Border States Hanging in Balance As Both Parties Launch Their Campaigns

By D. FIELD BRITTE

Associate Press Staff Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 18.—(AP)—The border states, coveted prizes in every presidential campaign because some of them at times display a willingness to trade old political raiment for new, are preparing to choose between Smith and Hoover, fully alive to their importance.

In the strip along the edge of the "Solid South" 70 electoral votes are at stake in West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Some of them belong normally to one party or the other but neither democrat nor republican now is recognizing the other's right to claim any state without a struggle. Even in Arkansas, home of Senator Robinson, democratic vice-presidential nominee, the republicans are active, but they do not frighten the democrats.

Issues Are Drawn
Throughout the six states the issues of prohibition and religion run a parallel course, across both parties in spots, with farm relief and other questions assuming importance according to locality.

But whatever the issues, the republicans are particularly anxious to make a victorious sweep along the border between north and south. They now earnestly claim a small republican West Virginia, normally democratic Kentucky and Tennessee and tickle Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

While conceding nothing, the democrats are finding their hardest fights in Kentucky, Tennessee and Oklahoma, and they are as optimistic as they are about Missouri, where they count on the wet St. Louis and Kansas City vote of both parties for Smith.

Woman Leader Backs Hoover
They are working hard also in West Virginia to overcome the effect of such defections as that of Mrs. Frank N. Mann, former democratic national committee woman, who has done much talking against Smith. As for Arkansas, the democrats count it already in the Smith-Robinson column.

In most of these states the Catholicism of Governor Smith runs along in the lead with prohibition as the deciding factor among the voters. In all of them anti-Smith movements for one reason or another have been launched, and republican organizers, particularly among the women, have been quick to take advantage. Republican headquarters readily admit that Hoover has lost some support here and here but they insist that for every strayed republican they have gained a Hoover.

Counter Drive Launched
To combat what he describes as a deluge of literature circulating about the state attacking Smith because of his religion, Barkley is distributing pamphlets to assure democrats that the governor's faith is nothing to be feared. He declares the anti-Smith literature is "naughty" and "appalling" in its appeal to intolerance and he is endeavoring to locate its source. Some of the material he declared, shipped through the state by truck and placed near mail boxes where farmers will find it, and distributed from house to house by strangers.

can they have one or more democratic anti-Smith votes.

Kentucky Hangs in Balance
Kentucky is as keenly contested a field perhaps as exists in this border area. Gaining the jump in perfecting their organization, the republicans have based wound resulting from the primary fight and at his early date they predict winning majorities ranging from 40,000 to 70,000. They now hold only three of the eleven congressional seats but they declare the final count in November likely to give them three or four more.

A dominantly protestant state, Kentucky is hearing a great deal one way or the other about Catholicism. That question is undeniably sending some democratic votes to Hoover, but Senator Barkley is of the opinion that such issues will be made up by those republicans who prefer Smith to Hoover and those who will vote for Smith in protest against intolerance.

STROPPING IS ESSENTIAL TO THE PERFECT SHAVE

You'd be FIRED

If you were a barber and used an unstropped blade

IN every barber shop in the world, since shaving first began, every barber has stropped his blades before each shave he gave. That is because after the first shave no blade that has not been properly stropped is in fit condition to touch your face. It is absolutely essential that the rough, jagged needle points of the cutting edge be smoothed out and re-aligned.

You can do this in a jiffy with the new Valet AutoStrop Razor—the only razor with an automatic stropping device which quickly sharpens the blade without removing from the holder.

But that's not its only advantage. Twenty-one years of research and the expenditure of over $1,000,000 have resulted in many distinctive improvements which make this really different razor even better than before.

With the new Valette-processed blades it is a marvel of shaving ease. Try the new Valet AutoStrop Razor. You'll quickly learn to like it. And never again, as long as you live, will you shave with an unstropped blade.

Beautifully finished models complete with blades and an improved strap in handsome cases at $1.00 to $2.50.
