

In The Capitol

F. A. Elliott, state forester, went to Portland yesterday where he joined W. M. Jardine, secretary of the department of agriculture, on a trip to Cloud Cap Inn. While in that vicinity Secretary Jardine will gather data in connection with the application of private promoters to construct a tramway on Mount Hood. The application was rejected by the forestry department, and an appeal later was taken to the department of agriculture.

W. H. Fitzgerald, state industrial accident commissioner, left here yesterday for Newport and other coast cities. He will not return to Salem until September 4.

Miss Alice Putnam has returned here after two weeks spent in southern California. She visited at Los Angeles.

C. B. McCullough, state bridge engineer, will leave next week for some beach resort where he will spend his annual vacation.

John Collier, Portland attorney, was in Salem yesterday where he conducted an extradition hearing before Governor Patterson. He represented Mrs. Adeline B. Willis, who was wanted in California on a charge of grand theft.

Fred Buchtel, formerly public service commissioner but now a resident of Portland, spent yesterday in Salem. He conferred with Governor Patterson and other officials. Mr. Buchtel was accompanied by Mrs. Buchtel, who visited with friends.

Fred M. Sherry, until recently a resident of Everett, Wash., has leased a store room in the Park hotel building at the corner of Twelfth and Mill streets, where he has opened a restaurant. Mr. Sherry was accompanied here by his wife. They decided to locate in Salem after visiting a large number of other towns and cities on the Pacific coast.

Justices Harry Belt, O. P. Coshov and J. L. Hand of the state supreme court left here yesterday for Astoria where they are attending the Elks state convention. They made the trip by automobile.

Rhea Luper, state engineer, returned to Salem yesterday after a day spent in Portland where she attended a meeting of the boardholders committee of the Warm Springs irrigation district.

W. H. Wilson, formerly of Trinidad, Colo., has leased a room on the ground floor of the Park hotel building, at Mill and Twelfth streets, where he is opening a grocery store. Mrs. Wilson accompanied her husband to Salem.

George Alexander, state prohibition commissioner, spent yesterday in Portland looking after official business matters.

E. E. Bragg, member of the state industrial accident commission, will leave here Saturday by automobile for Baker and other eastern Oregon cities. Enroute home he will spend a couple of days at Bend and other central Oregon cities.

James Goodman, deputy state insurance commissioner, will leave here Saturday for Roseburg where he will spend the week-end. He will be accompanied home by Mrs. Goodman and children, who spent the past week in Roseburg visiting with Mrs. Goodman's mother.

Sam A. Kozar, secretary of state, returned here yesterday after a couple of days spent in Portland. He will leave Saturday for Astoria where he will spend the week-end. Mrs. Kozar remained in Portland where she is visiting with her mother.

William Esch and wife have returned from Newport and other beach resorts where they spent their annual vacation.

Earle Fisher, state tax commissioner, was expected to return here tomorrow from Seattle where he attended the annual tax conference. The conference was attended by tax experts from all parts of the United States and Canada.
