

CROPS BENEFITTED BY HOT WEATHER

Turner Woman Meets Some Friends She Had Not Seen For 50 Years

TURNER, Ore., July 25.—(Special)—Hot, yes, but watch the corn grow and several acres of Kentucky beans in Turner vicinity, also cucumbers. Picking has already begun on the Bear ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Barnett spent Sunday at F. Bears at Crawfordsville. Mrs. Barnett remained for a few days' visit with her mother.

Mrs. Eugenia Smith Cole, was a caller at the Small home Sunday.

Uncle George Burnett of Salem spent the week-end at the S. H. Baker home.

Mrs. Mary Ingles and Mrs. Therese Fancher of Yakima, Wash., spent Saturday evening with Mrs. C. A. Bear. They had been childhood friends in Iowa, and had not met for 50 years. Mrs. Mary Cammack and daughters of Rosefield, were also dinner guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Funston went to Champeong Sunday. Rev. Mickey and family of Salem were in Turner Saturday evening.

The M. E. church social and community singing led by Mrs. Mayro McKinney, Saturday evening at the Masonic hall, was a great success, as to crowd, interest shown and financially. Thirty dollars was added to the treasury.

Mrs. Sloan and daughter Miss Gladys, have returned from a two weeks' vacation.

Mrs. Parks returned this week from her six weeks' course at Mouthmouth normal.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bear entertained Sunday, the guests including Fred Brownell, a cousin from Racine, Minn., Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Stewart of Salem, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gillett of Portland and Mrs. R. M. Kiser and daughter, Miss Carol of Salem.

Mrs. Duffee and daughter, Miss Ella, Miss Olson and Miss Agnes Moore were week-end guests at the F. C. Gunning home.

Mrs. Cornelia George is spending a few days at Cottage Grove and will also visit friends in Eugene before returning home.

REV. TAYLOR TELLS OF RELIGIOUS MEET

Prohibition And World Peace Occupies Leaders From All Nations

Rev. Fred C. Taylor, pastor of the First Methodist church, who returned Tuesday evening from the World Religious Education conference held in Los Angeles, reported it as being a fine gathering. Official registration ran to the 8000 mark, and the number of people in Los Angeles who attended only part of the sessions raised the number to over 10,000.

In number of delegates, Japan led all countries outside the United States with 193 in attendance. Delegates were in attendance from all over the world, and all had interesting tales to tell.

Many sessions of the convention were held in the beautiful Shrine temple. Dr. Taylor described it as one of the most magnificent buildings he had seen.

Two of the outstanding speakers of the convention were Bishop Fred Fisher of India and Dr. Daniel Poling. Their addresses were dynamic and were well received. Many of the nationalist leaders of other countries were excellent speakers, but they were more difficult to understand.

The problem of world peace was prominent in the discussions of the conference, with the problem of prohibition running close to it. Leaders of nations all over the world are looking at the American prohibition experiment and hoping for its success. A Canadian leader told Americans to beware the reports that conditions in Canada were improved with government control of the distribution of liquor. He declared these reports false and added that conditions there were in fact worse than they had been before.

Glowing reports were made by speakers from the Philippines, Cuba and the South American republics. All were grateful for the material aid given their work by the United States.

The news of the assassination of president-elect Obregon came to the conference with special force. A representative from Mexico was addressing a large audience at the time that the press dispatches were announcing the murder. Regret was felt by all, and the Mexican group was most profoundly moved.

The next convention will be held in 1923 in Rio de Janeiro. The convention just closed was the tenth, and the first to be held in the United States for many years.

Mayor Livesley Home From Vancouver, B. C.

Mayor T. A. Livesley is in Salem again, after a trip to Vancouver, B. C. to attend to interest connected with his 600 acre hop ranch, about half of which is producing hops that will be marketed this year.

Mayor Livesley reports the British Columbia hop yield will be low this year, although his own fields he figures will bear more than last year due to increased plantings. Cold weather and rain are largely responsible for the poor showing, he says. Picking of the early or fuggie crop he expects to begin August 20.

The mayor reports the trip back to Salem the same hot weather which has prevailed here was in evidence, with it hitting Vancouver before he left.

Youth Narrowly Escapes Drowning At Silvertown

SILVERTOWN, July 25.—(Special)—While Artis Egan was attempting to learn to swim at the city pool Tuesday he narrowly escaped drowning, and probably would have had not those on shore and in the water rushed to his aid at calls for help. He was sinking for the third time when one of those who rushed to his aid managed to grab him by the hair, and in this manner pulled him unconscious, from the water.

Egan, who is employed at the Julius Allen grocery, was considerably weakened by the experience. On first entering the pool he had been tutored by two friends, who later left him to swim to the dam. While they were on their way, Egan started across the pool, with the near-fatal result.

Ice Sculptor To Appear At Hamilton's Store

Something new and novel will be in Salem for the first time this week, when "Goldie" Lightenberg, a famous ice sculptor will give a daily exhibition of his skill in the windows of the Hamilton Furniture company, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

With the thermometer acting the way it has for the past few days, it will be a pleasing diversion for the people of Salem to see this exhibition of skill with a North Pole atmosphere.

UNDULANT FEVER CASES IN OREGON

Disease Appearing in State Contracted From Aborted Cows Milk

"There have recently come to the attention of the state board of health several cases of undulant fever, a disease hitherto unknown, or at least unrecognized, in this state," says the weekly bulletin of the state board of health. It continues:

The term undulant is applied to this disease because it is characterized by waves of fever lasting a week or so alternating with periods of several days when there is no, or little fever. Undulant fever is also known as Malta fever because the disease was first observed on the island of Malta in the Mediterranean sea. There, as well as in other parts of the world where Malta fever occurred, human infection was traceable to the use of goat's milk. In this country undulant fever has been largely contracted by the use of milk from cows that had prematurely lost their young, a condition known as "contagious abortion." The few cases discovered in Oregon drank milk from cattle that were known to have aborted. The germ causing Malta fever, Bacillus Melitensis, can be distinguished only with the greatest difficulty from the germ causing contagious abortion, Bacillus Abortus.

Contagious abortion in cattle presents a serious problem not only in the health hazards offered to the consumers of raw milk, but also in the tremendous loss in dollars and cents to the dairy industry of this state. Dr. W. H. Lytle, state veterinarian, estimates that from five to ten per cent of the herds in the Willamette valley are infected with the germ causing contagious abortion, and that the loss to the dairymen is easily over one and a half million dollars annually.

Undulant fever has often been mistaken for typhoid fever, particularly where the disease has been of a mild type. Danish authorities assert that there are more cases of undulant than typhoid fever in Denmark. The number of cases of undulant fever has increased remarkably in the United States in the past year because of correct diagnosis of the disease.

The chief symptoms of the disease are loss of appetite, loss of weight, marked weakness, headache, chills, fever, profuse sweating, and frequently pain in the joints. The average duration of the illness from the onset to convalescence is three months, but cases lasting a year or longer are not at all rare. The mortality is very low. The germ may be found in the blood stream and in the urine. In suspected cases blood for the agglutination test should be submitted to the State Hygienic laboratory. All cases of undulant fever should be reported to the State Board of Health. The patient should be kept in a modified quarantine. Discharges should be disinfected, and all sanitary precautions employed in the control of intestinal diseases should be applied to undulant fever.

The existence of undulant fever in Oregon is another argument for the pasteurization of milk. In rural communities where pasteurizing plants are not available, milk from infected cows should be boiled before drinking.

G. R. CAMP SUCCESS

THREE GROUPS OF GIRLS ENJOY SANTALY OUTING

CAMP SANTALY, July 25.—(Special)—It is impossible to put into words the spirit of camaraderie, good sportsmanship and real affection which grows up among the girls of Camp Santaly, the G. R. camp on the Santiam. Everyone works as well as plays in the best of humor.

The improvements they have made in the camp are really surprising. The girls' duties are done with vim, although amid much rally until 9 o'clock inspection is called. At that time all must be in immaculate order. The short flag raising exercises following inspection put everyone in the right mood of respect for the 15 minute service which follows. In fact all the best in girls' emotions are displayed daily. It is charming to watch the way in which they attack a task which is disagreeable to them. No complaining, but the best of sportsmanship. While their pep and enthusiasm is unbounded from 6:45 a. m. to 9:30 in the evening.

The first week the grade school G. R.'s held sway. The first time they ever camped, and very good campers they proved themselves to be. The next week came the junior high school girls. If ever girls had a wonderful time they did. With one burst of last minute pep they unanimously voted to come again next year and hold a reunion. This week the senior high group is in camp. They are a splendid group of girls who are having their serious moments of study as well as play. Everyone concedes that the camp spirit at Camp Santaly these two weeks has been all that could be desired from any girls.

FRANKLIN WRITES

WU FACULTY MEMBER DESCRIBING TRIPS IN JAPAN

Word recently received from Dr. Frank G. Franklin of Willamette university, who is touring the Orient this summer, indicates that he is having an excellent and profitable journey.

His last letter tells of visiting Kobe, Osaka and other large cities in the south of Japan. The group spent a day with Kagawa, prominent Japanese philosopher who holds a position in Japan comparable to that of Gandhi in India. Kagawa invited the travelers to his settlement and gave them a comprehensive lecture on his beliefs.

An interesting part of the journey was a trip through the great inland sea in the south of Japan. This voyage was made on a tramp steamer on which there were not extensive accommodations; one feature of this trip was sleeping on the deck instead of in berths. This trip took the party to Shimoneki at the western tip of Japan.

From here the tourists went to Seoul, Korea, and from Korea they were to go to China. According to the original itinerary they were to be in Tientsin now, but Dr. Franklin intimated that they might be only to Shanghai now. He reported that the Japanese all received them very courteously, and that they had a warm welcome wherever they went.
