Query recently built a pleasure boat and installed an engine therein, the craft now being one of the outstanding attractions at Riverside Park, on the Willamette river south of this city. It is not operated for hire but for the amusement of the owners and their friends.

To Take Plane Trip—Labor Day Monday, September 3, may be several weeks away, but when one wants to be sure of taking that proposed airplane ride on Labor Day, it's not any too early to make reservations. At least so think three Salem young women, who yesterday bought tickets for the Portland-Seaside air trip which they will make that day via the West Coast plane. Those who have scheduled for the trip are Charlotte and Eugenia Zieber and Alice Cravy Brown, 600 Mason street.

Bishops Extend Trip—Salem friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Bishop, now absent on an extended automobile tour, have received word that they have altered their plans to include a visit to Banff and Lake Louise, Canada, before returning to Salem. The Bishops now are the guests of United States Senator Williams, of Montana, and have been gone from home for about ten days. They probably will return about August 18, it was stated.

Cooley Returns—Charles V. Cooley, clerk at the Senator, has returned from Medford where he went to assist at the Jackson hotel during the recent American Legion convention. Medford was a busy place those days, Cooley can attest, but what gets him is why all his friends think he was having a nice vacation. While he smiles the usual "yes" to the five-minute query, he's not so sure that working 12 and 16 hours a day was such a "nice vacation" after all.

Invited to Judge—William W. Fox, rural school supervisor and leader of the boys' and girls' club work in Marion county, yesterday received an invitation from Richard C. Kuehner, county club leader at Clackamas county, for the Marion livestock clubs to send their judging teams for practice judging at the Clackamas county fair on the first day, September 18. Jobs About Filled—The four new instructors in the high school commercial department have been practically selected. Superintendent George W. Hug said yesterday afternoon. The superintendent's recommendations will be presented to the school board at its regular meeting next Tuesday night. Mr. Hug and Merrill Davis, head of the department, have yet a number of applicants for the commercial positions, and have narrowed the field to about the number needed. Filling the vacancies in this department has been a difficult problem, with four new faces among the faculty this fall it will mean that nearly half the commercial teachers are new to the senior high. It is not unusual that a single department be faced with so many vacancies at one time.

School Work Ahead—The summer job of cleaning and making repairs to the 12 school buildings in Salem is further along now than it has ever been at this time of the year, the city superintendent said yesterday. Under the direction of G. W. Smalley head janitor, the cleaning of all the grade and junior high buildings has been practically completed, and painting has also been finished. The group of janitors working under Smalley has also done considerable calsoining, laying linoleum and other work. The work at the senior high school building is about all that remains, and this car must be completed until workmen busy in the auditorium and in other rooms have finished their jobs. Work is well under way on the painting of the window wood-work at the senior high school.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 10.—(AP)—A special dispatch received by the Des Moines Tribune Capital from Regina, Sask., today asserted that Roy Brown, Canadian pilot had returned to Le Pas, Manitoba, after a futile search for four University of Iowa students, making a geological survey for the Canadian government near Reindeer Lake, Sask. The men, led by John D. Fuller of Keokuk and including Peder Zoddum, Crystal Laké; Gordon Armstrong, Britt and Max J. Kane, Iowa City, were last heard from at the head of Reindeer lake, where they visited a trading post. It was reported at that time that the party was without sufficient supplies for an extended excursion.

GRAND LARCENY CHARGE DENIED

Cornelius Callahan Enters Plea of Not Guilty; Tells Long Story

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(AP)—After telling the district attorney that he took money belonging to his employers with the intention of helping them rather than benefiting himself, Cornelius Callahan pleaded not guilty today to an indictment charging him with grand larceny.

He is charged with stealing almost $500,000 from the Bancitaly corporation, by which he was employed as assistant secretary, and was brought back today from Montreal where he was arrested.

Callahan, who is 28 years old and had been a trusted employee of the corporation for six years, told the district attorney that more than two years ago $3,000 in cash and 200 shares of the company's stock had been stolen from his office. He was afraid, he said, that if he reported the theft he would be suspected even though he knew nothing of how the money had been stolen and so he concealed the loss, deciding to make it good himself.

Starts Speculation
With a companion, he said, he opened a bank account for speculation. When they had profits of $200,000 the companion disappeared then, Callahan said, he took checks paid for Bancitaly stock and cashed them in an effort to make enough in the market to replace the stolen stock and cash.

What Promised to be the end of at least the beginning of the chapter of a long story came as a letter to the Salem Y. M. C. A. yesterday.

Readers of the Statesman will remember a story under the heading "Who has job for this worthy man?" which appeared in these columns two weeks ago. It told of an ex-service man who had been gassed while in France, and was looking for some fairly light outdoor work in mild dry climate. A doctor had advised him to work somewhere in the western part of the United States.

Potter Writes Letter
The ex-service man, whose name was W. H. Potter, wrote to Francis J. Jones, director-general of the United States employment bureau at Washington, D. C. Mr. Jones gave the letter to R. J. Hendricks who is chairman of the Salem Y. M. C. A. employment committee, and he had it printed in the Statesman of some two weeks ago.

Yesterday a letter came to Sam Phillips, director of the local employment bureau, from Charles Renoe of Grant county. Mr. Renoe had clipped the Statesman story and enclosed it with his letter. He stated that his brother needed a man to help herd 250 turkeys on his ranch and offered compensation.

Would Increase Flock
Mr. Renoe's brother wants to increase his flock to 400 next year and wants someone to go in with him on shares in raising them next year. Mr. Renoe's letter was dated from Comstock postoffice, which he said was 15 miles from the towns of Monument and Hamilton.

The circle of this correspondence has almost been completed. It soon will be completed, for Mr. Kells said yesterday that he would mail the letter from Mr. Renoe to Mr. Potter, who then could come on to Portland to see whether he had obtained other employment or whether the turkey herding proposition suited him.

ROAD BUILDING PAID BY COUNTY WARRANT
The largest sum that has been paid by Marion county for any one month's road work since 1925 was disbursed yesterday when warrants for $96,368.48 were mailed out from the office of the Marion county clerk.

This sum covers road work of all kinds during July. It includes $11,076.33 paid for asphalt for the Standard and Union oil companies, and $10,322.69 paid various gravel companies for gravel spread on the roads. Labor was the greatest item of expense, however, most of the remaining amount being listed in that column.

Although a large number of small gravelling jobs are being done in various parts of the county, the two chief ones so far as cost is concerned are the Salem-St. Paul road and the road from Aral Corner to Bressler Corner. Asphalt jobs were done on the following roads: Silverton-Central Howell, Sublimity-Willard, Whitaker-Drift Creek Falls, Salem-Whitaker and the road from Salem past the old boys' training school.

Education to Prohibition Ideals Declared Needed

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Prohibition in this country or abroad rests its chances for success upon the education of public opinion, delegates to the institute of politics agreed today in a round table conference on the issue.

"Prohibition in America is primarily a question of respect for law," Dr. H. A. Garfield, chairman of the institute, declared.

"The Volstead act is constitutionally and the decision of the supreme court must be followed. The law can be changed, but only in the orderly manner prescribed by the constitution."

"Dr. H. A. Garfield, chairman of the round table on questions of agriculture said he believed that Canada had taken a wise course in adopting government control of liquor."

"Drink has been the greatest single curse of the English speaking people in the last 150 years," he said. "We have failed in our efforts to eradicate it in that we have not had the youth of the country with us."

Dr. Louis Pierard of Brussels, said that liquor pays heavy taxes in Belgium, and the facts that only the wealthy can afford to drink wines and liquors, has resulted in a sharp class distinction between the rich and the poor.

In Belgium, Mr. Hapgood said, the cost of liquor is high but there is one saloon to every 85 inhabitants; in Massachusetts before prohibition became effective, Mr. Warren said, there was a saloon to every 750 inhabitants.

"Congress could easily help in the solution of prohibition's problems," Mr. Hapgood declared, "by preventing the entry into this country of a flood of liquor from other shores."

"Our people will enforce the laws," Mr. Warren said, "when they get ready to do so. If we always had enforced our laws we would not be an independent nation today."

Referring to prohibition and majority rule in Sweden, Mr. Hapgood said that if the Swedish people, in referendum voted 65 per cent for prohibition.

Attorney General Puts Official O. K. On Petitions Filed
Petitions filed recently with the secretary of state looking to the organization of a Socialist-Labor party in Oregon, complied with the statutes, according to an opinion prepared by the attorney general Friday.

The attorney general held that the petitions apparently contained the signatures of more than five per cent of the legal voters as required by law. Whether these signatures are genuine is a matter to be determined by the secretary of state, the attorney general said.

The Socialist-Labor party in Oregon has endorsed candidates for president and vice president.

RECEIVERS OF FIRM SELECTED

Financial Condition of International Life Insurance Company Eyed

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Both federal and state receivers were named today for the International Life Insurance of St. Louis, whose president, Roy O. Toombs of Chicago, has been held responsible by insurance examiners for disappearance of $3,500,000 from the company's assets.

The receiverships represented conflicting moves in efforts to obtain control of the company which has more than $300,000,000 in insurance in force.

Federal Judge Reeves, at Kansas City, appointed Robert E. Daly attorney and acting head of the Missouri insurance department, and Edward P. Wilson, attorney and brother of Massey Wilson, one of the founders of the company, as receivers.

He acted on a petition filed by C. P. Long of Tupelo, Miss., a stockholder, and policy holder and J. C. Dale of Alabama, a policyholder. Long and Massey Wilson were plaintiffs in a similar suit filed in federal court here yesterday, charging Toombs with having removed and converted the missing bonds to his own use.

About an hour after the action in Kansas City, Circuit Judge Hamilton here appointed Ben C. Hyde, state superintendent of insurance, as receiver. He acted on a petition filed by C. P. Long of Tupelo, Miss., a stockholder, and policy holder and J. C. Dale of Alabama, a policyholder. Long and Massey Wilson were plaintiffs in a similar suit filed in federal court here yesterday, charging Toombs with having removed and converted the missing bonds to his own use.

The petition stated the International's capital stock was impaired, and the company was insolvent, with $41,900,000 liabilities and approximately $39,000,000 assets available.
