PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6. (AP)—Max "Boo Hoo" Hoff, sportsman, with a stable of prize fighters, was alleged, in a statement made by Edward S. Goldberg, proprietor of the Military Sales company, to District Attorney John Monaghan, to have been the purchaser of machine guns and bullet-proof vests such as are used in gang shootings and bootleg activities.

Similar weapons and vests were used in gangster warfare and the liquor racket now under investigation by the grand jury, the prosecutor declared. He said he regarded Goldberg's signed statement as "highly important in linking Hoff with underworld activities."

Goldberg told the grand jury yesterday he did not know who had bought the weapons, and he was arrested on a charge of perjury. Today he informed the district attorney he was ready to tell all.

"Goldberg said he had lied at first because he was afraid to tell the truth," said Assistant District Attorney Schofield.

Goldberg was at liberty tonight under $10,000 bail, after a preliminary hearing on the perjury charge.

Mr. Monaghan announced that documents seized by his office indicate that Philadelphia was one of the "pivotal points" for the distribution of alcohol throughout the country. He said that 350,000 gallons of grain alcohol had been diverted the last two years from one Philadelphia distillery.

REMARKABLE FILM EXHIBITED HERE
One of the most remarkable motion pictures produced in this age was recently given a preview here at which Governor Paterson, State Engineer Luper, Superintendent of Education Howard, and others prominent in the city and state were present. This picture showed the great St. Francis dam disaster in California, which last March took a heavy toll in life and property.

The film, prepared by the Fisher Productions company, of which Nat Fisher is president, was remarkable in many ways, showing as it did not only the cause of the tragic break in the big dam, but the terrifying effects of such an inundation. Incidentally it was used as evidence at the coroner's inquest into the disaster, this being the first time, so far as known, that a motion picture has been given such distinction. It was shown at the Oregon theatre here, those present attending by special invitation from Mr. Fisher, who was present and gave a brief, explanatory lecture prior to the pre-view.

It is planned to release this remarkable film, said Mr. Fisher, in the near future. Meanwhile, he has received complimentary letters from hundreds of prominent persons to whom the picture has been exhibited.

PILOT IS KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Huge Machine Dives Into River, Illinois; 4 Passengers Hurt

ROCKFORD, Ill., Sept. 6. (AP)—M. E. Headley, world war lieutenant in the 28th pursuit squadron, A. E. F., and pilot of the Stinson-Detroit monoplane of the Packard Electric company, Warren, Ohio, was killed today when the ship dived into the Rock river. Four passengers, all Rockford men, were injured in the crash.

The accident occurred near the place where Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer crashed on the first hop off on their ill-fated flight to Greenland. Headley's plane was a sister ship to Hassell's greater Rockford.

The injured are: Charles Ivos, skull fractured, internal injuries, right leg broken, probably will die; Horace H. Tuck, broken ribs badly bruised; Dean Pringle, broken jaw and shocked; Paul Charn, badly bruised.

Headley was flying at an altitude of 200 feet when the motor failed. The pilot attempted to make an emergency landing but the ship crashed into an electric wire and toppled into the river. Rescuers worked half an hour before they freed the injured.

At first reported dead but later safe in Rockford were N. A. Wolcott, president of the company which owned the ship and B. N. MacGregor, salesman, both of Warren, Ohio.

They had been accompanying Headley on a 10,000 mile reliability tour of the United States, with an itinerary of 31 cities. The flight, which began August 6 at Warren, was to establish a record for commercial flying.

Coeds Drive Men From University, President Says
CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Co-eds at Northwestern university are driving young men away from the institution, it was admitted today by President Walter Dill Scott.

The situation has become so serious that President Scott announced that hereafter only women ranking in the upper one-fourth of their high school classes would be allowed to apply for admittance.

Trustees want to keep the university co-educational, but they say men won't attend a "women's school."

It is planned to release this remarkable film, said Mr. Fisher, in the near future. Meanwhile, he has received complimentary letters from hundreds of prominent persons to whom the picture has been exhibited.
