

JUVENILE CLUB WORK FEATURE

State Fair Board Has Plans To Give More Attention To Boys and Girls

Juvenile club work this year again will be an important phase of the Oregon state fair. This was indicated by H. C. Seymour, state club leader, in letters received by Mrs. Ella Shultz Wilson, secretary of the fair board.

"The greatest ambition along club lines of each and every club member in the state is to have an exhibit at the state fair or to be on a demonstration or judging team," Mr. Seymour said.

"The year 1927 was the greatest year for club exhibits, demonstrations, and judging teams that Oregon has ever had at our state fair, some 1500 individual club members taking part," said Mr. Seymour.

"The quality of the exhibits was of a very high standard. This is proven when the club members exhibiting in competition with their share of the ribbons. There is shown the training that these young people have in the making of real exhibits, that they know how to select and prepare an exhibit and also how to handle an exhibit as regards getting it to the fair."

"Indications over the state of Oregon for this year point to more exhibits, and as the 4th Club members always follow the club motto of making the best exhibit they will make better exhibits. Club members know that an exhibit that won first place last year at the state fair would not place this year because the quality of work is better. The state fair board is entering into club activities in a way that club people throughout the state are appreciating."

"Club Camp Elaborate" They not only provide the premiums but also maintain the club camp in the beautiful grounds. The state fair board entertains as their guests during the fair the members of the demonstration and judging teams for the two days that they are at the fair and taking part in the demonstration contests. They also entertain the two boys and two girls from each county in the state who are the outstanding club members in their respective counties.

"These young people are entertained for three days, having the opportunity of living at the club camp and coming in contact with other club members and people who are doing club work and of seeing the state fair, making a tour through the state institutions, and meeting the state officials."
