SOS MESSAGES RECEIVED FROM MISSING PLANE

Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer Broadcast Signals of Distress

Position Indicated As 75 Miles Off Cape Chidley, Radio Man Says

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 20.—(AP)—F. L. Hall, amateur radio operator, said today he had received six repeated SOS calls last night which he believes were sent by Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, lost aviators on a flight to Stockholm, Sweden.

The letter "R" followed the distress signal, and according to a prearranged code, this indicated the plane was 75 miles off Cape Chidley. Hall said a message was sent after the call but owing to interference he could not discern the words.

Search Begun NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The coast guard cutter Marion, on duty on Davis strait, acting under orders from Washington, will begin a search for the missing plane Greater Rockford to the eastward of Cape Chidley tomorrow. Commander Edward H. Smith radioed to the Associated Press tonight.

Hope Held Slight

NAIN, Labrador, Bowdoin Harbor, Aug. 20.—(By radio to the Associated Press)—If the missing plane Greater Rockford bearing pilot Bert Hassell and radio operator Parker Cramer is down in open water, there is no possibility of their getting ashore. Commander Edward H. MacMillan said here tonight.

Weather conditions here have been beautiful for the past few weeks with light south winds and but little sea. The weather is no so good today and a change is probably forthcoming with indicated winds from the east which will be unfavorable for the plane. If it is a seaplane, "if a land plane" Commander Donald MacMillan in charge of the Rawson field museum expedition here and Arctic explorer believes, "it is all over."

The Greater Rockford carried a land gear and was not equipped with pontoons, although the plane carried rubber life boats.

Fishermen Leaving "If they are down in the vicinity of Cape Chidley we may not hear from them for several weeks" Commander MacMillan said, "as the fishermen are now leaving in their schooners. Some of the boys are deep and efforts to walk to safety would be almost impossible for one not knowing sites of the Eskimo encampments."

Nain, Labrador, is about 325 miles south of Cape Chidley where operator Cramer is reported to have been when he sent the signal "R" at 3 o'clock central time Sunday morning. The signal "R" designated the plane was "75 miles off Cape Chidley," according to a pre-arranged schedule.

Bowdoin harbor, where Commander MacMillan and the expedition are located, is about 27 miles north of Nain, or within easy radio distance of where the Greater Rockford dispatched its final signal.

Lookout Maintained "We are keeping a sharp lookout for any signals which may come," Commander MacMillan said.

"Ice conditions on and near Labrador this year have been most unusual. We have now seen a pack of ice since June 15. Old fishermen have never seen anything like that.

"Security of any ice for footstep lends a hazard which the flyers might otherwise use in making their way to land."

WATER SURRENDERS SALEM BOY'S BODY

The body of Ward Southworth, who August 14 left notes indicating that he intended to take his own life, has been found. Funeral services are to be held in Eugene. Word to this effect reached here yesterday in a letter from Mrs. Agnes Southworth, his mother, to Mrs. O. B. Neptune of Salem. The announcement sets at rest doubts as to the actual cause. Southworth took after he wrote three notes at Green Bay, Wisconsin, and dropped out of sight. Many Salem people who had known the youth for many years expressed the opinion that he might have perpetrated a hoax and not carried out his announced intention of killing himself.

The first details of Southworth's action were learned by his mother through reading the copy of the Statesman which contained the account. She immediately wired to her brother at Chicago and a sister at Ashland, Ohio, both of whom immediately took steps to try to locate the body. It was found several days ago in the waters of Green Bay.

The suicide was the son of Dr. C. W. Southworth of Salem, who died several years ago.

Al Defends Self Against Part of Charges Levelled By William Allen White

Position As Opponent Of Immorality Is Fixed and Secure, He Says

By PAUL F. HAUPERT Associated Press Staff Writer ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 20.—(P)—Training his guns on William Allen White and other critics of his public career, Governor Smith declared tonight in the course of a detailed and lengthy review of his stand on public morality as a member of the New York assembly that his record "as an opponent of immorality is fixed and secure."

The democratic presidential nominee's statement, made public after several weeks of speculation in its preparation was aimed particularly at the Kansas editor, who recently charged that the governor, as a legislator, favored the saloon and organized vice. It also assailed the republican national committee for "openly associating itself with this personal attack," and was intended to include in its scope among others Dr. John Roach Straton, the New York Baptist minister, who has been outspoken in assaults on the governor.

Charges Held Unfair As for Mr. White, the nominee said that his editor's statements about him and his legislative record were "slandorous" and that the attack on him was "unfair, unmanly and un-American."

"I have the satisfaction, however, of knowing," Governor Smith said, "that it is not concurred in by the people of my own state who have year after year expressed confidence in me. Notwithstanding that a large part of this matter herein referred to was laid before them in the past by agents of my political enemies."

In formulating his reply to White, the governor, who on Wednesday evening formally announced his nomination, studied dozens of old legislative journals and records, and to refresh his memory examined in detail scores of proposals listed by the Kansas.

Glad to Have This Matter Out of the Whispering Stage and Put in the Open; Once and for All I Shall Meet it Now. I regard it as a relief.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Two warrants for the arrest of Tom Mix, screen cowboy, were issued at the city prosecutor's office late today following complaints sworn to by Miss Middle Miller, wife of Will Morrissey, stage and cabaret comedian.

Miss Miller, her left eye covered with a bandage, appeared alone at the prosecutor's office. Her husband, she said, was "flung" back from the booting. Mix, a slight concussion of the brain as a result.

Miss Miller reiterated previous charges that Mix made an unprovoked attack upon her husband at a house warming party given by a friend at Playa Del Rey. The specific charge in the complaints was battery.

Miss Miller admitted Morrissey had handed Mix some "left-handed compliments" before the fists began flying.

Mix, in statements issued today, denied that he had started the battle. He said he had struck Morrissey only in self-defense.

SCHUNKE WINS COUNCIL PLACE AS DARK HORSE

Six Ballots Necessary To Choose Successor To C. O. Engstrom

Thompson Springs Surprise By Resigning Post As Alderman

Edward Schunke, a "dark horse," last night was elected to fill the vacancy on the Salem city council created by the recent resignation of Carl O. Engstrom of the First ward. Six ballots were required before the councilmen finally determined upon the new member.

Schunke wasn't even nominated, but he polled one vote on the first ballot. Carl T. Pope, nominated by Alderman Hal Patton, got seven, just one less than a majority; and Phil Eiker, nominated by Alderman L. J. Simeral, received four votes.

Count Varies The count varied on each ballot, Schunke getting another vote on the third, five on the fifth and a bare majority on the eighth.

Barely had the council filled this vacancy when another bobbed up. Just as the council was about to adjourn George W. Thompson, alderman from the fifth ward who had been re-elected for a four year term, orally presented his resignation, which came as a complete surprise. His place will probably be filled at the next meeting.

Mr. Thompson is resigning for the present term only he explained. Disagreement with other members of the present council and particularly with the policies of the bridge committee, were ascribed as his reason for resigning.

Bridge Bonds Sold Barr, Conrad & Broom, Portland financial firm, was the successful bidder on the $100,000 of bridge bonds offered for sale. Its bid was a premium of $2.51 on each $1,000 worth.

Request that the city in some manner obtain assurance that Salem labor will be employed on bridge contract jobs was made by the building trades council through S. P. Davidson, who declared that only about 12 local men had been given work on the South Commercial street bridge, and that number for only a few days.

MINNESOTA STORM FATAL TO TWO MEN

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 20.—(AP)—At least two persons are known to have been killed and a score or more injured in a tornado which swept across Freeborn and Mower counties in southern Minnesota today.

Early reports told of one death and a dozen or more injuries and much property damage at Austin. An unidentified man was killed there.

Another death was near Glenville, Minn., advised from Albert Lea were to the effect that many farm homes had been destroyed south of that place.

The tornado struck a path ranging from two blocks to two and a half miles in width through the southern section of the county and through a northeasterly direction in Mower county, taking its toll in Austin, Glenville and other communities.

Disrupted telephone and telegraph service made it difficult to get a thorough check on the stricken districts, the only communication coming through Albert Lea which was not hit by the storm.

Mrs. Chris O. Hagen, a farmer's wife living near Glenville was carried for about a half mile from her farm home and dropped in a slough by the storm. She was dead when rescuers found her.

3,000 WORKERS IN CANNERIES OF SALEM NOW

Plants Here Expect To Keep Full Forces Active All Through October

Pumpkin Packing Will Begin Here Immediately After Pears Are Canned

One cannery company in Salem now is employing more than 1,000 workers in its operations. This is the Oregon Packing company, which had 951 employes on its payroll last Thursday and now is beyond the thousand mark in its plants, on Twelfth and Thirteenth streets. The Twelfth street plant is running to the limit of its capacity on pears, mostly with some Evergreen blackberries. The Thirteenth street plant is running on beans, putting in 20 hours a day; the space between being used in cleaning up.

These large forces probably will be kept going till the latter part of October—though the supply of beans is believed sure to slender off towards the latter part of the season. It is expected that there will be some beans coming to be canned up to the last of October when the pumpkin canning will begin.

Big Pumpkin Crop There will be a big pack of pumpkins; the largest ever put up here. This is the favorite source of supply for high class raw materials for the now famous Del Monte canned pumpkins, and also is the plant that is successful in the difficult art of getting a pack that will stand up in face of the most exacting demand of the consumers the world over.

There were "on the floor" yesterday for this concern about 100 tons of beans, with 15 cars to be spotted and unloaded; 200,000 pounds to the car.

At Other Canneries The Hunt cannery had yesterday about 800 employes working on pears, with some evergreen blackberries.

The Northwest cannery had about 500 workers, on pears exclusively.

The Paulus cannery is on pears and evergreen blackberries, and is promised some prunes on Saturday, and by that time the working forces will run to about 300.

The Producers cooperative cannery is working on evergreen blackberries, and making a small profit on a market which is held by a few stockholders. When in full swing, their force will be about 300. The Starr cannery is running on evergreen blackberries, with perhaps 100 people on the average.

3000 Total Employed This all means about 3000 cannery workers in Salem now; about as high a mark as ever reached in the busiest time of the early berry canning season, including cherries.

There is a wonderful sight to be witnessed in the larger canneries here, with so many busy—mostly women, on the pears and beans and berries.

During prune canning, which will begin at the end of this week, there will be a large number of women, on the pears and beans and berries.

Some of the new petite prunes, like the Coates variety, are being canned in an experimental way by a couple of the Salem plants.

LOMSKI WINS OVER SMITH OF NEWARK

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Back in the form that made him a hero among the light-heavyweights a few months ago, Leo Lomski of Aberdeen, Wash., knocked out George Smith of Newark, N. J., in the fourth round of a 10-round match at Duquesne Park tonight.
