Resident of This City Rides on Same Car With Alleged Slayer

ently began to realize that he was in the jurisdiction of American authorities. It was apparent that he was becoming more nervous as the miles slid behind him.

Northcott's train reached Portland today from Seattle at 3:18 p. m. A lay over until 5:30 p. m. was made. The prisoner was bailed into a rooming house at the train station, and a cordon of officials blocked entrance to the place, permitting newspapermen only a peek at the youth. A large crowd had gathered at Union station, expecting that perhaps they might get a glimpse of Northcott.

While keeping up a steady chatter, today, Northcott nervously fingered a match box which he flipped back and forth on a table, sighs and puffs ended his sentences. At infrequent intervals the youth sought to occupy his time at the window, and several times he thumbed through the pages of a Bible which rested on the table.

BRITISH KING IS NOW IN CRISIS

LONDON, Nov. 28. (AP)—Extreme reticence continued tonight to characterize the medical announcements issued at Buckingham Palace on the illness of King George. Taken at its face value, this evening's bulletin from Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson regarded as "normal" especially when read in connection with a letter which the two physicians sent to the cabinet.

It was noted however, that again nothing was said about the patient's temperature or pulse and that even the rather stereotyped statement that "his strength was maintained" was omitted this evening. The Bulletin said:

"The king passed a fair day with some sleep. Otherwise conditions are unchanged."

It was possible to infer from the statement that the king's condition was unchanged, that there had been no diminution in the king's strength. The fact that he had obtained sleep was hailed as another favorable sign.

The slightest straws of favorable indications are being grasped in London, as there was comment tonight on the fact that the bulletin was issued earlier than usual. Showing that the doctors had taken less time to decide on its wording.

WATER RIGHTS PLEA MADE TO GOVERNOR

five association, said the defeat of the four fish bills at the general election probably was due to an erroneous impression among the voters that the sportsmen had some ulterior motive in supporting the legislation. It was brought out at the meeting that Jackson county voters favored the four measures.

Figures were submitted showing that Oregon's water power has a value of more than $600,000,000. It was argued that the state should receive some compensation from the companies developing this power.

Conservation of Fish Not Sole Purpose

Virtually all of the speakers stressed the contention that it was not the purpose of the sportsmen's organization to confine its activities to the conservation of fish, but also to protect the commercial interests of the state. Special reference was made to the alleged inadequacy of the fish ladders erected by the power interests.

Governor Patterson promised members of the visiting delegation that no large water appropriations would be approved by the state until after the legislative session.

It was announced at the close of the meeting that a conference would be held in Portland Friday, December 7, when the proposed legislation will be discussed. This meeting will be attended by representatives of the state federation of labor, Oregon state grange, Farmers' union, power companies, fish and game commissions, Governor Patterson and other persons and organizations interested.

Among those who attended Wednesday's conference with the governor were Harold Clifford, state game warden, and Edward Stack, secretary of the state federation of labor.

Capitol Feature Proves Life Is a Symphony of Jazz

We have symphonies of music, of classical movement, of color, but it remained for Dr. Paul F. Jones, Hungarian motion picture director, to produce jazz interpreted by movement.

This is what he has done in Universal's talking picture, "Lonesome," starring Glenn Tryon with Barbara Kent, which is at the Capitol Theatre today as a special Thanksgiving attraction.

"Lonesome" is the story of a girl and a boy, both alone among the workers of New York. Like millions of people who live and move among the teeming crowds, they are lonesome for real friendship and love. The photoplay relates how their efforts to forget lonesomeness lead them to each other. "Lonesome" is from a story by Mann Page and was made under the supervision of Carl Laemmle, Jr.

As the Pilgrims Landed

It was the Pilgrims, a year after their landing at Plymouth, Mass., in 1620, who held the first Thanksgiving in America, in acknowledgment of their first harvest. The composite photo above shows the landing of the Pilgrims and the famous rock at Plymouth in the foreground.

Star Gazing ALONG MOVIE LANE

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The Statesman.

JEANNE EAGLES, movie and stage star, who appears in "The Letter," filmed with a sound recording equipment which can catch 8,000 vibrations a minute and thus, producers say, eliminates the lip which has been predominant in earlier talkies.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Do all movie actors lip, or what is the trouble, anyhow, with most of the talking moving pictures which have been heard so far?

This question is about the first which occurs to the average movie fan after the painful experience of hearing a lip-slip and seeing a beautiful blonde like Jeanne Eagles, who is called "the beautiful blonde" in "The Letter," something ought to be done about it.

Well, something is being done about it, according to Ralph H. Townsend, director of recording at Paramount's studio at Astoria, L. I., where the schedule calls for exclusive production of all-dialogue films utilizing Broadway actors who have trained stage voices. The lip has been eliminated from the first feature length picture made there. "The Letter," featuring Jeanne Eagles, according to Townsend, and in the next picture, "The Hole in the Wall," to be directed by Robert Floren, the sound will be still further improved.

'Tempest' Modern And Costly Film

"Tempest," the new John Barrymore picture for United Artists, which will open at the Elsinore theatre today, represents the largest production schedule and the greatest striving for popular entertainment in the famous star's screen career.

"Tempest" incidentally answers the plea of thousands of Barrymore's admirers for a picture in a modern setting. After a series of big costume pictures, in which he played romantic characters of hundreds of years ago, Barrymore and his United Artists associates yielded to popular demand and filmed a modern story—a saga of twentieth century Russia.

Barrymore, as a peasant officer who loves a princess, is supported by a cast of hundreds, the principals of which are Louis Wolheim, Camilla Horn, the German star who came to this country to become Barrymore's leading lady; George Fawcett, Ulrich Haupt, Boris de Faso, who also came to America from Europe especially to appear with Barrymore; Lena Malena and Albert Conti.

Famous Battle Is Shown in "Wings"

One hundred and twenty airplanes were used by William Wellman, one of Hollywood's youngest directors, in filming the battle scene of the World War from the aviator's standpoint. The cream of America's aviators were gathered together for the air battle picture, which was taken on location at Leon Springs, near San Antonio, Texas. There a battle area of five square miles was reconstructed in exact duplicate of the St. Mihiel region in France.

Men's Club Plan At Church Here

Preliminary plans were made Tuesday night for the organization of a men's club within the congregation of St. Paul's Episcopal church. A banquet served at 6:30 o'clock opened the first meeting of men of the parish. After an interesting program of entertainment, which was marked by vocal numbers and by the performance of sets of magic by Cooke Patton, the meeting was given over to a discussion of plans for the proposed club. The Rev. H. Duncan Chambers, who presided, was authorized to appoint a committee to work out definite plans following the holiday season. The dinner was served by women of the parish and arrangements were in charge of a committee headed by George Arbuckle.

'ROSE MARIE' WINS BY VIVID CHARMS

From a reportorial point of view, one of the most interesting things about "Rose Marie," which played to a well-filled house at the Elsinore theatre Wednesday evening was the fact that it lived up to its advance notices. As entertainment, it reached admirable heights and brought new beauties of production and unusual bits of business that enhanced its many delightful scenes and lines.

The captivating Virginia Fox, from whom much was expected, fulfilled every hope, yet she did not by any means take all honors. Full measure of praise was awarded her for a graceful, gracious, altogether delightful personality and for her possession of a clear, rich voice.

Vocally Miss Fox shared honors with Paul Donah, as she shared the spotlight with him. About their romance "Rose Marie" was woven most colorfully and with lines as well as music that proved of absorbing interest. The much-heralded totem pole number was a spectrum of color and action and with other scenes in the far northwest it presented vivid contrast to the refreshing charm of the scene in the grand ball room of the Chateau Fontaine, where the tangle in the romance of Rose Marie LaFlore and Jim Kenyon came to a delightful climax.

"Rose Marie" was vivid and animated, yet equally dainty and appealing with its scenic effects, its elaborately effective costuming and its tuneful score. A large and clever chorus completed the charm of "Rose Marie" and gave a lent background for the nonsense of Houston Richards as Hard Boiled Herman and for the prettiness and talent of Peggy Bates as Lady Jane. The presentation was forcibly halted by an eager audience at the totem pole dance scene, when Miss Miska as Wanda, a tragic Indian girl, danced, to say nothing of the several times it paused for response to the melodies sung by the principals.

"Rose Marie" gave an appreciative Salem audience an appetite for more of the same.—B.

'VIVA HOOVER' CRY VOICED BY CROWDS

The Hoover reception, Costa Rica lined its streets to welcome Mr. Hoover with school children, not to mention the happy little boys and girls, proud to wave salutes at Mr. Hoover in the name of peace, not the military display of guns, bayonets and soldiers of a standing army lined the streets of San Jose.

"The great president-elect of the greatest American republic, traveling on mighty battleship which is converted into a peace ship, traveling on a mission and with a peace and goodwill, is received by Costa Rica in precisely that spirit. We of the present generation and our children who will be the next to acclaim this occasion as an historic epoch."

DANCING AT SCHOOL INVOLVED PROBLEM

The question of allowing senior high school students to dance in the school gymnasium is likely to be a long time in being settled in the students' favor, Principal J. C. Nelson intimated Wednesday after he had been informed that the school board had refused to take action one way or the other until after school, and that possibly the high school principal, dean of girls and city superintendent sanctioned the idea.

Since the student problem has been thrown to the school heads, Mr. Nelson said he would take a vote of the faculty members at the teachers' meeting next Monday after school, and that possibly this would be succeeded by a yes or no vote of the parents, taken in much the same way the recent secret societies matter was handled.

Mr. Nelson pointed out that while an active minority or opposition to school dances has not yet developed, he expects it now that the matter has gone further than mere student voting.

A few of the problems involved in the question were pointed out by the principal, including the fact that it is not likely school dances will keep the students from attending public dances; that they will exclude students who do not want or care to dance from school social life; the hours during which dance may be held; and the matter of preventing outsiders from cutting in on the school times, as well as proper supervision and whether or not parents will assist in this.
