FREE Cooking School

Monday, October 22, to Thursday, October 25

Miss Dorothy Williams, Expert in Charge

Housewives of Salem and vicinity need no other invitation than this to take part in, enjoy and profit by the Statesman Cooking School. In extending this invitation to all housewives the Statesman and the Salem Woman's club join in urging that you make it a point to attend all classes of the school period.

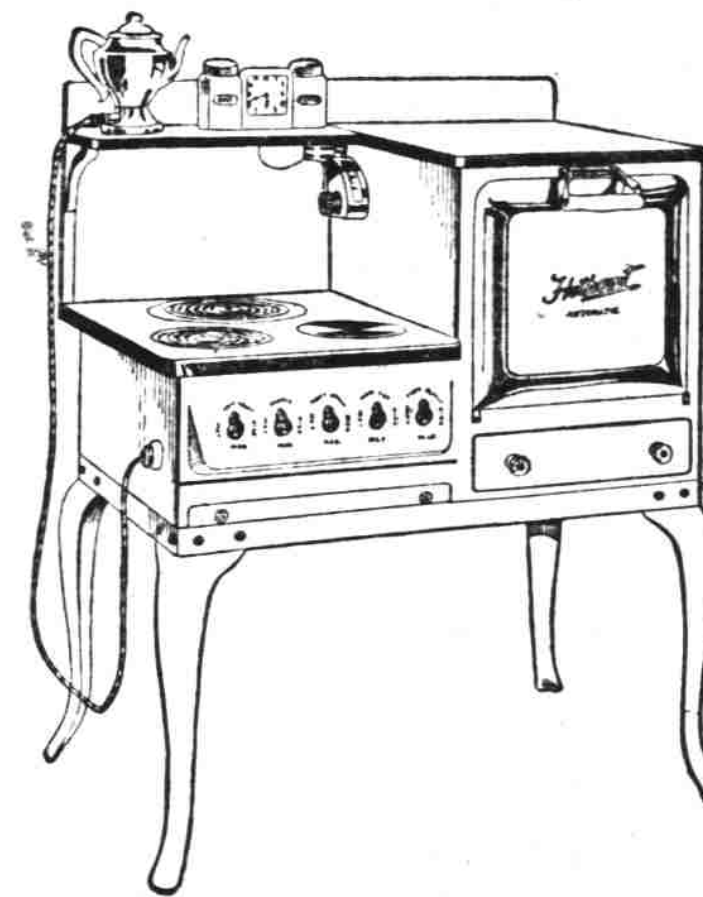

The program will be completely new every day. New lectures, new demonstrations. New door prizes. There will be plenty of comfortable seats, lots of good light. Expert attendants in all departments. Interesting special features every day.

Any man, woman or child, except professional cooks and employes of the New Oregon Statesman or members of their families, may compete. Entries must be baked in your own home and in your own oven, in whatever stove you have. Entries must be made from ingredients advertised in connection with the school, except where ingredients called for in recipes are not advertised. All entries must be delivered to 370 State street between 9 a. m. and 12 m. Thursday, October 25. Containers for entries cannot be returned. Provide old plates or paper plates. Contestants must unwrap their own entries upon delivery to the contest place.

All Proceeds from Baking Contest Sale
Go to the Building Fund of the Salem Women's Club

Through a special arrangement with the Portland Electric Power Co., the Statesman and the Salem Woman's club are privileged to present this short course in modern home making under the direction of the foremost home economics experts in the west.

A wonderful added feature is the big baking contest which is open to all women in Salem and vicinity who attend the Statesman school. Many valuable prizes are offered to those who observe the simple rules of the contest printed here or to be announced at the school. See partial prize list on this page.

Entries for the Baking Contest will be received between 9 a.m. and 1 p. m. Thursday, October 25 at 370 State Street, by members of the woman's Club.
