirit wore an ordinary pair of suspenders. In the light that followed both spirit and spectators received black eyes, cut lips and a variety of bruises.

ITALIA PROBE PROMISED

Mussolini Declares Complete Investigation Loops

ROME, July 24.—(AP)—As soon as everything humanly possible has been done to find the still missing members of the dirigible Italia, a complete investigation into all phases of the polar disaster will be made by Italy, premier Mussolini informed the council of ministers today. Such inquiry, the premier declared, "will naturally be made in Italy and by Italian personalities. Any other hypothesis is absurd and offensive and whatever it might be and wherever the proposition came from it would be immediately rejected."

The Italian premier protested against the "anti-human and anti-Italian" wave which has struck the participants in the unfortunate enterprise, and declared that definite judgment on the expedition must wait until "the drama arrived at its epilogue."

The premier was indignant in describing those who have criticized the actions of the rescued men of the Italia, saying that their utterances recalled "the miserable slackers of war time who, in cafes, in safety, without a shade of shame, spoke ill of how the battle was faring."

Jew and Arab Getting On More Friendly Terms

GENEVA, July 24.—(AP)—Relations between Arabs and Jews in Palestine are improving, says Britain's commissioner, Lieutenant Colonel Symes, but are not good enough.

Answering questions concerning the success of Jerusalem as a center for Jews scattered throughout the world, Colonel Symes said that the past few years had shown a decline in Jewish immigration into Palestine.

He said that England had put into practice the principle of self government and had achieved important progress. A civic spirit, he said, was developing, and the population appears to appreciate the value of sound organization. He described projected reforms designed to place agriculture and industry on a firmer footing.

What is believed to be a record cherry crop is reported by C. W. McFadden of Talent, who said 7772 pounds from 18 cherry trees.

POLITICAL BATTLE CENTERS IN EAST

Ivan White, Senior at Willamette, Finds Prohibition Major Issue

Oregon people who think that Hoover will have an easy time winning the presidential election, or who minimize prohibition as an issue of the campaign, are decidedly out of touch with conditions in the east, writes Ivan White, Willamette university senior who is touring the east. A letter to friends here was dated from Washington, D. C.

"The position of the republican party is not nearly so secure as most Oregonians like to regard it," White asserts. "In journeying from one group of states to another, it has come forcibly to my attention that the big battleground will be the eastern states."

"Although there is some dissatisfaction among the farmers, Hoover should carry the middle west and Pacific states, as Al Smith is not looked upon as promising any improvement to the situation.

"The south will probably remain solidly democratic, so that leaves us the Atlantic seaboard as the big question mark.

"Much to my surprise I found that prohibition is a very, very live issue with the easterners. It looks like a grand and glorious battle with the odds favoring the republican party."

In his letter White mentions discovering what a commanding position Representative Willis C. Hawley holds in the house, chairmanship of the ways and means committee ranking him second only to the speaker.

As a tennis devotee, White was disappointed in missing the major tennis tournament in the east, but was compensated for that by seeing the final Olympic games tryouts at Harvard stadium and watching Babe Ruth hit his 35th home run of the season.

TELLS OF DEATH FIGHT

Minnesota Farmer Admits He Crushed Man's Head In

DULUTH, Minn., July 24.—(AP)—A gripping death struggle the night of December 30, 1927, which ended when the skull of one participant was crushed by a sledge hammer, was revealed in a confession to police today by Andrew Anderson Loben, a farmer.

"The gruesome story was told by

Loben after police found the dismembered body of Carl A. Johnson in a barn near here.

Loben and Johnson were drinking at Johnson's farm, the confession related. A remark that he could not eat the food angered Johnson, Loben said and the host started after him with a butcher knife, later picking up an axe.

"I grabbed a hammer and hit him on the head," Loben wrote.

Loben then buried the body in some straw, he confessed, and began a gradual attempt to acquire the dead man's property.

Finding of the body and Loben's confession were the first knowledge the police had of the crime. Johnson was a bachelor and his disappearance had never been called to the attention of authorities.
