

Baltimore Club Manager Drops Dead While Riding Horse

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO DUNN

Prominent Baseball Figure and First Trainer of Babe Ruth Passes

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Jack Dunn, owner and manager of the Baltimore Orioles and an outstanding figure in minor league baseball circles for many years, dropped dead from a heart attack today while riding his horse at field dog trials at Loch Raven, near here. He was 55 years old.

Dunn had remounted his horse, after chasing one of his dogs which had scared up a bird. While watching another of his dogs in action, he slumped in his saddle and fell to the ground. Doctors, after an examination, said that he had died instantly.

Dunn had been under doctor's care for some time with a heart ailment which, friends declare, dated from the death of his son, Jack Dunn, Jr., five years ago.

Mrs. Dunn, when notified of the death of her husband, was prostrated and is confined to her home.

Dunn first played baseball as a pitcher with the Birmingham club in the late nineties. Later he went to the Philadelphia National League team, and in 1907 was appointed manager of the Orioles. In 1910 he took over ownership of the club and since that time has been owner and manager of the team.

A number of stars in the major league ball clubs were developed in the game under Dunn's guidance. "Babe" Ruth found his start in organized baseball with Dunn's team. "Lefty" Grove, Joe Mauer, Jack Bentley and George Earnshaw are among many others of the big recruits who once played on the Orioles under Dunn.

SALEM GOLF COURSE PLEASES BIG CROWD

Over 400 persons, members of the Salem Golf club and their friends, visited the newly completed first unit of the club's course Sunday, a considerable percentage of the course and pronounced it in excellent condition and fully up to their expectations, and all, whether they played or not, expressed their pleasure at the attractive appearance of the club property and the arrangement of the fairways.

The holes which lie nearest the woods bordering on the river are particularly beautiful, but all of the fairways are partly bordered by trees, and more are to be planted to enhance the beauty of the course.

The turf proved to be as firm as anyone could ask, and golf balls traveled well after lighting; but due to the players' lack of acquaintance with the course and perhaps to the novelty of playing on green grass, not particularly low scores were registered.

It was noticed particularly that everyone who played over the course once, kept on playing the rest of the day. One of the men who had been most eager to try out the course, however, wasn't able to lift a driver. This was Erce Kay, president of the club. He had played several holes Saturday to try out the course; but that night his wrist was broken cracking an automobile, and he won't be able to enjoy the fruits of his many weeks of labor for some time.

The course is now ready for regular play. It is reached by going out South Commercial street, turning at Miller, then out Riverside Drive for a short distance to the club's road which is marked by a sign.

Sports Done Brown

SPORTS DONE... HED SPTS
By NORMAN E. BROWN

WHEN Clark Griffith gave Stanley Harris the gate as manager the veteran head of the Washington club handed himself two tasks with which to occupy his time over the winter months.

One is to find a capable successor to Harris as a pilot. The other is to fill Buck's shoes at second base.

To a man in the Graf Zeppelin, it would seem that the latter problem will be the tougher one. Harris has been rated for several years as one of the great key-stone men of the game. His work as pivot man in double plays has been unusually brilliant. When Roger Peckinpaugh was roaming short field alongside Bucky the pair helped set a new American league record in double killings.

Griffith has not now on his ball club a sure-fire successor to Harris. He has, as infielders, Ossie Bluege, Bobb Reeves, Joe Cronin, Jack Hayes, Stuffy Stewart and Yoter. Ossie Bluege isn't a likely bet, however, as he is a much more valuable man at short or third. Cronin and Stewart would seem to have the call.

And speaking of infielders, it is rumored that one of the reasons prompting the dismissal of Harris by Griffith is the "boner" pulled in letting Buddy Myers move along, to prove himself a brilliant young infielder with the Boston Red Sox. The trading of Alvin Crowder, young pitcher, to the St. Louis Browns is also laid at Harris' door.

SORDS POINTS

Walter's Dream Comes True at Last

WITHIN less than a year from the time that he hung up his big league glove and called quite to one of the greatest careers the majors have ever seen, Walter Johnson is back again in the big time this time as a manager, boss of his old club, the Senators. Toward the close of his big league mound career Sir Walter had often expressed the wish to lead the Senators. But when he was packed off to Newark, N. J., there to take charge of a minor league club, it appeared as a dim possibility, his wish of managing the Senators. The return to the Senators will be like a home coming to the former Fire Ball King. He spent his entire big league career, beginning in 1907, in the capital city.

SALEM HIGH TEAM NOT DISHEARTENED

Prospects of a claim for the mythical state high school football championship went glimmering so far as Salem high was concerned Saturday at Medford when Coach Louis Anderson's men went down to a 42 to 6 defeat at the hands of the stalwart Medford high players, but that didn't dim the chances for a Willamette valley supremacy, something which can be demonstrated much more adequately than a state title.

The defeat at Medford, however, showed that the red and black eleven will have to put in some strenuous work if it is to capture the valley title. Although the game was rough, none of the Salem players was injured sufficiently to weaken the team for future games.

Unless some more changes occur in the schedule, all of the remaining games are at home, and with the new grandstand completed, a revival of interest in high school football is in order. Due to lack of facilities and consequently a dearth of home games, the crowds haven't been as big in recent seasons as the class of football warranted, but that condition is expected to change under the new order of things.

Sidders Wins In Big Title Scrap

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 22.—(AP)—George Sidders of Montreal won the welterweight championship of Canada from George Field of Toronto here tonight on a foul in the seventh round. Field knocked Sidders out but was disqualified because he had used the illegal rabbit punch.

BEARCATS PLAN FOR BIG GAME

Keene's Men Being Taught to Present Stone Wall on Defensive

Defense, and then more defense, is being drilled into the Willamette university football squad as the big contest of the season, against College of Puget Sound here Saturday, draws near.

Puget Sound's victory over Linfield at McMinnville Saturday revealed that the Willamette team will have to play better football than it has at any time this season, if it is to hold Cac Hubbard's eleven away from the goal line; and the defense will have to keep on the alert for an aerial attack as well as running plays. Puget Sound made important use of the forward pass against Linfield.

Against passes, however, "Spec" Keene's men have so far proven effective; the University of Oregon team, ordinarily strong at the passing game, was able to complete only one against Willamette, and that one was plastered with horseshoes; Burnell stumbled into the ball and by some magical process managed to hang onto it.

Of course, the Bearcats' impregnability against this style of play may have been only transitory, and Puget Sound may get away better than Oregon did.

Weakness At Wings
But Willamette's greatest weakness was on the wings, the ends being flanked a number of times to let Oregon's fleet ball carriers around for long gains; and it is here that the defensive program is being centralized this week.

While Puget Sound was reiterating its previous showing of offensive strength by piling up 50 points against Linfield, College of Idaho trounced Pacific university 28 to 7, thus demonstrating that it too will prove a formidable opponent for Willamette when the teams meet soon at Boise.

Whitman has not yet played a Northwest conference game, but against Pacific coast conference eleven it has demonstrated that it will be in the running as strong as ever, or a little stronger.

Here are the present Northwest conference standings:

	W.	L.	Pct
Puget Sound	2	0	1.000
Willamette	1	0	1.000
Coll. Idaho	1	1	.500
Whitman	0	0	.000
Pacific	0	1	.000
Linfield	0	2	.000

Renault Whipped By Jim Maloney

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Jim Maloney, Boston heavyweight, outpointed Jack Renault of Canada, here tonight in a slow ten round bout. Neither was able to score many clean blows and both were fatigued before the bout was half over. Maloney weighed 196 pounds and Renault 199.

The state convention of the W. C. T. U. in session here is accomplishing much in the way of business nearing a close. Officers are: Mrs. Helen D. Harford, president; Mrs. Henrietta Brown, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Sarah M. Kern, recording secretary; Mrs. Hattie J. Shane, treasurer.

Dedication of Athletic Field Set for Saturday

Following a student council meeting Monday morning, students of the Salem high school have begun laying plans to attract one of the largest crowds in the history of high school football in Salem to mark the formal dedication of the new athletic field of the senior high school next Saturday. Reports Barney Cameron, president of the student body.

Exact hour of the dedication has not yet been announced, but it is probable it will be about 1:30 o'clock and before the game between Albany and Salem. The game Saturday will be the first played on the new field, the Salem-Wasco game having been played on the Willamette gridiron.

C. C. BEDDING TEAM LEADS CITY LEAGUE

The Capital City Bedding company bowling team jumped into the lead in the City league Monday night by winning three straight games from the Reo Flying Clouds, while the Elks, who had held the lead previously, were losing two out of three to Schei's quintet, O'Leary's Legionnaires won two out of three from the Man's Shop.

Kertson of Schei's bowled the high series, 581, and S. Steinbock of the Reo Flying Clouds rolled the high game, 233.

Charles Bier and Phil Bell were appointed advertising directors for the dedication game, and already have made huge football posters to be distributed about town and a sign that will be stretched across State street to announce the game.

An attempt will be made to persuade the Albany school to bring an excursion for the game and dedication and students from here will also visit other nearby towns, including Corvallis, Dallas, Silverton and Monmouth, to work up interest there.

Plans already formulated include pep rallies and serpentine preceding the game to arouse interest in Salem.

BAYES-FOX BATTLE MAY BE SIGNED UP

In a little less than two weeks, November 3 or 5, the fight season will open in Salem, Matchmaker Harry Plant announced last night. Plant hasn't decided yet whether the fans will like Saturday or Monday the best, but he is a little inclined to think Saturday will appeal better than Monday, and probably will date his first show accordingly. Those are the only nights on which the armory is available.

Barring a little detail like one pound, avoirdupois, it's all settled that Phil Bayes and Ted Fox will be the main eventers. Bayes has discovered that he can't be effective at any weight under 127.

John Orr, Fox's manager, has talked like he would hold out for 126.

But if that detail is settled, and it will be settled today or not at all, Plant says, then Salem fight fans will get a chance in less than two weeks to see a fight that they have been talking about for a good many months, ever since Ted Fox began to develop toward the main event class. He is due to arrive this season, and in fact there are already plenty of fans who think he is Bayes' master.

Bayes has been Salem's favorite for so long that some fans are beginning to regard him as past the height of his career, but the truth is that Phil is still a youngster and coming up, not going down.

If all the writers of free verse were laid end to end, what a fine thing that would be!

It requires no little courage to suggest to one's wife that she take a course at a cooking school.

STATE ASSOCIATION COMING NEXT WEEK

The state Physical Education association will meet in Salem Wednesday night, November 21. George W. Hug, city school superintendent, said Monday. Dr. James E. Rogers, director of physical education service of the American Playground and Recreation association, will be the principal speaker at the meeting.

Dr. Rogers is said to know more about the physical education situation in this country than any other man and to be a forceful speaker. Dr. Rogers is a Rotarian, and Dean John Bovard of the University of Oregon school of physical education is making arrangements for his week's visit in the state, has written to Mr. Hug suggesting that Dr. Rogers speak before the Salem Rotary club November 21.

Rumors of a revolt by Ukrainian peasants against the Bolshevik government were denied Monday.

SOUTH'S BACKS SHOW UP WELL

Strong Bids to be Made by
Dixie Boys for All-American Honors

By ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The south has a flock of fleet ball carriers, versatile as well as in the arts of punting and passing, to be considered when the all-American frenzy breaks out later on.

Dixie broke into the all-American backfield last season when Bill Spears of Vanderbilt qualified among the country's best. Whether or not this has inspired this year's crop of southern backs, it is a fact that the class of talent throughout the conference is unusually high.

Mizzell Beats Notre Dame

Notre Dame's adherents thought they had at least two 'horses' well equipped for the fray with Georgia Tech. in Niemiec and Chevigny, but most of the rough riding last Saturday afternoon on Grant field was done by Warner Mizzell, triple threat ace of the Tech array and a rawboned power full sophomore who is known on the Atlanta campus as "Father" Lumpkin.

Lumpkin, with two years more ahead of him, looks like one of the most sensational backfield products the south has yet had. A power on defense, Lumpkin hits the line with pilingdriving force, scattering tacklers in all directions or going on with two or three of the more persistent still attached to him.

McEver Clever Boy
Tennessee also has a sophomore star in Jimmy McEver, whose 98 yard run from kick off for a touchdown against Alabama is as sensational an individual stunt as the season has witnessed.

"Ole Miss" boasts another sophomore ball-toter of unusual talent in Gerald Walker. Georgia has McCrary, a great fullback who was on the second all-American combination last year and a candidate for promotion this year. At Vanderbilt Captain Jimmy Armistead is doing his best to keep up the good work he shared with Spears last season.

Tulane has a hard hitting back in Bill Banker, so has Virginia Military in Captain "Ab" Barnes while the Pony Express backfield of V. P. I. featuring the versatile Frank Peake, is a familiar treat.
