OLD MAN PAR BEATEN BADLY

Don Moe of Portland Tied for Sixth Place in Preliminary Round

By ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
BRAE BURN COUNTRY CLUB, Newton, Mass., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Old man par, figured to outpoint the boys without much trouble in the battle of Brae Burn, took two solid wallops on the chin and the long count before the opening day's skirmish was finished.

They were administered by George Voigt, of New York, who was good enough to qualify in last year's tournament, and Harrison (Jimmy) Johnston, the Minneapolis veteran, who specializes in quick getaways.

Pair Make Record
While the galleries flocked after the game's most conspicuous figures, Johnston and Voigt turned in two of the best performances this ancient course has ever witnessed. Their marks stand as a record for the new championship course, lengthened to a distance of 6,842 yards and correspondingly toughened. They are only two strokes short of the all time record for Brae Burn, a 69 turned in by Bob Gorton of the home club, who needed 76 to cover the revamped layout today.

While Bobby Jones, the defending champion, among a lot of others, was having his troubles and forced to rely on do as well as 77, six strokes back of the pace setters, par was subjected to a lot more punishment than the experts had expected.

Canadian Does Well
The old man was held to a draw by C. Ross Somerville, sharpshooting Canadian champion, whose fine 72 gave him third place, a stroke in front of George Von Elm, the Detroit star who is regarded as an outstanding title threat. Von Elm, who missed a six-footer on the home green for a perfect round, shared the fourth position with a dark horse from the Chicago district, D. J. Armstrong, of Aurora, Ill., each with 73. Behind them came Don Moe, of Portland, Ore., and Fred Wright of Boston each with 74.

Bobby Not So Good
Jones gave his backers a scare when he struggled around the first nine in exactly 40 strokes, five over par. The champion, badly off his game through this stretch, was slicing his shots, particularly from the tee, with astonishing regularity; it was far from the customary brand of Jones golf but it didn't last. Bobby took a new lease of life after making the turn and dazzled his gallery by coming home in 27, exactly par. But for a few tough breaks on the green, where he was missing the cup by inches on several occasions, he would have done considerably better.

Willing May Drop Out
With indications that it would take scores of at least 158 or better to qualify in the championship flight tomorrow, the border line of around 80 and beyond revealed a number of prospective casualties, including such stars as Watts Gunn, Chick Evans, Jesse Guilford, Dr. O. F. Willing, T. A. Torrance of the British contingent, Roland MacKenzie and S. Davidson Heron.

Evans, Gunn and Guilford all required 80 strokes, along with the 1927 British champion, Dr. William Tweddell, and all must improve if they are to escape elimination tomorrow. Gunn blew his chances for a good score by taking three putts on five greens. Dr. Willing and Torrance, with 83 each and MacKenzie with a dismal 88, appeared likely to fade out of the picture.

SENATORS HOPEFUL DESPITE WILD GAME

Not disheartened in the least by their defeat at Bend Sunday 16 to 12, the Salem Senators came home confident that they would reverse proceedings when the Bend Eagles come here next Sunday.

With both teams poring over the ball freely, the game at Bend was a wild affair, members of the Salem team reported. The Senators scored four runs in the first inning, but Bend came back and got five. The Eagles also got five more in the second, but by the end of the sixth were ahead only one run, 11 to 10, the Senators having gradually overcome most of their lead.

In the seventh the Eagles scored three more, and the Senators scored two runs in the eighth. Three times Salem had opportunities to prevent Bend scores by making double plays, and each time the throw to first base was a little wild.

Two Bend runs were scored when Rentfrew, second baseman, tried to dodge a wild pitch and the ball bounced off his bat, back of his shoulder, for a two bagger.

How much carbon? What kind?

Answers to these questions about OILS explain many motor troubles

You know, of course, that carbon causes motor trouble. Hard layers build up in your motor, cause knocks and engine strain. Flakes chip off and hold valves open to waste power, to burn stems. Abrasive bits grind through the motor's moving parts.

What you may not know is that this gritty, coke-like carbon comes from burned oil. And the carbon problem has steadily grown more serious. Today's high-compression motors won't stand even a thin layer of hard carbon.

With this in mind two new and vital questions arise. How much carbon does your oil form? What in one particular oil there has been a startling improvement.

Only a little—and soft, sooty carbon Shell Motor Oil, refined in special new high-vacuum stills, actually forms only 1/3 to 1/5 as much carbon as even the costliest oils! No other oil leaves so little. And the carbon it does form is fluffy, soot-like, blows easily away through the exhaust.

The new Shell process produces an amazingly fine lubricant. Smooth, sturdy, heat-resisting. Old-style stills literally "scorch" oils in refining—weaken them before you buy them. Shell Motor Oil comes to you full-bodied, able to stand heat and abuse that would ruin ordinary oils. It saves you the destructive damage of flint-carbon. Truly it can "add thousands of miles to the life of your car."

Refill with Shell Motor Oil. Buy it whenever you need an extra quart. Yellow and red Shell signs will guide you to it.

A word about the newer models
Today's high-compression motors, with as little as 1/32 inch "clearance" between piston and cylinder head, have no room for hard carbon. A thin layer will cause trouble. Shell Motor Oil, forming less carbon, soft carbon, is almost essential to proper performance in such cars.

Examine a sample of carbon from one of your spark plugs. Shell Motor Oil forms only 1/3 to 1/5 the carbon of even the costliest oils—and soft, soot-like carbon that easily blows away through the exhaust.

Four waste oil on a pane of glass—you'll see bits of metal "filings" from your motor's moving parts. And "dirt"—gritty black carbon that causes wear!

SHELL MOTOR OIL

Shell 400, the new "dry" gas that explodes cleanly and keeps out of the crankcase, is the ideal running mate for Shell Motor Oil. Even Shell Motor Oil can be ruined by "thinning" with a "wet" gas
