PROHIBITION IS HELD BIG ISSUE

Bigotry Has No Place in Presidential Campaign, Pastor Declares

DALLAS, Ore., Oct. 30.—(Special)—Not bigotry or Catholicism or Protestantism, but whiskey or prohibition is the dominant issue of the present political campaign, declared the Rev. Jacob Stocker, pastor of the First Evangelical church, at a joint meeting with the First Methodist church at the latter church Sunday night.

Mr. Stocker spoke upon "Protestantism and Prohibition," and the Rev. C. Kerby of the First Methodist church, preached on "Corking the Bottle."

Mr. Stocker, who is a graduate of Willamette university, said, in denying a religious issue, "Because Latin Christianity and Puritan American Protestant Christianity are diametrically opposed to one another is just the reason why Protestantism in America opposes the election of a president who is guided by Roman Catholic traditions, or continental traditions which, so far as the interpretation of personal liberty as it relates to the liquor traffic is concerned, are diametrically opposed to American Puritan principles."

Candidacy Proper
The democratic nominee in a land where religious freedom is guaranteed, has a perfect right to become a candidate for the presidency; his witness, not his Romanism, is the issue that is stirring the Christian forces of America against him," the minister said.

"It is the friends, not the enemies, of the 18th amendment who must enforce it, not only in Dallas, in the county or the state and nation, but in the presidential chair."

Predicts Defeat
Predicting the downfall of the amendment's enemies, Mr. Stocker said: "But now, as Napoleon once came back from exile to make a new war and regain his throne, only to meet defeat at Waterloo, so the defeated warriors of King Alcohol have massed themselves to battle again that they might reverse the decision of the American people; the present task is to make the election another Waterloo."

ing control of his arm, seem to be loosened from the spinal column, making the arm useless.

Mr. Schrunk is suing Hawkins & Roberts, owners of the horse, for $30,000 damages and for the value of his motorcycle which was demolished.
