Senator Thomas Schall Of Minnesota Supports Republican Ticket

SUPERIOR, Wis., Sept. 4. (AP)—Herbert Hoover won another supporter in his campaign for the presidency of the United States when Senator Thomas Schall of Minnesota, announced today in President Coolidge's office he would support the republican ticket and predicted its ultimate victory.

In the course of a call upon the chief executive, the blind Minnesota senator said that despite his previous announcement that he would withhold endorsement of Mr. Hoover's candidacy on account of his unconvincing stand on the agricultural problem, he now regarded him as the farmer's greatest hope for sympathetic treatment by the government.

Favors Equalization Fee—Mr. Schall said he still was disappointed that the equalization fee principle for the disposal of agricultural surpluses had not been adopted in the republican platform. He added also that Mr. Hoover might have been more definite in his speech of acceptance regarding the agrarian question.

Close Vote Predicted—As far as Minnesota is concerned, Senator Schall said, the electoral contest in November would be very close, but predicted the state would go republican.

REPUBLICANS CARRY ON HARD CAMPAIGN

(Continued from page 1) 30,000, "with luck." Officially the republicans set the low mark at the 36,000 majority registered in the governorship race of 1924. The democrats, fighting an uphill battle as always, and with a modicum of help from national headquarters, take little stock in the barometer theory and are working hard. Some outside money has come to them and a few speakers, including Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, but in the main they are getting along with local talent.

They find themselves in more than the usual discomfort this year with the defection of a number of democratic voters because of the prohibition issue. One of them, Mrs. William R. Pattangall, former national committee member, not only announced her support of Hoover but is making speeches for the state and national republican tickets. Democratic leaders are concerned lest some of her followers among the women also swing away, and republicans are optimistically counting on a partial gain there.
