In line with its announced policy of giving its readers the best of everything in news and features, The NEW OREGON STATESMAN has made a subscription clubbing arrangement with the PORTLAND TELEGRAM whereby subscribers will receive both newspapers for only 60c a month.

This is merely a clubbing arrangement to economize on bookkeeping and delivery expense, and the saving is given to the subscribers.

The New Oregon Statesman and the Portland Telegram will continue their own separate management and editorial policies and are in no way affiliated except in this arrangement of distributing the papers.

This special clubbing arrangement makes it possible for the people of Salem to receive a complete twenty-four hour newspaper service, morning, evening and Sunday, at little more than the regular price of each newspaper.

If you are now a subscriber to the Statesman you can receive the Portland Telegram each evening for only ten cents more a month. If you are now a subscriber to The Telegram you can receive the morning Statesman for only 15c more a month. Total cost for both papers, 60c a month.
