PLAN TO USE HOOVER HOME MEETS FAVOR

Party Leaders in Salem Say State Headquarters Should be Here

Suggestion of Ad Club to be Brought to Notice of Oregon Chairman

Support came rallying from many sources yesterday to the proposal that Herbert Hoover's Oregon campaign headquarters be established in the Salem home he occupied when a boy, following announcement Saturday morning that such a plan had been suggested by the Salem Advertising Club.

Among the first to give his approval to the plan was J. C. Ferry, chairman of the Marion county republican central committee, who suggested that as soon as the way is cleared by obtaining permission to use the house for this purpose, it be taken up with Phil Metcham, chairman of the state central committee.

Others directly connected with the Marion county republican organization who voiced their agreement with the proposal included Hal D. Saxon, chairman of the executive committee, who declared that it was a splendid idea particularly from a sentimental viewpoint and that he believed it would be practicable as well although it might be advisable to maintain a subsidiary office elsewhere.

Special enthusiasm in support of the plan was expressed by B. C. Miles, president of the Salem Hoover for President club which was active prior to the primary election. Mr. Miles is a distant relative of the republican candidate for president and was an instructor at the Newberg academy when Hoover was a student there.

Property Value Seen
Mr. Miles declared that in his opinion not enough capital has been made of the fact that Mr. Hoover lived in Salem as a boy and young man, and pointed to the nationwide publicity that West Branch, Iowa, has received because Mr. Hoover was born there.

Mr. Miles also is a native of West Branch.

The Salem chamber of commerce undoubtedly will lend its whole-hearted support to the urgent invitation which will be conveyed to the state republican central committee to establish its headquarters in Salem.

It is believed that the republican party will be able to secure the necessary funds to carry out the plan.

Al. Smith Hears Throgs Cheer Hoover Speech

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 11.—(AP)—With an interest only a rival for the presidency could have, Governor Smith turned tonight to the radio, like millions of other Americans, to follow Herbert Hoover's acceptance speech in far away California.

Newspapermen who have been in contact daily with the democratic nominee were invited to the executive mansion to listen in with him on the notification at Palo Alto, but not until they had been warned that he would have no comment whatever on his opponent's address.

The reporters expanded a family circle that included the nominee, his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, a son and daughter-in-law, the only members of the household in town for the week-end. It was agreed, at the governor's suggestion, that none would attempt to describe his reaction.

Previously Smith had indicated that later in the night, after the radio became silent, he would do some intensive work in his study at the mansion on his own acceptance speech, which he will deliver a week from Wednesday evening from the east steps of the capitol. He has formulated a rough draft, and expects to have his address in final form early next week, in time for nationwide distribution to newspapers in advance.

U. S. NOSES OUT GREAT BRITAIN IN TRACK MEET

Yankee Athletes Win Eight First Places To Six For Opponents

45,000 People Watch American Relay Team Create Big Sensation

By ALLAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
STANFORD BRIDGE FIELD, London, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The United States, with the pick of its Olympic track and field talent, barely beat a British Empire combined forces this afternoon in a meet marked by one world's record and a rapid succession of other sensational performances.

Forty-five thousand spectators, many of whom collapsed from the combined effects of the sun and the broiling sun, witnessed the triumph of the Americans by the narrow margin of eight to six, first places only figuring in the scoring.

Relay Team Features
The Yankee one-mile relay team registered the most sensational American triumph on the track when a quartet consisting of George Baird, Morgan Taylor, Ray Barbuti and Emerson Spencer covered the distance in 3 minutes 13 and 3-5 seconds, shattering the world's record by three seconds.

Taylor whose forte is hurdling, featured this race by peeling off his quarter mile in 47 2-5 seconds, equalling Ted Meredith's long standing world's mark with the aid of a running start. Spencer, running the anchor leg in 48 flat, beat his rival, Jimmy Ball of Canada, to the tape by nine yards.

Times of the other Americans in the record-busting race were 49 3-5 for Baird and 48 2-5 for Barbuti.

British Ace Does Well
The most spectacular individual performance, however, was turned in by Douglas Lowe, famous British middle distance star and Olympic 800-meter champion, who anchored two winning combinations, first in the two-mile relay and then bringing the meet to a climax in the medley relay with a slashing half-mile in one minute 21 seconds, the best of the world's half-mile record by three-fifths of a second and represented probably the finest 880 ever run with or without a running start.

So spectacular were the performances that in ten of the fourteen events, all of which were decided on a team basis, times or distances eclipsed those in the similar meet here four years ago. (Turn to page 10, please)

RUSSIANS EXCITED OVER PEACE PACT
MOSCOW, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war continued to be the theme of intense public and official interest in Russia. The statement that non-signatory powers may later adhere to the Multilateral treaty does not satisfy Soviet public opinion for several reasons.

Among them is the suggestion of humiliation to Soviet Russia in that she would be permitted simply to sign on the dotted line after the pacts had been completed. This, Russia holds, is incompatible with either her political stability or her constant efforts to advance the peace of the world.

It is generally felt in responsible circles that Germany and France, who have repeatedly assured their peaceful intentions as evidenced by the proposed Russian-French non-aggression pact as well as by restraining ambitious Poland, ought to take the initiative in giving more substantial effect to the pact at the moment of its birth by inviting Soviet union delegates.

Drinking and Immorality Laid to District Attorney's Deputies

Prohibition Officers Also Turn In Resignations Following Expose

EUGENE, Or., Aug. 11.—(AP)—As the result of a series of charges of drinking and immorality made by H. L. Lee, county jailer, against others working out of the district attorney's office here, District Attorney John S. Medley was without a staff this evening.

Gordon S. Wells, deputy district attorney, handed in his resignation today; and Jesse E. Dahiel, prohibition officer, together with Melvin Turnbull, another member of the staff, had been eliminated previously. Both turned in their deputy sheriff commissions to Sheriff Frank E. Taylor.

Jailer Backs Charges
The principal allegations in the charges are drinking and immorality, and behind these charges stands county jailer H. L. Lee, under Sheriff Frank E. Taylor; G. C. Griffith, a minister who has conducted services and ministrations for prisoners in jail; James H. Brown, a deputy sheriff; and Lyle Arnold, who assisted Mr. Lee and Mr. Griffith in their investigations.

They claim to have positive proof, supported by eye witnesses and affidavits, of specific times and places, of improper actions of the resigned officials.

Amery Gill of Salem Chosen As Head Coach

CORVALLIS, Ore., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Two coaching appointments at Oregon State college were announced by the board of control today. A. T. Gill, former head freshman basketball coach, was named as head varsity basketball mentor, and R. H. Newman, who coaches yearling football, was named to fill Gill's former position.

While in college he starred on the Maple court and was twice named for honors on all-coast teams. Newman was a basketball star at Nebraska. He will also continue as freshman football coach.

"Slats" Gill, who was yesterday made assistant coach of the Oregon state college basketball squad, graduated from Salem high school in 1920 after having starred on the local high school basketball team for several seasons and helped win the state high school championship.

With his brother "Luke," who is now assistant coach at Salem high school, Gill entered Oregon state college in the fall of 1920. He distinguished himself on the varsity hoop team as early as his sophomore year and was an important cog in the Aggie machine for three seasons.

Hoover Accepts Party Leadership In Ringing Speech

Republican Presidential Nominee, Speaking to Great Crowd of Cheering Supporters in Stanford Stadium, Makes Solemn Promise to Keep Pledges of Party Platform and Enunciates His Position on Prohibition Enforcement and Farm Relief

By JAMES L. WEST
Associated Press Staff Writer

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, STADIUM, Aug. 11.—(AP)—His voice heard around the world, Herbert Hoover today announced the principles upon which he asks the American people to send him to the White House as the third successive republican president. He reiterated his stand against repeal of the 18th amendment and the rigid enforcement of the enabling acts under it; proposed farm relief through a three-fold plan declared for religious tolerance and promised the direction of economic progress in support of the moral and spiritual progress of the nation.

As he read slowly and concisely the $500-word message accepting the nomination voted him by the Kansas City convention two months ago, the adopted son of California faced a successive array of his countrymen banded together in this huge amphitheater who received his declarations with noisy demonstrations of approval.

Hoover chose this setting, here upon the rolling campus of the university where he enrolled as a first student, and his fellow citizens responded with perhaps the greatest outpouring that ever had attended a notification ceremony in any state in the union. More than 75,000 people were gathered in the stadium, almost filling it to capacity.

Loud speakers, perched high upon a column that towered above him as he read, carried his voice to the furthest reaches of the bowl. Broadcasting apparatus transmitted his voice to more than one hundred stations in this country, a network reaching from border to border and coast to coast, while his utterances were taken across the seas on short wave lengths to Great Britain, Australia, the Hawaiian Islands, the Philippines, in fact everywhere the English language is spoken.

Stunts Precede Speech
Just as Hoover has set out to make this a rather unique campaign, so his fellow citizens of California strove to make this occasion different airplanes and brilliant daylight fireworks furnished the forerunner of the speech making.

The crowd bubbled over with enthusiasm and it gave the republican nominee a tumultuous reception as his open motor car drove into the running track. Mrs. Hoover sat beside him and joined in responding to the greetings. The official band played "I love you California."

U. S. Flags Waved
Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, who notified the candidate, and Chairman Work of the republican national committee, and other house guests, of the Hoover's entered the stadium on foot and passed into the stand almost unnoticed as the crowd glued its eyes to the nominee's motor. Small American flags were waved in unison with the music as the automobile moved at almost a snail's pace behind an escort of police.

Governor Young was presented to the audience, eight minutes ahead of scheduled time. He introduced Moses, who in a space of less than ten minutes delivered the message of the republican convention and bade Hoover go forth upon "the veritable crusade" which he had chosen to lead.

As Hoover stepped forward to place in front of the microphone, the enormous assemblage again and cheered him to the echo as (Turn to page 10, please)

He is survived by his mother, now in San Francisco, and a sister, Mrs. Fred Fleet of Klamath Falls.

M'NARY'S MEASURE ATTACKED BY BORAH

MERIDIAN, Idaho, Aug. 11.—(AP)—A ringing attack against the McNary-Haugen bill as a system which would "give the farmer no opportunity to get out of its control and yet would charge him for his imprisonment while he is in" was made here tonight by Senator William E. Borah in an address before the Meridian square.

The senator, addressing a gathering of hundreds of farmers, covered most phases of the farm situation and then switched over to a discussion of world peace, toward which he said the world would take one of its most forward steps at a conference late this month in Paris, when fourteen nations will sign the Kellogg multilateral treaty to outlaw war.

In discussion of farm problems, the senator outlined three principles which he said would extend relief to the farmer. These were protection of the home market for the farmer, adoption of a marketing scheme that would assist the farmer in marketing his produce without being robbed on the way, and a business like handling of surpluses.

To accomplish the first, he advised an adjustment of the tariff; for the second, he said that a system should be devised for controlling commission men and brokers who are handling sale of farm produce. For solution of the surplus problem he advocated a board with sufficient power to attack the problem in a business like manner and which would have a revolving fund to handle surplus.
