Governor to Wait Until Whole State Affected Before Lifting Ban.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Rain reduced or eliminated the fire hazard in many Oregon forests today, but it was announced by the state game commission officers in Portland that Governor Patterson did not wish to lift his edict against hunting until all the forests have been made safe.

"The governor is unwilling to open the deer season in one part of the state while it remains closed in another," the commission officers said. "It is sufficient to make hunting safe in western Oregon but the hazard still remains east of the Cascades." Forster C. M. Graner said, "I would prefer to raise the ban on all the 14 national forests at the same time."

Storm Traced

The movement of the storm which brought relief to at least part of the state was followed slowly during the day. The storm was first hinted at in falling barometers off the coast Sunday. Monday, also, the barometer was active, and then Monday night the decided change.

Weather Forecaster

We'll state that apparently the storm centered near Queen Charlotte island, on the edge of the Gulf of Alaska. The low pressure in that district swung the wind to a southerly direction, the air rushing towards the storm.

Cale Shifts to West

As these winds came to the storm moving outward from the area of low pressure, the winds in Oregon, Washington and British Columbia shifted to westerly and southwesterly.

"Thus the storm moved inland from the coast striking the Oregon coast at most places at about 5 o'clock yesterday morning. Between 8 and 9 a. m. having surmounted the coast range, it passed across the Willamette valley."

'COSSACKS' PROVES THRILLING PICTURE

John Gilbert, starring in "The Cossacks" which showed for the first time Tuesday at the Elsinore, is at his best and this fine picture is one that is being acclaimed by many as a real masterpiece. Taking the part of Lukaska, the son of Aloman, of Yernak, the leader of the fighting Cossacks, Gilbert is at first the carefree, happy lover, but because of the ridicule and jeers inflicted upon him by the entire village including Maryana, his sweetheart of childhood days, he is transformed into the hardest fighting of the Cossacks of Yernak, and becomes the leader of the group at the death of his father.

Renee Adoree takes the part of Maryana, the peasant girl with whom Lukaska is in love, and Renee is most lovely as the peasant maid.

Ernest Torrence takes the part of Aloman, the leader of the Yernaks, and through the entire play does splendidly.

"The Knights of the Air, a picture recently made commemorating the anniversary of Colonel Charles Lindbergh's arrival in Paris, also being shown at the Elsinore. This picture gives pictorially the history of aviation in the world and the progress made in the last 25 years.

On the stage the Fanchon and Marco offering "The Trip to Mars" idea is still pleasing the audiences. This colorful production is one of the best Fanchon and Marco offerings in Salem for some time. John and Harriet Griffith do much fine dancing and with the couple Huff and Hunt feature the Fanchon and Marco presentation making the adagio teams. This couple is really splendid.—RUTH FISHER NOLLAN.

CARNES IS INDICTED FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

ATLANTA, Sept. 11.—(AP)—An indictment charging embezzlement of $69,000, was returned by the Fulton county grand jury today against Clinton S. Carnes, missing treasurer of the Home Mission board of the southern Baptist convention.

The indictment, which did not describe funds alleged to have been embezzled, was returned a few hours after the grand jury began its investigation of the affairs of the missing Atlanta man, whose books indicate a shortage of $800,000 to $1,000,000 officials said. Solicitor General John Boykin said additional true bills would be sought. Carnes disappeared August 15 and has not been heard from since.

Thomas Scott, one of the receivers for Carnes properties, an Atlanta attorney at one time employed by Carnes, was among those to appear before the grand jury. Mr. Scott, before testifying before the grand jury, said a secret set of books maintained by Carnes showed that the Mission board treasurer had advanced about $12,000 in behalf of two girls seeking motion picture careers in Hollywood.

YOUNG GIRL TRICKED BY BOOTLEG GANG

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11.—(AP)—District Attorney Monaghan who is conducting the grand jury investigation of bootleggers and gangster shootings, said today that a 23-year-old girl had been tricked into signing papers which caused her name to appear as the "owner" of a distillery.

The young woman, Miss Anna Cooney, a stenographer in a lawyer's office, was before the grand jury for an hour today and was also questioned in the prosecutor's office. The distillery with which her name was connected as owner, was closed some time ago by prohibition agents. She was formerly employed by the company.

The distillery in question, the prosecutor declared, had disposed of about 350,000 gallons of alcohol which found its way into bootleg channels.

Mayor Mackey announced tonight that he was going to make his own investigation of the police force, some members of which were alleged to have accepted bribes from the rum king, and "take such action as may appear necessary."

WHAT THEY THINK

the buses operate as regularly as the cars did; at least they pass here as regularly. They are safer for the rider does not have to walk out in the street to get on.

R. R. LYONS, manager of the Montgomery Ward & company store in Salem, said: "When a fellow is hurrying to finish his breakfast with one ear cocked to hear the rattle of the approaching bus, then he wishes street cars were still in use, for they can be heard much farther away. On the other hand, if he's a motorist, he finds that the buses get in his road much oftener than the street cars."

CORVALLIS, Ore., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Dr. Clair V. Under his direction a comprehensive campus athletic program will be instituted and the instructional work in the department will be under his supervision. He is expected to arrive September 20.

Open Revolt Marks Meet Of Democrats in Texas

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Amid the wildest scenes that ever marked a democratic meeting in Texas, delegates refusing to endorse the presidential candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York bolted the state democratic convention here today and organized a separate convention of their own in the blazing sun on the steps of fair park auditorium, where the regulars met.

Many of the state's most prominent political leaders swung their fists in a free-for-all fight that occurred when former Governor Oscar Colquitt, avowed anti-Smithite, sprang to his feet a few minutes after the convention opened and shouted:

"Let all loyal democrats retire." Fists Begin to Fly

Eyes were blackened and noses bled as the insurgents, trooping from the hall amid jeers and shouts of "get out, republicans," attempted to snatch standards from delegations of loyalists. Uniformed officers broke up a half dozen meetings before order finally was restored and the Hooverites repaired to their meeting place on the front steps.

The bolt was precipitated when a motion was introduced demanding that only those delegations loyal to Governor Smith be seated. The motion was an anti-climax to the action of the state executive committee yesterday when anti-Smith delegations from five counties were notified they would not be seated in the convention. It has been "open season" for insurgents for two days.

Mr. Love Made Chairman

Meeting apart from the regular democratic group, the Hooverites elected former State Senator Thomas B. Love temporary chairman, named committees and listened to general addresses before adjourning their rump convention and leaving direction of their future activities in the hands of an executive committee headed by Alvin S. Moody of Houston.

Both Love and Colquitt addressed the bolters, telling them to go to their homes and "prepare for the fight." A set of resolutions adopted by the Hooverites branded the nomination of Governor Smith as "an unfortunate error" and condemned the "high-handed and lawless methods of the regular convention."

The voluntary retirement of the delegates opposed to the democratic nominee left the loyal forces free to elect officers, frame their platform and attend to routine business without prospect of further interruptions. Before adjourning for noon recess the regulars heard an address by Myron Blalock, temporary chairman, and appointed committees on resolutions and platforms.

The funeral procession, one of the largest ever held in Salem, all state officers being in attendance, followed and a battalion of Portland and Salem troops escorted the body. This was followed by many cars with the family, relatives and friends.

Services at the mausoleum were brief, Chaplain Gilbert reading the commitment service followed by the firing of three volleys. "Taps" was sounded and the last tribute that could be paid by his fellow comrades had been completed for Major Charles Bolton Hamble.
