

Corvallis High Fans Confident Of Holding Salem Even

VALLEY TITLE TO BE DECIDED

Visitors Bringing Heavy Line; Strategy Principle Lack This Year

Supporters of the Corvallis high school football team are not the least bit downcast about the prospects for today's game with Salem high, despite the comparative scores which rather favor the local eleven, according to reports emanating from the city to the south.

Corvallis is counting on its heavy line to hold its own against Salem's powerful attack, and while not predicting a victory, is confident that it will be no walk-away for Salem.

Strategy Lacking
Well provided in all other departments, the Corvallis team has been handicapped by the exercise of poor judgment in the signal calling department. If the quarterbacks use better strategy in today's game fans there believe, the Corvallis team will be on a par with the locals.

Today's game will decide without any question the Willamette valley high school football championship, unless Woodburn, still undefeated but playing teams from smaller schools for the most part, claims it.

Rivalry Always High
Although the rivalry isn't just as bitter as that between Salem and Eugene, the local school has battled Corvallis high in close games for years and the spirit in both camps always runs high. Salem won last year 6 to 2, and the previous year 17 to 15.

HEENEY MAY FIGHT ARMAND EMANUEL

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 15—(AP)—Negotiations for a heavy-weight match between Tom Heene, New Zealander and Armand Emanuel, San Francisco fighter here some time next month, have been put under way by Olympic auditorium officials. The bout would be held in the indoor arena.

Heene, now in Vancouver, was said to be considering making the trip to Los Angeles whether he fights or not. He is enroute to New York, returning from a honeymoon in New Zealand.

Charles Emanuel, father and manager of Armand, was said by Olympic officials to be willing to help close the match by making a sizeable guarantee to Heene in order to get such a bout for his son.

Armand, fighting as a full-fledged heavyweight at a weight of 183 1/2 pounds, defeated Mike Arnold of Denver, Colo., here last Tuesday night by a decisive margin, but his victory over the lumbering blonde was not impressive.

Boxing fans are puzzled by the actions of Jack Dempsey, who denies that he will again seek his old heavyweight title and yet goes through strenuous daily workouts. Here's the latest photo of Jack, snapped in his training quarters in New York. Jack says the workouts are just to keep himself fit.

Willamette vs. Pacific Rivalry Survives Years

It's curious how intercollegiate football rivalry will survive, despite sustained and admitted ascendancy of one school or the other.

Witness Willamette and Pacific universities. Both independent colleges in Oregon, both in existence since pioneer times; near enough together so that a biennial excursion can be made by the routers of each school; it isn't any mystery how the rivalry became established something like 30 years ago.

And yet there was a period of 12 years, beginning in 1909, when Willamette constantly overshadowed the Congregationalist school on the gridiron, and sometimes this supremacy was so marked that it must have been difficult to arouse college spirit in either student body at the prospect of another certain Willamette victory.

But the rivalry persisted, and was as strong in 1919 and 1920, the last two years of that unbroken string of Willamette victories, as it was in 1909.

Student orators at the annual bonfire on the Willamette campus loudly boasted that Pacific—characterized as "P-U—" with a dragging accent which gave it a slightly derisive sound, had been beaten every year since "Jason Lee played quarterback," and yet there was a lot of spirit waiting to be kindled at the thought. How Pacific managed to keep up an equal spirit is difficult to see; but every year it succeeded, and while defeated on the gridiron, the Forest Grove students frequently came out ahead in the campus raids which were a custom then and were abandoned only last year. Then in 1921 a thunderstruck crowd of Willamette fans saw Pacific conquer for the first time; and for five bitter years they witnessed similar ignominy, until two years ago when Coach "Spec" Keene appeared on the scene and led the Bearcat warriors to victory again.

Last year Willamette won again. Records available, which may omit one or two games, show that Willamette has won 12 games and scored 229 points against Pacific; and Pacific has won seven games and scored 180 points against Willamette.

The records are:
1899—Willamette 28, Pacific 0.
1903—Pacific 21, Willamette 0.
1904—Willamette 28, Pacific 0.
1908—Pacific 4, Willamette 0.
1909—Willamette 8, Pacific 0.
1910—Willamette 12, Pacific 0.
1912—Willamette 40, Pacific 0.
1913—Willamette 61, Pacific 6.
1915—Willamette 13, Pacific 7.
1917—Willamette 23, Pacific 5.
1919—Willamette 13, Pacific 0.
1920—Willamette 23, Pacific 7.
1921—Pacific 27, Willamette 10.
1922—Pacific 20, Willamette 6.
1923—Pacific 13, Willamette 0.
1924—Pacific 25, Willamette 0.
1925—Pacific 23, Willamette 0.
1926—Willamette 19, Pacific 6.
1927—Willamette 13, Pacific 7.

FOX AND BAYES ALL SIGNED UP

Telegram From Klamath Falls Accepts Terms; Epochal Fight Certain

Word definitely clinching the Phil Bayes-Teddy Fox fight for next Thursday night, November 22, at the Oregon theatre in Salem, was received by wire Thursday by Harry Plant, local matchmaker, from John Orr, Fox's manager, at Klamath Falls where Fox was scheduled to meet Eddie Graham in a main event.

The telegram agreed to all of the terms of the contract previously offered, so the fight is on for sure. The principals have each posted $100 forfeits to make the stipulated weight, 128 pounds. They will weigh in at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Tickets In Demand
Matchmaker Plant is already being besieged from every side for reservations, indicating that this scrap, which fans here have been clamoring to see for more than a year, will draw a record house for Salem and fill the Oregon theatre which will be used to accommodate a fight crowd for the first time.

It's bound to be the big ring battle of the season, for a lot is at stake. Bayes has everything to lose and little to win, and the fans are giving him credit for gameness in agreeing to meet Fox.

Everything To Lose
If Fox should win, he will supersede Bayes as the principal local main eventer; and that of course is the reason why Fox has a lot to win in this fight but he could lose prestige in case of defeat, too, because so many fans have been proclaiming him as Bayes' superior.

Despite the early clamor for reservations, the ticket sale will not start until Saturday morning at 8 o'clock, at Adolph's cigar store.

W. U. GRIDIRON STAR NOW MARRIED MAN

The news is out. Carle Cranor, star halfback for two seasons on the Willamette university football team and the year before that an outstanding end, has been a married man for nearly two weeks. He was married on November 5 to Miss Alice Lewthwaite of Portland. So far as could be learned, no effort was made to keep the marriage a secret here and friends of the couple at Parkside, where Cranor's parents live and where

Espinosa Leads Field in Opening Round of Tourney

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Abe Espinosa, member of the family or "the five golfing Espinosas," led par and a field of 102 players by two strokes today in the opening round of the Oregon $5,000 open golf tournament at Waverley Country club. The little professional, who made his start in golfing around the San Francisco courses, but who is now located in Chicago, streaked around the rain-drenched Waverley layout in 70 strokes—just two under par.

Espinosa's card was two strokes better than scores marked up by four other professionals, namely the great Walter Hagen, British open champion, Johnny Golden of Patterson, N. J., Ed. Dudley, Hollywood, and Mel Smith, Columbia country club (Portland), who finished in a tie for second place with cards of 72.

open champion, finished in a tie with Dr. O. P. Willing, Portland Waverley amateur, had to share third place with Ben Richter, St. Louis professional. They finished with 73. Richter is a southpaw golfer—the only left-hander entered in the tournament.

"I'm solid for Chesterfield"

Mild enough for anybody ... and yet they Satisfy*

* A PLAIN, unvarnished statement of fact: "Mild enough for anybody and yet they satisfy". If you will light a Chesterfield and smoke it critically you will find no hint of harshness, but a certain mildness, with a rich, wholesome flavor. Chesterfields satisfy without being harsh. They're mild without being insipid or tasteless.

Days you "see your breath" are much too cold for "wet" gasoline

EVEN in summer "wet" gasoline is sluggish. Heavy kerosene-like particles fail to burn. They filter down into your oil, thinning it, ruining its lubricant value, wasting fuel.

And in winter you will have real trouble. "Wet" gasoline—even so-called winter quality of "wet" gasoline—simply can't vaporize properly. It hits the cold motor and condenses like a damp fog. It forms in droplets on the manifold, on the cylinder walls,

Your battery has a hard enough job turning a stiff cold motor without the added handicap of slow starting "wet" gasoline.

Would you like to avoid cold weather starting troubles? Would you like a gasoline that goes all into power and mileage? Shell 400, the "dry" gas is so exactly refined that "wet" fractions are eliminated. It vaporizes completely and therefore starts easily; it burns cleanly and hence delivers maximum power with no oil dilution or waste.

It costs no more than "wet" gasoline. Let every frosty morning remind you of Shell 400, the "dry" gas—no other Shell gasoline is sold.

QUICK STARTING The "DRY" GAS

And about oil: There's an oil now that forms no hard, flinty carbon. If you would avoid the endless troubles caused by carbon, and "add thousands of miles to the life of your car," insist on SHELL MOTOR OIL whenever you buy

With Shell 400, the "dry" gas, you can often run a full thousand miles and have less than 10% gasoline in your oil—no oil enough to seriously damage it.

It doesn't take many cold mornings to flood your oil with condensed wet gasoline that runs down the cylinder walls. Here's an example—oil half gasoline in less than five hundred miles of running!
