

Phil Bayes and Teddy Fox to Fight in Salem November 22

LONG AWAITED EVENT SIGNED

Local Favorite Agrees to Make 126 Pounds to Show Fans He's Game

Boy, bring a couple of buckets of water and three oil cans. There are times when a news story is so hot it burns up the typewriters and the type metal, and this is one of 'em.

Phil Bayes and Teddy Fox have been matched to fight in Salem at the Oregon theatre on the night of Thursday, November 22.

This is the scrap that fans in Salem, Independence, Dallas, Mouth and all the other cities and hamlets in the middle Willamette valley have been on pins and needles to see for over a year since Teddy Fox climbed up to the strata of flistic society where it began to be suggested that he might be able to stay in the same ring with Bayes—and here it is, just around the corner.

Sign Contracts Today
Contracts haven't yet been signed, so there might be a slip, but on Tuesday, John Orr, Fox's manager, paid Salem a visit and conferred with Bayes. The upshot was that Salem's favorite mitt thrower agreed to make 126 pounds, the weight that Orr has been holding out for; and so unless somebody changes his mind, the fight is on for Thursday the 22nd.

This scrap will be the headliner of the first fight card held at the Oregon theatre, and Matchmaker Plant is confident even at this early date that there won't be enough seats to go around, even though there are as many seats there as at the armory, where fights have been held in the past.

Seats Already Bought
The fact is that on Tuesday, before news that the fight had been arranged was really supposed to have leaked out, Plant had already been besieged for 30 tickets, and the red hot fans who wanted them were put down for reservations.

Announcements as to the preliminary will be forthcoming later, and the prelims will be good, but they wouldn't have to be anything but shadow, boxing to make this card a success.

LIQUOR PENALTIES OF OLD THREATEN

A bootlegger's convention will be organized in Salem, F. A. Hazeltine, federal prohibition investigator, told members of the Salem Kiwanis club at their noon luncheon Tuesday.

He said that the man who would not have to present the keys of the city to the bootleggers for the reason that "the average bootlegger is a criminal to start with, and usually provided with skeleton key."

The bootleggers will be invited by J. O. Johnson of Portland, special United States attorney, and given a chance to make offers in compromise of penalties asserted against them under an old revenue act. The old revenue penalty is as high as $2000 for each and $10000 for manufacturer. The original purpose was to protect the liquor trade. The penalties have never been repealed and are now to be levied on all bootleggers who have been convicted in the state courts. The federal courts have always assessed the penalty.

ARREST FOLLOWS HURLING OF BRICKS

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff Max Brunner is an "Al Smith man" but when Tom Flynn, of like political affiliations, tried to square things resultant from the election, the former called a halt.

"I pinched this guy for being drunk and disorderly, your honor," said Brunner in court today. "I was picking up bricks piled along the street and throwing 'em in cars going past. The only automobiles he threw at though were those of women drivers. This struck me funny, but it seems Mr. Flynn is a big Al Smith man and somebody told him it was the women who beat Smith. Tom Smith man myself but I thought this called for a pinch."

PACIFIC COAST THREAT FOR THE WELTERWEIGHT TITLE

THESE may be bitter days for the welterweight pug, but not so for the waltzers. The lighter division is enjoying a popularity it hasn't experienced for years and its ranks are crammed with talent.

First off, there is the champ, Mr. Samuel Lazarro, known to the trade as Joe Dundee. Joe isn't so hot and may not be the best man at his weight, but he's pretty fair, as good as some of the champs in the other divisions excepting such fellows as Tommy Loughran, Sammy Mandell and Mickey Walker.

And then there is Jackie Fields! There's the boy! Jackie has been coming along like a house afire, his most recent accomplishment being a workmanlike job of polishing off Sergeant Sammy Bak-

THE probabilities are that there will be several familiar faces in the lineup of the St. Louis Cardinals, former world's champions, when the bell rings for the 1929 National league battle royal.

Various and assorted trade deals are being whispered about, which, if consummated, will send at least five regular members of the 1928 team to other cities. This in addition to the anticipated change in managers.

The five men looked to wear new uniforms are:

Blades, Douthit and Reinhart were members of the world's championship team of 1926. Blades and Douthit in the outfield, of course, and Reinhart as a member of the hurling staff.

George Harper was obtained from the Giants last season—to prove quite a thorn in the side of John McGraw much of the season. Smith was obtained from the Pittsburgh Pirates, where he had been the top catcher.

The anticipated departure of Douthit and Blades indicates an intention, quite obviously, to re-vamp the Cardinal outfield for coming campaigns. Blades has suffered long with a weak knee. Douthit's hitting has been uncertain. Harper is nearing the end of his big league days.

The changes made in the Cardinal lineup will depend, somewhat, of course, on who is managing the team.

It is generally accepted that Manager Bill McKechnie will not be retained. And the most likely candidate to succeed Bill is Manager Frank Snyder, former big league backstop, who won his spurs as manager of the Houston team of the Texas league last season.

The Houston club is a Cardinal farm.

And in connection with the possible promotion of Snyder comes an interesting story.

JACK AND TEX TALK BUSINESS

Dempsey Will Return to Ring, Is Belief Expressed By Observers

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Two wealthy business men set down today to discuss through the smoke of mild Havana everything pertaining to the fight game except the chances of one of them, Jack Dempsey, returning to active competition. That was the host, Tex Rickard, when he saved, Tex Rickard took the former heavyweight king to dinner.

The boss of Madison Square Garden, tanned to about half the complexion of this cigar, came back to his desk today after a six weeks vacation in Florida. His return was the signal for the prompt appearance of Dempsey and revival of all the rumors of a new comeback attempt to be staged by the old Manassa mauler next summer.

Talk Lasts Two Hours
For more than two hours, Dempsey, in a most congenial and receptive mood, talked of fights and fighters with Rickard, and a host of newspapermen. He discussed the advantages of Florida as a winter training ground, analyzed the fighting qualities of Paolino Uscudun and agreed the Spaniard would be an ideal opponent in the event of a comeback.

The former champion was careful to avoid mention of his oft reiterated statement that he was "through with the ring forever." He appeared restless, anxious to find an outlet for the nervous energy that keeps him continually "on the go." When he had left the room, Rickard smiled a benign smile and said:

"A few more months and the big fellow will be begging for a fight. He just can't stay inactive."

Comeback Discussed Next
While the business of today, on the surface at least, was to cement again the friendly relations that have had much to do with the millions both promoter and boxer have made together, Rickard said the business of a comeback would be discussed at the dinner tonight.

But, in accordance with the canny policy of getting the most from his publicity assets, he said there would be no definite announcement for "several days" at least.

The promoter said he had but two courses open in the event that Dempsey did decide to return to the ring. One would be the announcement that the old champion twice the victim of the retired Gene Tunney, was ready and willing to fight the winner of the winter elimination tournament in a title battle next summer. His other plan would call for withholding of any announcement until the winner and his suitability as an opponent for Dempsey, was determined in the elimination parade.

Jack in Good Shape
Dempsey, in fine shape after a week of hard training in a local gymnasium, said he was only 10 pounds over weight; at the mo-

Ritticisms

By BILL RITT

ELMER EEL started out to be a sensation with the Sauerkrant Center Normal football team. He ended up a disgrace.

But he was dumb enough to refuse to play against the navy. He said he didn't know how to row a boat.

He lost his job at center because he delayed the game by writing the signals on the ball. He thought they were telephone numbers.

Last Saturday he played at half-back. After the game four movie companies wanted to star him in a new comedy.

He was badly bruised but not tired. The other team was carrying him around most of the time.

In the second quarter the other boys hit him so hard his two front teeth were knocked out. A 10-yard gain. The park policeman almost arrested him for shooting dice.

Injuries Numerous
Injuries came thick and fast, and Coach Keene had to use every one of the 22 men he had in uniform. McMullin, fullback, and Ackerman, center, were the only ones who lasted through the game, and McMullin played with his lip cut so badly that it required five stitches to close the wound. Another reason that so many substitutes were used, was that the players, possibly on account of the altitude, became exhausted after about ten minutes in the game.

Charles DePoe, quarterback, suffered a severe "charley horse" which may keep him out of Saturday's game with Pacific university. Curtis French, half, sprained an ankle, and every man on the squad was badly battered, but all of them except perhaps DePoe, will be in shape again by Saturday, Coach Keene believes.

Toughest of Year
It was the hardest game that the Willamette team has played this year, the coach said, not excepting those against University of Washington and University of Oregon.

Despite the score in Monday's game, Keene does not believe College of Idaho will be able to defeat Whitman at Walla Walla this week-end.

Fighter Wins by Climbing in Ring

BANDIN, Ore., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Ole Nelshelm, Marshfield welter, won a technical knockout over Roy Giff, Astoria, in the sixth round last night. Both fighters fell through the ropes. Giff injuring his back so he could not come back.

An ordinance has been introduced in the Bend city council requiring that fortune-tellers and phrenologists who operate in that city in the future must pay a license of $100 daily.

CORVALLIS ELEVEN COMING ON FRIDAY

Several times this season local football fans have been disappointed in their hopes—that some opponent would give the Salem high school eleven sufficient competition to bring out its real strength but this coming Friday their hopes are due to be realized to advance predictions.

On this occasion the local eleven meets Corvallis high, its strongest rival for the Willamette valley championship. The college town team has been giving a good account of itself all season. It is true that on Monday it played a 7 to 7 tie with Albany high, which had previously lost to Salem, but the reports stated that Corvallis outplayed Albany and threatened the visitors good repeatedly.

Salem high was not pressed hard in Monday's game, and therefore will not be weakened for the Friday game due to the short interval between games. None of the Salem players was injured sufficiently to handicap the team for this crucial game.
