LEAGUE LAUDS PEACE METHOD

Speakers at Geneva Praise Relations Between U. S. and Canada

GENEVA, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Plain speaking on war and peace, on the meaning of the Kellogg pact and on the need for disarmament characterized today's session of the assembly of the league of nations.

Hermann Mueller, socialist chancellor of Germany; Nicholas Politis, a brilliant legal light of Greece; and Mineichiro Adachi, Japanese ambassador to France, led the delegates of fifty nations into storms of applause as they eloquently pictured dire results that might follow acts of international injustice.

Premier MacKenzie King, of Canada, achieved a striking personal success when, in simple, but potent phrases, he held up as an example for the world the long and untroubled reign of peace between Canada and the United States.

Assembly Applauded Spontaneous applause occurred at striking passages of the speech. Even Chancellor Mueller of Germany, who has delivered an important address ahead of premier King, failed to arouse equal enthusiasm. The assembly seemed particularly impressed by the declaration that the 3,000 miles of Canadian-American frontier symbolizes renunciation of war just as the Kellogg pact does.

The Canadian statesman said that the Dominion's budget did not contain a single dollar which could be attributed to fear of aggression by the United States. Several delegates hailed the century-old Anglo-American agreement whereby competitive armaments between Canada and the United States is prevented, as a treaty which might well be taken into consideration as a basis for curbing armaments throughout the world.

German Gives Warning—Disarmament must come for the league of nations will be a failure, was a striking sentiment expressed by Chancellor Mueller. He followed this with a plain warning that Germany could not go on indefinitely under the limitations of armament imposed on her by the Versailles treaty while other countries were permitted to build up their land, sea, and air forces. He warned, too, that the method by which the league handles the problems of minorities in the several European states which shelter alien strata of populations, will have much effect upon the eventual life or death of peace.

But conditions never were less favorable for war, he added, and he gave hearty approval to the Kellogg-Briand pact on behalf of his government.

MRS. GLADYS BROWN, 715 First National bank building, said: "I think a college education is a good thing, whether the girl is going to be a housewife or to be in the business world. That is, if it is used properly."

FRANCES GRAHAM, waitress at the Gray Belle, said: "I think every young person should obtain a college education if at all possible for he is sure to derive some benefit, otherwise unobtainable, from the course."

TURFIELD SCHINDLER, graduate of Willamette university and teacher at Cloverdale union high school, said: "When they graduate from high school they think they know everything. It takes a college education to make them know practically nothing."

BOURBONS HERE MR. HOOVER HITS BACK AT BOURBONS

PORTLAND, Ore. Sept. 7.—(AP)—A movement to bring Governor Alfred E. Smith to Oregon following his Rocky Mountain trip has been set on foot here by the democratic state committee. W. C. Culbertson, state chairman, has urged the candidate to visit Oregon, assuring him that a visit here will place the state in the democratic column.

The Oregon Smith for president club today sent the following telegram to John J. Raskob, chairman of the national democratic committee:

"We feel hopeful of carrying Oregon for Smith and Robinson and feel that to have Oregon placed on Governor Smith's western itinerary would make it sure. A trip through Washington, Oregon and California would take but little more time and would bring results."

Press dispatches state that Smith will visit Helena, Mont. "It is but a short jaunt from Helena to Portland," said John A. Smith, treasurer of the club, and we hope to prevail on the national committee to have the governor come here.

Wired J. Bruce Kraemer, Butte, number of the advisory board of the national campaign committee to urge the governor to come to Oregon.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover, took his first shot today at the democratic opposition, declaring that the signing of the Kellogg-Briand treaty renouncing war, coupled with the naval limitations treaty and the Dawes reparations settlement, constituted a complete answer to the statements of the democratic platform that the republican administration had contributed little to the cause of world peace.

Making his first departure from the custom of not permitting his statements in press conferences to be quoted, the republican presidential candidate declared that "these three contributions point to this administration as having accomplished the greatest steps toward international peace made by any country since the signing of the peace treaty ending the great war."

"The democratic national platform attempts to convey the impression that no accomplishment has been made by the republican administration in the advancement of world peace," Hoover said.

"The arrival home of Secretary Kellogg after the signing of his great treaty for the renunciation of war at once demonstrates that this is not the case. Secretary Kellogg has accomplished a magnificent step toward world peace by the renunciation of recourse to war for the solution of international controversies."

"The early return of Secretary Hughes also brings to mind the tremendous accomplishments of the Washington arms conference."

CHICHESTERS NEW HIKING CLUB HERE—A hiking club for Salem was started Friday night with the suggested name of "Chikeketans" at the dinner of the party that climbed Mount Hood August 5. Fifty members of the party indicated their desire to be charter members of the club. Several reels of pictures of the mountain were shown after the dinner.

Familiar figures were seen struggling up the steep slopes of the mountain. The long string of slowly moving persons with expressions registering great physical exertion was in great contrast with the joyful group gathered in front of the lookout tower on top of the mountain.

Ray Conway of Portland, guide for the climb, showed pictures of the movement of glaciers and lava flows. His airplane views of Mount Hood gave the party a different idea of what they had been over.

Mr. and Mrs. Conway, Dr. William DeKleine, and Harry Conway were guests of honor at the dinner. A first aid packet was given to Mr. Conway as a token of appreciation by the members of the party. Miss Roberta Morton gave several musical selections.

Dr. D. B. Hill, who showed the pictures of the climb also showed pictures of the Silver Creek Falls country to arouse interest in the hike planned to the falls September 23.

Joseph Lambert, wanted on a felony charge in Idaho was arrested in Vernonia, where he had been employed by clumbia county since June 21.

The boys are said to have admitted entering the home of Harry Hutton, Salem fire chief, 642 Perry street, and the warehouse of the Willamette Grocery company. At the Hutton residence they took some cigarettes and two cents in cash. A quantity of malted milk was stolen from the warehouse. Both of these thefts occurred late Thursday. Other robberies are believed to be traceable to the trio.

The homes of George W. Johnson 445 East Myers street, and E. L. Stow, 2505 East Wilson, also were entered Thursday night. Cash and various articles, including jewelry, were taken to the approximate value of $150.

Heavy Tax Bill—SANFORD, Me.—Orin F. Wallace must pay a two-cent tax. Hens up to the number of 50 are exempt from taxation. But Orrin had 51 when the assessors called.

PROHIBITION IN CANADA ABSURD

Salem Attorney Tells What Uncontrolled "Control" Really Is Like

Well meaning persons who clamor for "government control" of intoxicating liquor in the belief that it would put an end to bootlegging and other deplorable phases of the prohibition problem in the United States would do well to visit British Columbia and find out just what the supposedly ideal conditions under government control actually are, declared Carl T. Pope, Salem attorney, yesterday following his return from a trip to Vancouver, Victoria and other places in western Canada.

Drinking is so prevalent in the two principal cities of British Columbia that at any time of the day or night, it is the unusual thing not to be in sight of one or more drunken persons, said Mr. Pope; and while he didn't investigate and has no personal knowledge on the subject, he was informed that bootlegging is more prevalent there than in the United States.

"Control" Plan—Under the "government control" plan liquor is supposed to be sold to persons holding permits, which cost $2 each—with no limit on the amount, but with the proviso that it shall not be consumed in public.

But vast quantities of illicit liquor are also sold, according to the information Mr. Pope was given. Bootlegging was because persons declined to obey the law, would rather purchase from bootlegger than pay for a permit.

And while the government sold liquor is not supposed to be drunk in public, drinking is seen on the boats, in the hotels, and the fact that drinking is going on is thinly disguised everywhere. In restaurants, cafes and eating houses of every kind, there are invariably booths with curtains which conceal the patrons. Behind the curtains much drinking goes on, betrayed by sounds which are unmistakable.

No Arrests Made—No effort is made to arrest inebriates, and as a matter of fact, there seem to be few policemen on duty in any of the British Columbia cities.
