SALEM MINISTER IS GOING TO HOPEWELL

The Rev. W. M. Blodgett, pastor of the United States Brethren church in Salem the past two years, was assigned to the charge at Hopewell at the 75th annual meeting of the Oregon conference held in Portland over the weekend. The Rev. L. W. Riddle, who has had a charge in California, will be the Rev. Blodgett's successor here. It is probable the new minister will be here in another week.

Dr. Blodgett has returned to Salem and is making preparations to leave for Hopewell, where he will occupy the pulpit for the first time October 28. Next Sunday he will be in Olympia to perform a marriage ceremony, which means that his last sermon here was preached the Sunday before conference.

Other appointments of interest to this district included the appointment of Lella Luckey to the church at Hazel Green; and of the retiring conference superintendent, the Rev. George McDonald, to the Seattle charge; and of the Rev. F. W. Pontius of Spokane to the superintendent.

WHAT THEY THINK

questionably one of the greatest assets Salem has. It makes men, and there isn't anything more important than that."

J. O. GOLTRA, trustee of Willamette university, said: "The Y. M. C. A. in a masterly way develops team work in interdenominational activities, emphasizing the best in the physical, mental, moral and spiritual training received in our public schools, and teaches practical application thereof. Investments in it provide liberal dividends, the value of which we cannot overestimate."

RAY MILLER, advertising manager of the Willamette College, said: "There is nothing better for the young man who wants to get acquainted with other fellows of his age. The associations are all good and the environment excellent. The spirit of fair play emphasized in all games is a benefit to all who come in contact with it. The 'Y' cannot but help the community because of its nature."

SAM BOWE, sophomore at Willamette university, said: "The Y. M. C. A. is an excellent place to meet other fellows and to spend the few spare moments in the afternoon. Any organization that offers such a fine meeting ground and environment for recreation is an asset to any town."

ROY R. HEWITT, dean of the law school at Willamette university, said: "Ever since I was old enough to be responsible, I have been a member of the Y. M. C. A. I have found that it affects materially the hopes, aspirations and ambitions of the boy or young man, and gives him an opportunity for self expression."

DR. L. E. BARRICK, local dentist, said: "The Y. M. C. A. has more to do with turning out a splendid average boy, than any other influence provided in Salem. I do not believe the value of the Y could be overated. That is my opinion entirely aside from my own selfish interest in the Y as a place of recreation which provides an opportunity for continuation of the athletic activities which I have always kept up."

FOREST LUNGER, 1280 North 21st street, said: "Personally, I believe the Y. M. C. A. is a fine asset to the city and is all right; because it helps the youth of the city and gives them some place to go instead of playing in the streets."

derful spirit actuated Salem's drum corps.

Before closing the meeting Commander McKay paid a beautiful tribute to the memory of the late Clifford Brown, whose hobby was the drum corps, and who, but for his untimely death, would have rejoiced to see his dream realized with the glorious success of the San Antonio trip.

Promptly at 9:25 the dinner broke up and those present went to the Elks temple to take part in the reception and dance tendered the corps by that organization. Before leaving the dining room those present tendered the drum corps members a rising vote of thanks.

Community Club In First Session

A large crowd attended the first meeting of the West Salem Community club Monday night at the Community hall in the basement of the Ford Memorial Methodist church. A delightful program was presented including a vocal solo by Margaret Poole, a violin solo by Margaret Poole, a reading by Mrs. Ralph Seber, and bagpipes played by John Charge. C. A. Swope of Salem was the speaker of the evening. He spoke of labor as the proper foundation for building a community and the necessity of a payroll. He also emphasized the necessity of cooperation both individually and collectively for growth. There followed a business meeting at which the president of the club, J. J. Arnold, presided. Prizes were awarded to the three homes in West Salem which gave the appearance of the greatest general improvement. The first prize was awarded to T. W. Richardson, 125 Rosemont avenue, the second prize went to Guy Nugent, 521 Kingwood street. West Salem is proud of its donation to the successful drum corps.

Many people are curious as to the reason of the cupola on the new pump house just finished. It is to facilitate the removing of the six inch pipe that is sunk into the well in case of anything going wrong. The added space in the pump house permits for the lifting of it sufficiently to get either at the pipe itself or into the well.

T. J. Shipley, who has returned to his home in West Salem after a summer spent in placer mining in Washington, says that he may go to the Porcupine mine in southern Oregon for awhile.

POLICE OFFICIALS GET DEATH THREAT

SPOKANE, Oct. 6. (AP)—The mayor and police chief of Spokane were threatened with death today for ordering a "clean up" of suspicious characters, the chief said.

Chief of Police Wesley Turner received a letter declaring that his recent order to round up all vagrants and suspicious characters in the city was an injustice to working men, and menacing both the chief and Mayor Charles Fleming with assassins' bullets.

"We know where you live and you'll get yours like Sullivan did," the letter warned. Chief of Police John Sullivan was assassinated in 1910. A bullet crashed through the window of his home and ended his life.

Chief Turner said the letter would not affect his orders. He charged the organization of the force today to further his "clean up."

"I am tired of Spokane being a winter resort for bootleggers, crooks, bums, hangers-on and suspicious characters, and am going to clean up the city on short notice," he affirmed.

Little Girl Has Serious Hurt In Fall From Pony

FLAVIA, 10-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Downs, is in the Salem General hospital with a serious break in her right leg above the knee as the result of a fall Sunday while she was bridling her riding pony.

Whether the break occurred as she fell from the manger between the pony's feet or whether it was caused by the pony stepping on her is not known. There were several other children with her at the time, and it is thought that possibly the excitement of so many caused the pony to be a little uneasy. She is getting along nicely, according to report from the home Monday night.
