Vessel 35 Miles From Scene of Disaster Fails to Report Rescues

(Continued from Page 1.) stations. He read the log of the station at Tuckerton, N. J., and such parts of that of the Chatham, Mass., station as were not duplications of the Tuckerton messages. The log of the other stations, he said, merely duplicated the Tuckerton and Chatham logs. The detailed reading of the logs showed that on Sunday, November 11, the day the Vestris had to leave and began to tip, there was no record of any message from the ship to its line officers or from the line to the ship. There was no record of any interchange between the two until after the S O S when the line wireless the ship for details and the ship replied with a brief description of its perilous condition.

Entries Give Effect. But Plain Description. The reading of the log gave as terse a description of the disaster as there has been, in the following entries:

9:10 a. m. Monday—The Vestris informed the Tuckerton station that it was keeling over and might need help. Tuckerton broadcast the message general stand by warning to all ships.

9:52—Vestris sends its S O S. 10:37—A second S O S, giving its position.

10:58—Vestris reports condition getting worse.

11:00—"Oh, please come quick," pleads the Vestris.

12:15—The Vestris says: "Can hardly stay and receive."

1:15—Vestris reports steam going and shift to emergency radio set.

1:29—In rapidly fading signals Tuckerton gets from Vestris: "We are going to abandon ship soon."

1:30—Vestris reports ship being abandoned.

And at 1:35—Commercial wireless traffic permitted to resume, the radio stations keeping ships speeding to the scene, and lots of their rescue of more than 200 of the Vestris survivors.

Nearby Ship Fails To Give Assistance. Ostigan's reading of the various logs developed the information that at the time of the S O S the steamer Georgia Olson was apparently only 25 miles from the Vestris, but no testimony was given to show when she reached the scene of the sinking or if she ever got there.

The ships that did save about two thirds of those on the Vestris—the American Shipper, the Berlin, the Myrman and the Balthasar Wyoming—were all more than 100 miles away from the Vestris at the time of the S O S and did not reach the scene until after midnight.

Philadelphia is Scene of Fierce Gang Conflicts

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Gang warfare broke out anew here late today when two rival gangs shot it out with rifles, pistols and sawed off shotguns at Ninth and Christian streets—the neighborhood of gang shootings. Frank Piccola was struck by 11 bullets, and was in a critical condition tonight in a hospital. Three others, who police said were wounded, were whisked away in automobiles before their identity was learned.

Piccola refused to say who shot him or to give any version of the fight. Police said he was known to them as a gangster.

'River' Idea, Here Only One Day, Has Musical Varieties

George Guthrie of the Eldorado theatre announces that the Fanchon and Marco shows will play only one day in Salem, Tuesday. Three shows will be given, the first at 3:30 p. m. and two shows at night.

The presentation today is an unusual offering called "River" idea, and based upon the various songs of the river. Three head-line acts top the bill, with seven other big acts that do an ensemble as well as individual turns.

Rick and Snyder, the Harmony Kings, and Helen Warner, all in blackface, sing Southern melodies that are refreshing. A quick change by the girls discloses them as negro mammas, in which costumes they do a clever dance number. The "Famous River" number, which is the outstanding part of the presentation, opens with Rick and Snyder singing "Ready for the River." Following them Phillips and McBeth do a dance routine to "Beautiful Ohio" in rural costume. Blair and Thornton follow with a fast Varsity Drag, in Spanish costumes, to "Rio Grande." The Daniels come next with an adagio to the tune of "Moonlight on the Danube." Reva Howitt and Johnny Jones, in Irish green, jig and reel to "Where the River Shannon Flows." Louise Walker, does a solo dance to "Wabash Blues," followed by Al Walker in a George Primrose step to "Swanee River." Chet O'Day and Sammy Cantor do some eccentric footwork to the melody, "Moonlight on the Ganges," and Jellybean Johnson, does the Alligator crawl in honor of the Mississippi. Alexander Akimoff, celebrated Russian baritone, offers especially for the "River" idea the "Volga Boatman" sung in Russian.

Totem Pole Dress Brings New Note In Stage Costume

"It is as refreshing as it is rare, to see something that is new in the way of a stage costume," say members of the "Rose Marie" musical comedy, coming to the Eldorado next week. "The public is more or less fed up on the general run of sartorial displays as exploited in the elaborate productions of musical comedies. Years ago one of these rare events in the way of something new in dressing occurred when the 'Yama Yama' song, with a costume having the same name, was introduced in a successful musical comedy. Then ensued a period of working over prosaic and time-honored costumes, with the waist line going lower and the skirt line higher. Then followed the craze for Hawaiian dress—and then another long dearth of originality. "Rose Marie" is said to have a new idea. It is the Totem costume. This Totem costume has more or less fed up on the general run of sartorial displays as exploited in the elaborate production, erect in front of their tepees and shacks. They are used for worship and also to recite family history and achievements. "Rose Marie" comes to the Eldorado, Wednesday night, November 28.

ELKS CREEPING UP ON C. C. BEDS QUINT

The Elks crept up to within two games of the Capital City Bedding company team in the City bowling league Monday night at the Winter Garden when they defeated O'Leary's Legionnaires three games straight while the Man's Shop quintet was upsetting the "dope bucket" by beating the bedding makers two out of three. The Reo Flying Clouds won two out of three from Schol's Men's Wear.

McMullen's 230 for Schol's was the high single game score of the evening and Titus of the Man's Shop bowled the high individual series, 616.

STATE STREET PLAN HINTED AT MEETING

(Continued from Page 1.) yond its needs for widening High street, be declined and the property offered for sale under sealed bids. The recommendation was accepted.

Zoning Commission Members Reappointed. L. P. Campbell and A. L. Headrick were reappointed as members of the zoning commission.

Friday night, November 30, was set as the time for the annual budget committee meeting, and the councilmen appointed members of the committee to sit with them, as follows:

Alderman Armpratt, Ben Pade; Passey, Charles Pratt; Schunka, W. E. Hanson, Grabenhorst, Ralph Thompson, Hawkins, Curtis Cross; Herrick, W. E. Parks; Johnson, W. H. Phillips; Patton, A. N. Moores, Purvine, Dr. H. H. Ollinger, Rosbraugh, Leo N. Childs, Simeral, Wayne W. Price, Randall George W. Thompson, Townsend, E. B. Millard; Wenderoth, absent. Wenderoth's appointee will be David O'Hara or E. C. Bellinger. Mayor T. A. Livesley appointed C. P. Bishop member at large.

Petitions for paving on Spruce street from Cherry to Brooks, and on Waller from 15th street to the S. P. right of way, were granted. Motion pictures of playground activities in Salem, taken by Dr. David B. Hill, were shown to the council at the opening of the playground committee gave an accompanying talk.

Girls Organize—Doris Pickens, a post graduate student who came here from Roseburg, was chosen president of the Home Economics club, organized at the senior high school Monday morning. This is the first time the home economics students have formed a club, but judging from the enthusiasm apparent at the initial meeting, the club will be a decided success, report those in charge of the first meeting. Fifty-five girls who will meet twice a month, the day not yet decided, and will aim to have some education program at each meeting. Other officers of the club are: Frances Martin, vice-president, Emma Varley, secretary, and Jewell Fitzpatrick, treasurer. Members of the constitution committee are Margery Crittendon, also a post graduate, Phyllis Evans and Esther Wood. Mrs. Gladys Jensen, head of the department, and Mrs. Marjorie Stone Preble are advisors.

Nelson Speaker—J. C. Nelson, principal of the Salem high school, will be the speaker at the Kiwanis club luncheon today. His subject has not been announced.

Remains in Portland—Miss Mabel Arthur, commercial teacher at the senior high school, is still in Portland, where she was called two weeks ago by the serious illness of her mother. Condition of Mrs. Arthur has not improved, and it is likely the local teacher will remain there at least another week.

Construction Work Proceeds—With the basement cement work completed and with a floor being laid on the first level, construction work is going on apace on the new Steufluff building on Liberty street where the Kafoury store will be housed next year.
