Services at 10 o'clock—Through a misunderstanding, a number of local ministers announced 11:00 o'clock Thursday morning as the hour for the union Thanksgiving services sponsored by the Salem Ministerial union. W. N. Coffey, secretary of the union, reports that services in each of the five churches of the group will begin at 10:00 o'clock, as originally decided by the union.

Budgets Come, But Slow—The Marion county school districts are sending their 1929 budgets in, but not as fast as they should, reports County Superintendent Mary L. Fulkerson. This week marks the last in which budgets will be received to share in the requisitions which will be issued December 3, according to the effect having been issued last week by the superintendent.

Dread Disease Cured—Modern scientific medical treatment is beginning to conquer leprosy, eight persons having recently been released as cured from the National Leprosarium at Carville, La., according to a bulletin of the public health service released Monday from the Marion county health demonstration.

Many Attend Event—Many people attended the Thanksgiving services in the First Methodist church, when three former pastors, M. C. Wire of Newberg and John Parsons and R. N. Avison, both of Portland, extended remembrance greetings. About 50 members knew Dr. Wire when he was pastor in Salem 42 years ago. A get-acquainted and good fellowship service was conducted by the pastor, the Rev. F. C. Taylor, Sunday night when B. E. Sleson, chairman of the official board, extended formal welcome to a large group of new members. Refreshments were served by the Yew Park circle of the Ladies' Aid.

Coming Next Sunday—E. Dow Bancroft, a layman lecturer of the Methodist church from Ohio will be here next Sunday and will speak in the First Methodist church, announces the Rev. Fred C. Taylor, pastor. Mr. Dow is making a tour of the Pacific coast cities in the interest of the Brotherhood or men's movement in the church. He will speak Sunday afternoon on "The Mobilization of Men." The meeting will be under the auspices of the Salem sub-district Methodist Men's Council and will include the churches in Dallas, Silverton, Pratum and Brooks and the Methodist churches of Salem. The service will be open to all, but men will be given special recognition. A thirty minute musical prelude will be given before the address.

Ben Rickel, secretary of the young men's division, requests that all wishing to attend the dinner make reservations at the Y by noon today. Clarence Wenger will supply music for the dinner.

CHURCHES JOIN IN EVANGELISM MEETS—The Rev. L. D. Smith, pastor of the Nazarene church of Salem, Sunday night opened a series of union evangelistic meetings with the Clough-Huston Missionary Alliance at the Alliance tabernacle, 655 Ferry street, using as his text: "It is time for thee, Lord, to work for they have made void thy law." Mr. Smith pointed out that living has become so advanced that man's effort has been eliminated, and more merely needing to press a button for this and that, and that God is really left in the background. A revival that is prayed down from heaven, and not one that is worked up by men, is the thing most needed today, the minister said, adding that such a revival is possible if men and women will pay the price on their knees.

The Rev. J. G. Minton of the Alliance preached Monday night, the two ministers alternately sharing the pulpit for the series. Meetings begin at 7:30 o'clock. Healing services will be held each Friday night.
