By NORMAN E. BROWN

HE story passed around rerecently in connection with the yarn trading Rogers Iornsby to the Chicago Cubs that ack Hendricks, of the Cincy leds, once turned thumbs down on the Rajah when given first call on his services, is being accepted as new in some quarters.

As a matter of fact the story appeared in this wandering colmn a short time after the incident occurred-which was last

At that time the New York Giants decided they wanted to be rid of the former manager of the Cardinals. Jack Hendricks was summoned to New York by the Giant officials and given-a chance to bid on Hornsby before his services were put on the market. Hendricks refused to bid, stating frankly that he did not care to have the star batter and second baseman at any price.

The story was, of course, printed in Cincinnati, and the odd and interesting part of it is that fans abided by Hendricks' judgment. And, speaking of the recent Hornsby development, the anticipated shifting of the confident one is bringing many interesting items to light.

One is the fact that the Cleveland club stood ready to lay the dough on the line for him-up to $200,000 at least, although realizing that there was little chance of the National league permitting him to pass into the junior organization.

Failing to get him, the Indians also offered George Uble and Joey Sewell, long outstanding THINK the very best way to go cles, standing passive and restars of the Cleveland team, and some $150,000 in cash for Lou was laughed off, it is said, by Miller Huggins and Jake Ruppert, who have been conspiring together of late years to give the Yankee fans one pennant winner
