Gets New Station—Local radio fans have reported a new station on the air this week, the first program being heard Wednesday. The station has a wavelength of 365 and is known as WHXAL. It is located at Mason, Ohio.

Boys Put On Map—More than 25 members of the boys' and junior division of the Salem Y. M. C. A. have put themselves on the map in the office of Win Wolfe, boys' director, by sticking up pins to indicate their homes.

"Y" President Away—Harold Sheehar, president of the Willamette university Y. M. C. A., went to Portland Friday afternoon to attend a meeting of the northwest council of the student Christian associations. He will return to Salem Sunday evening.

No Loss In Fire—Paper and kindling on the floor in the basement of the William Watkins home, 1078 North Capitol street, caught fire from the furnace Friday afternoon. The fire department was called and the fire put out before it had caused any damage.

Littler On Radio—Robert Littler, former Salem young man, was heard by a number of townspeople last night over KYA at San Francisco. Mr. Littler spoke at 9 o'clock, telling reasons he believed valid for the election of Hoover. Littler is taking advanced work at Stanford university.

Former Resident Here—Ray Richardson, a former resident of Salem and associated with the Johnson mortuary, a number of years ago, was in this city Wednesday and Thursday to renew old acquaintances. Mr. Richardson, who is now in the undertaking business in San Luis Obispo, California, was on his way to Kansas City to attend the national convention of funeral directors.

Has Boys' Magazine—Harold Knutson specializes in boys and their interests. Consequently he is on the road for the Hayden Blair-Carlisch company of Kansas City which is a firm publishing a syndicated magazine devoted entirely to boys and boy affairs. The organ is circulated locally through Bishop's, and Mr. Knutson, while in the city Thursday, was the guest of Robert Paulus who supervises the boys' club activity of the Bishop store.

Wants New Schedule—Citing as reasons the fact that the rain making the school grounds impossible as playgrounds and that the indoor playing floors are far inadequate, the janitors could do more day-to-day work and that newboys could not need the last two periods of school, Mrs. LaMoine R. Clark, principal, and her corps of teachers have petitioned the city superintendent to allow a new time schedule for Leslie junior high school.

Taylor's Visit O. A. C.—The Rev. and Mrs. Fred C. Taylor of the First Methodist church of this city motored to Corvallis Friday to attend the convocation services held there. Bishop Arthur Lewis of the Portland area for the Methodist church made the principal address of the occasion. He spoke on the relation of the Pacific coast to the Orient. Governor Patterson, Secretary of State Hays and members of the O. A. C. board of regents occupied places of honor on the platform.

Sophomores Meet—The sophomore class of the senior high school held its first meeting of the year Friday morning, when Barney Cameron, student body president, Principal J. C. Nelson, Harold Simpson, yell leader, Phil Bell and Joe King, presidents of the two preceding sophomore classes, and Miss Cecil McKercher, class adviser, talked to them on class school ideals, and helped to reahnt them with high school life. The first-year high school class will hold its elections Monday.

Chooses Assistants—Senior high school faculty members who will assist Miss Lella Johnson, advisor of the Snikpoh dramatic society, in the presentation of one-act plays this year are: Miss Leah Ross, Mrs. Bernice Duncan, Mrs. Grace Hockett, Miss Cecil McKercher, Miss Erlene Speck and Norborne Berkeley. The Snikpohs plan to give a number of one-act plays before the student assembly, one of the departures in enlarging the scope and membership of the group.

Sends Home Rally—The "W" club, intergroup organization at Willamette university, had charge of the chapel program at the university Friday. After a short meeting in the chapel, the students went to the grandstand for a practice of songs and yells. Frances McGivra, song queen, had charge of the grandstand program. Dr. Doney and Coach Keene both gave short talks to the student body.

Japanese Pastor Moving—The Rev. and Mrs. Y. Noriura, who recently came to this country to take charge of religious education in the Lake Labish district, will move to Salem today from Quinala, where they went upon arrival here. They will be located at 1140 Hall street. In view of the fact that the Labish settlements are scattered the Rev. Noriura will be practically as close to his parish while living here. The newcomers have one child, a son.

Dwelling Planned—W. A. Clark took out a permit Friday to build a dwelling on lot 8 block 1, North 17th street addition, at a cost of $3500.

MILL AT RICKREALL IS DANCE PAVILION

The old flour and feed mill at Rickreall, which was constructed more than three quarters of a century ago, has been purchased by Ezra Hays and after spending several thousand dollars is now one of the most unique and up-to-date dance pavilions in the northwest. This beautiful hall will open on Friday, October 19, with Thomas Brothers famous eight piece dance band in the pit.

The exterior of the old mill was left just as it always was, rustic and from outside appearances at most ready to fall to pieces. Surprises start at the entrance. Starting down a narrow, zig-zag incline the patron has all the feelings of walking through an underground passage but finally comes out into the color scheme of blue and orange greeting the eye and hundreds of colored lights flickering and blinking on and off.

This dance pavilion is known as the Haunted Mill. The interior work is just now being completed and the no admittance signs will stand until the night of the opening.

SEARCH MADE FOR DEBATERS

Tryouts For Team to be Held Next Wednesday at Salem High School

With every member of last year's strong debating team lost through graduation, the Salem high school is facing a strenuous period of hard work to build up a debating squad that will repeat or better the performance of last year when Salem high lost the district championship by a narrow margin. The coach, Norborne Berkeley, Jr., is also new to the high school this year, and his work will be watched no less closely than that of his proteges.

Try-outs for the school squad will be held next Wednesday, October 17, at 3:15 o'clock in room 314, Mr. Berkeley said Friday, indicating that he expected a good showing of students at the time. The question for the try-outs is "Resolved, that the United States should cease to protect, by armed force, the capital invested in foreign countries except after a formal declaration of war." This question will also be used throughout the debates of the mid-Williamette section, which includes besides Salem, Albany, Corvallis, Dallas, Silverton, Stayton and other smaller schools.

Aspirants may choose either side of the question and previous to the try-outs none are being given any coaching by Mr. Berkeley, whose decisions will be based largely upon what the student can do "in the raw." Six students will comprise the squad, two for each side of the question and two alternates. Besides the coach, a member of the English department and of the history department will judge the try-outs.

The first of the inter-section debates will not be held for a number of weeks and by that time it is hoped Berkeley's hope to have shaped a team that will meet all opposition.

The mid-Williamette section is one of 13 into which the state high school debating league is divided.

SALEM ELKS WILL CONFER INITIATION

A special train will convey 200 Salem Elks to McMinnville next Thursday evening when the number of local members go to the Yamhill county city to put on the initiatory work for a number of new members of the McMinnville lodge.

The special train which will run over the Southern Pacific lines, will leave from Church and Trade streets near the Elk's temple, shortly after 6 o'clock in the evening. A special parade will be staged in McMinnville upon the train's arrival, the local men marching with the members of that city and led by the McMinnville band.

Officers from the Salem post who will conduct the initiation are Frank Durbin, Jr., exalted ruler; William Paulus, esteemed leading knight; H. H. Halstead, leading loyal knight; Harold Eakin, esteemed lecturing knight; LeRoy Gard, esquire; Chester Knowland, chaplain; Harry Weidner, secretary; Merritt Davis, inner guard; Otto Ammann, tiler.

Petition Urges Traffic Officers Be Reinstated

A petition signed by more than 1000 persons was presented to the state legislature Friday asking that Peter Rinehart, formerly a state traffic officer, be reinstated.

Rinehart was removed from service two weeks ago when reports were received at the state department of transportation that he had been arrested near Gresham, Ore., for a game law violation. Later reports received by the secretary of state showed that Rinehart had been acquitted to the charge. Rinehart had served as a state traffic officer for more than six years.

Neither Tal Hays, secretary of state, nor T. A. Rafferty, in charge of the state traffic department, would give any intimation as to what action would be taken in connection with the petition.

Emergency Board Meets Monday to Raise Deficiency

Approximately $115,000 in deficiency appropriations will be sought at a meeting of the state emergency board which has been called to meet here Monday.

Of this amount $15,000 will be requested for the operation of the penitentiary during the last few months of the biennium. The operation fund of this institution is exhausted. A total of $72,000 probably will be asked for the operation of state aided charitable institutions. The state treasurer has indicated that he will ask for $85,000 for the payment of interest on Oregon district interest bonds.

Service Station Corner Is Sold

Property occupied by the Salem Super Service station at the southwest corner of High and Perry streets has been sold to W. R. Speck by Frank Bligh, according to announcement made Friday. The property is leased to Eugene Eckstein and the lease has about a year to run. Mr. Speck, who was formerly district manager for the General Petroleum corporation, has not announced what he plans to do with the property.

SALEM HIGH SCHOOL "STYLE SHOP" TO BE OPENED SOON

The first issue of the Salem high school bi-weekly newspaper, the Clarion, came off the press Friday afternoon and was distributed at the Salem-Wasco football game. Appearance of the paper has been changed considerably and illustrations and features are prominent. Julia Creech is editor-in-chief. Editorial appointments include: Lois Wilked and David Eyre, associate editors; Katie Laughrie, news editor; Larkin Williams, sports; Cynthia Delano and Lee Coe, features; Virginia Slison, exchange; Maxine Myers, Dorothy White, society; Edith Jenks, head proof reader. Gordon Bennett is manager, with Stanley Price, assistant. Lee Coe, advertising; Richard Baker, circulation; Thomas Peterson, Robert Anthony, Glen Keach and Perry Andrews, solicitors; Ed Cross, collector. Because there are so many aspirants, the news staff will not be chosen until next month.

Propaganda Not Used In Schools, Mr. Hug Reports

Salem schools have not in any way used the utility propaganda which was last year issued to a number of schools in the guise of texts or lesson aids, Superintendent George W. Hug reported Thursday to C. A. Howard, state superintendent of public instruction who is sending queries to all schools in Oregon to ascertain the extent to which the literature has been used in this state.

An attempt was made here last year to induce Superintendent Hug to place certain of the pamphlets in the junior highs and high schools, but one teacher in the system had already been familiar with the propaganda as used in certain Washington schools and informed the Salem head of the situation with the result that they were not allowed in the Salem schools.

WHAT THEY THINK

DR. J. O. HALL, member of Willamette university faculty, said: "I haven't made any particular study of this matter, but I would say offhand that Oregon probably will win by a margin of about seven points."

T. M. HICKS, head of the Salem Abstract company and former president of the local chamber of commerce, said: "I'd be willing to make a guess on almost any question, but not that one. I don't know anything about how it's coming out, and won't till after the game's over."

LARS BERGSVIC, local attorney, said: "I haven't seen the Willamette squad in action but from what I have heard and saw of Oregon against Stanford, I think Oregon will have a fight to win. Scores are one thing I can't predict but I don't think it will be large."

SHELDON SACKETT, ex-Willamette man, said: "It depends upon how keen the teams are, and whether Willamette goes in with the idea of playing for money. If they do, but what the odds are against them. If Willamette's best team plays against Oregon's best team, I think the score will be about three touchdowns in favor of Oregon. However, the unexpected might happen."

RAYMOND "CHIEF" READY, linotype operator, said: "Willamette hasn't a chance, but if they had 'Pop' Weger for a coach, Oregon wouldn't have a chance. Of course I'm not discounting the work of the Willamette coaches for Willamette has a good team. It's just a case of Oregon having a better team—and why shouldn't they?"

BEATRICE LOCKHART, senior at Willamette University, said: "I agree with most students that the score will be about 13 to 6 with our team on top. If I see any indication it will be that way."

QUIZ PORTLAND POWER GROUPS

Propaganda Bared Which Had Effect of Defeating Recent Amendment

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The record of the federal trade commission's power investigation was increased today with documents and testimony bearing on the Oregon Public Utilities Information bureau and the Northwest Electric Light and Power association both of which operate from Portland. H. L. Walter, manager of the bureau, testified also concerning moves made by a utility committee distinct from his organization to defeat a proposed amendment to the state constitution authorizing the state to generate and transmit power. The campaign cost $27,677 he said, and the amendment was voted down at the polls "by about four to one." After this, he received several letters which he said gave him credit for the result.

Examined by Robert E. Healy, commission counsel, Walter said the weekly news service maintained by the information bureau had aided the campaign. Copies of the news releases sent out over a long period were introduced into the record, and that of February 4, 1928 said "the prominence of Herbert Hoover as a candidate for the presidency gives to his views more than ordinary interest at this time." It added: "The present secretary of commerce in the cabinet of President Coolidge has made the following utterance on 'our government'."

"Neither our national nor our state governments are planned or equipped for the task of government operation of utilities. The fathers purposely made our government to a different model, for a different task. They divided power and responsibility, where business must concentrate them. They thought liberty and individual rights were worth safe-guarding."

Activity Shown In Real Estate Concern Reports

Real estate activity in Salem and the Willamette valley has been good the last few weeks, with all indications of better times ahead, according to word from the office of Louis Bechtel and J. D. Sears, Salem realtors. Mr. Bechtel and Mr. Sears, have closed the following deals recently:

A 14-acre farm sold for Mrs. Ida M. Keen to Fred W. Dickman for $10,000. A half acre for A. J. Bailey to H. Owens, consideration: $525; Everett Sweezy of North Dakota purchased a 20 acre farm from W. Perkins. Four lots for Lella Rigdon, consideration $1093. C. Mumkors sold his 45-acre Yac-hill county farm to B. Willitt of San Francisco through the company.

Houses and lots turned included: D. D. Gorsline to A. A. Crowder, $1800; S. B. Eshleman to Charles L. Barnett, $2400; $3000 deal for W. Dickman.

At the Theaters

A partially blind architect, who is forced to frequent soup kitchens on the East Side of New York, is rescued by a homeless urchin and through the boy's aid finally attains success. That is the theme of "Little Mickey Grogan" an FBO classic of boy life, which is showing at the Oregon theatre today. Frankie Darro, 8-year-old prodigy of the circus, has the leading role in "Little Mickey Grogan." He is supported by Jobyna Ralston, Lassie Lou Ahern and many other well known motion picture players. "Little Mickey Grogan" was directed by Leo Meehan, who also directed "Judgment of the Hills" which won Frankie Darro a starring contract.

With myriads of beautiful girls in the national costumes of many countries of the globe, Erich von Stroheim filmed what are said to be the most colorful episodes of "The Wedding March," his first great picture for Paramount, which will show at the Elsinore theatre next week.

The scenes, grouped under the studio title of "The Mademoiselle sequence" were laid in a resort in Vienna, and "Bobby" Webb, acting director for the Von Stroheim company, gathered together a large group of girls, typical representatives of various countries, including France, Holland, Spain, Mexico, Sweden, Russia, China, Japan, Siam, Scotland, Hawaii and many others.

Numbers of Austrian army officers were also in evidence. A VITAPHONED picture which has been acclaimed wherever it has been shown as one of the best "talkies" "The Singing Fool" Al Jolson's second screen vehicle. Will open at Bligh's Capitol this coming Sunday for a run of seven days, with continuous shows each day from two until eleven, in order to accommodate the crowds.

Al Jolson's latest pictures has been called superior to the "Jazz Singer" his first, which added greatly to his fame and made him countless friends in Salem when shown at the Capitol as the first Vitaphone attraction to play in Salem.

"Singing Fool" Jolson is cast as a singing waiter in a New York night club. Later he becomes master of ceremonies in one of the gayest of the city cabarets. His wife, a revue star, proves false, and their child dies, bringing tragedy and pathos into the picture.

Salem Dentists Attend Sessions Of State Clinic

The relationship between good dentistry and good health was emphasized at the clinic in Portland this week which three Salem dentists attended. Drs. Carl E. Miller, W. A. Johnson and Floyd L. Utter of Salem were among the 67 Oregon dentists in attendance at the four days of lectures on general practice.

Promptness in getting work done was cited as the greatest aid to prevention of losing teeth. Delay in getting attention causes more trouble than new decay, according to Dr. Cameron of Minneapolis who conducted the lectures.
