OFFICIALS PUZZLED OVER EXCESS FUND

County officials are in a quandary as to what use to make of $24,047.38 that accrues to Marion county under a recent decision of the United States supreme court. The supreme court held in favor of the county and against the state in a mandamus suit brought against county officials to require them to pay this sum as the state's share of the Oregon and California land grant refund.

"No, we don't know just what to do with this money; we probably won't make any use of it for some little time," County Judge Slegmund stated Thursday. The county's budget has been drawn conservatively pending final decision on the question of whether the state would receive the $24,047.38 for which it asked.

All counties affected by the ruling banded together with the idea of making the state's suit against Marion county a test case. Many of the counties had more money involved than was involved here. "At Roseburg they are building a nice new courthouse with the money that was recovered in this way," said Judge Slegmund. "Other counties have used the money for other purposes."

Marion county was awarded a total of $119,355.56 under the Oregon and California land grant refund bill put through congress two years ago by Congressman Hawley and Senator Stanfield. This covered the years 1916 to 1925.
