Valuable Prizes Awarded to Entrants in Baking Contest

CONTEST PRIZE AWARDS LISTED

Twenty-Nine Valuable Prize Gifts Made to Women in Baking Contest

Mrs. J. B. Hansen of 897 North Church street, is the owner of a fine de luxe model Hotpoint electric range, fully enamelled in white and a treat for the eyes of any housewife. And all for what little time and trouble Mrs. Hansen spent in making a delicious chocolate layer cake that was good enough to win the grand prize in the New Statesman's great baking contest Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Hansen's new range has a retail value of $187.50. The range was the gift of the Portland Electric Power Co., Salem office.

The grand prize in the pie contest was awarded to Miss May Rutherford, 1505 Broadway, for a single crust pie that was judged best by the three persons who spent the entire afternoon testing entries. Miss Rutherford was awarded the Eureka vacuum sweeper donated by the Eugene office of the manufacturers. This prize is valued at $64.50.

All prizes awarded in connection with the baking contest were either given to the winners Thursday afternoon or are waiting for the fortunate ones to call at the Statesman office, where they will be held until called for.

The awards were as follows:
Butter cakes: 1st, Mrs. Rose Mundt, 507 Center street, urn set, gift of Graybar Electric Co.; 2nd, Mrs. H. Sarff, 1704 Broadway, aluminum tea kettle, gift of H. Stiff Furniture Co.; 3rd, Mrs. J. B. MARKET HERE HOLDS STEADY

Advance of Two Cents in Eggs Early in Week Chief Feature of Interest

Prices for the week have been generally steady, so far as fruits and vegetables are concerned. Eggs have come up, making a two cent advance early in the week and maintaining that figure.

With the arrival of rutabagas and parsnips in greater quantities, the new offerings of walnuts, almonds, chestnuts and pop corn, the store windows have taken on a slightly different and more crowded aspect.

Rutabagas sell at four pounds for five cents, while the parsnips are six pounds for 25 cents. Both are good size and are becoming more plentiful. They were offered for the first time last week.

Walnuts Plentiful
The new crop walnuts, those grown in Oregon, retail at two pounds for 59 cents, or 30 cents a pound. Some stores have Marion county walnuts at 35 cents a pound or three for a dollar.

Almonds from California cost 22 cents a pound, or two pounds for 53 cents. Pop corn is around 10 cents a pound.

More ground cherries are available here this week than in former weeks, judging from the number of stores offering them. They are priced at 30 cents for the small fruit basketful.

Chestnuts are plentiful and cost the consumer 29 cents for two pounds, or a little better in some stores.

Green tomatoes are being displayed and will work up well for pickled dishes. They are seven pounds for 25 cents.

Horse radish, fresh from the ground, small and cleaned, was offered Thursday in one store at 15 cents a pound.

Brussels sprouts were on display in several windows, but judging from the appearance, they are not meeting a ready market.

Market Surveys Show Increased Provision Stock

Receipts of leading markets and reports from manufacturers indicate that butter production is running ahead of the output a year ago, states the weekly farm review prepared by L. R. Brethaupt, specialist in agricultural economics at O. A. C.

The Oregon turkey crop, a survey indicates, has increased about 40 per cent over last year, or about 260,000 birds, the bulletin says.

Cattle and hog markets were generally over-supplied last week, but lamps and sheep are inclined to be firmer. Other conditions noted include a slight improvement in the clover seed crop and demoralized on the potato market. As higher prices are quoted for other vegetables, the potato demand will increase.

The only thing that can be said for people who keep on predicting the end of the world is that they probably get a little closer each time.—Regina Leader.

MOCHA CAKE FROSTING

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

One-third cup butter, one cup confectioners' sugar, one tablespoon strong, boiled or filtered coffee, one-half cup almonds. Wash butter and pat until no water flies. Work until creamy and add sugar gradually, beating constantly. As mixture thickens add coffee, a few drops at a time, keeping mixture of a creamy consistency throughout. Spread on cake and sprinkle with almonds, whole or chopped. Cocoa frosting is made the same as mocha, using one-half tablespoon breakfast cocoa in place of coffee.

Establishment of a permanent camp for boys in the vicinity of the Three Sisters mountain peaks is planned by members of the Eugene Y. M. C. A. boys' camp committee.
