

CITIES ROCKED; PERSONS KILLED

Tumbler Does Terrific Damage; Remains of Buildings Torn Down

(Continued from Page 1.) Round-about routes due to the almost total breakdown in telegraph and telephone communications within the affected region. A new shock was felt here at 20 minutes past midnight Sunday morning. It was described as of regular intensity and duration. The tremor caused great alarm in the city, but it is unknown if it caused any damage.

Refugees from Talca arriving here by way of Curico report the city in ruins, presenting a desolate aspect, resembling a shell torn town during the great war. Of the buildings not leveled only the walls remain, and they are being demolished to avert further casualties.

The casualties thus far reported at Talca, they say, represent only those visible from the outside, and more are believed buried beneath the ruins. The streets are littered with debris and wires. Relief work is handicapped seriously by the lack of light and water, and the destruction of the hospital and pharmacy.

The area affected most seriously by the shocks lies in the southern portion of this narrow country, between the Andes and the Pacific, and stretches from Rancagua, which is 52 miles from here, to towns about 200 miles to the south.

Earth Disturbances Previously Experienced

The people of Chile are no strangers to earthquakes. In 1906 a large part of Valparaiso was reduced to ruins and several thousand persons were killed.

The most recent severe earthquake was that of November, 1922, which destroyed whole towns in southern Chile while tidal waves engulfed the seaports. The quakes lasted for hours, the tidal waves not occurring until about two hours after the main disturbance.

The U. S. S. Cleveland which today landed Herbert Hoover at Guayaquil, Ecuador, for a good will visit, in 1922, with the American warship Denver, was ordered to Chile with relief supplies from the Canal Zone as soon as President Harding heard of the disaster. The American Red Cross also assisted in the relief and rehabilitation.

Other tremors shook the country in December, 1922, January and May, 1923, November, 1927, and last April a severe shock brought death to 25 persons in Chile and Argentina.

EQUADOR WELCOMES YANKEE DELEGATION

(Continued from Page 1.) brilliant red coats and glistening helmets. lining both sides of the streets and standing only a few feet apart. Behind them the crowd shouted without pause "Viva Hoover, Viva United States; Viva Ecuador." As the Hoover party passed, the soldiers and firemen formed ranks and paraded past the presidential residence where President Ayora and Mr. Hoover reviewed them.

President Ayora gave Mr. Hoover the "abrazo," the embrace customary in Latin America. The president-elect returned it and they exchanged cordial words in informal greeting and expressing their warm mutual pleasure in the occasion.

About 50 American residents of the republic had come to Guayaquil to meet Mr. Hoover. At the reception by the foreign colony in the United States consulate, Mr. Hoover also met about 50 British subjects residing in Ecuador.

PRISONER SAYS HE HELPED IN BURNING

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The Chicago Daily Journal today published a purported confession of James Kelley, prisoner in a San Antonio hospital, that he helped Alfredo Knaak burn herself in the furnace of the Lake Bluff police station last month to purify herself for love of a married man.

Kelley was captured in the Texas city as a suspected army deserter and dispatches, have said he admitted aiding the girl psychology student and book agent thrust her limbs into the flames until she became unconscious.

"I tried to get her to quit," the Journal quoted Kelley. "But I did help her. I tried to put her into the furnace, but the door was too small."

It was for love of Charles W. Hitchcock, a married man and night policeman at Lake Bluff, that the girl braved the flames, Kelley said, confirming Miss Knaak's own story before she died.

Kelley said he met her at a station in Highland Park, and accompanied her to the Lake Bluff police station. There, the Journal said, Kelley and Miss Knaak turned their talk to religion.

The newspaper report gave Kelley's story of how the girl burned herself with his assistance. He had been a chauffeur for several prominent North Shore families including Major Frederick McLaughlin, husband of Irene Castle, William Wrigley and J. B. Herrick. His true name is believed to be Erna McVeigh.

Blind Students Attend Movie; Enjoy Talks

Through the courtesy of Frank Bligh and the management of Bligh's Capitol theatre, 18 students at the state school for the blind who are remaining in Salem for the Thanksgiving vacation, were guests at the current offering at the theatre Friday afternoon.

Although unable to derive any pleasure from the usual motion picture shows because of their affliction, the blind students understood the story told by the "talkies" feature film without difficulty, and enjoyed both the feature picture and talking vaudeville acts immensely. The students were accompanied to the theatre by Miss Gwendolyn Hallin and John Thompson, school attendants.

C. A. Howard, superintendent of the blind school, expressed deep appreciation of Mr. Bligh's thoughtfulness and courtesy.

LIONS HEAR TALK ON MUSIC VALUES

"Some music is good for all of us and all music is good for some of us," declared G. L. Taylor of San Francisco when he addressed members of the Lions club at their weekly luncheon—Friday at the Marion hotel on "All Kinds of Music For All Kinds of People."

The clever talk was one of a series which Mr. Taylor has delivered before Willamette university, the senior high school, and the three major service clubs in Salem in the interest of a campaign being conducted by Sherman Clay and company to increase the general knowledge of and interest in good music.

"Sweet Adeline" was spoken of by Mr. Taylor as the model hymn of the republic. Although Mr. Taylor discussed all types of music and gave a short history of several musical instruments, special mention was made of popular music which was divided into three sections by the speaker, including junk, smart, and real popular music. Two popular songs which have outlived and outdone all others are "The Rosary" and "A Perfect Day," said Mr. Taylor.

In a program provided by the local Sherman Clay office, Lyman McDonald sang "The Blind Ploughman" with Miss Betty Bedford playing his accompaniment. Mrs. Louise Robertson closed the program by singing a group of numbers accompanied by the Duo Art piano.

The Lions voted to purchase a section of seats at the Elsinore theatre Monday night, to be reserved for members and their families who will attend the production of the Salem Drama League plays "Jon" and "A Dear Little Wife." "Jon" was written by Mrs. Merrill E. Quinn, of Salem, wife of a prominent member of the Lions club. Both Mrs. Ohling and Mrs. Otto K. Paulus, production manager for the league, were present at the luncheon.

Charlie Murray's Riss Dates from Days of Sennett

In 1915, which marks the highlight of Charlie Murray's career, according to the comedian, he joined the movie company of Mack Sennett, and became a team mate of Charlie Chaplin, Mabel Normand, Chester Conklin, Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, Gloria Swanson, Betty Compson and a score more who are known as well in Brazil as in Buffalo, N. Y.

Those were the days of custard pies, mud holes, "chases" and those happy days of slap-stick comedy that the older generation of movie lovers will never forget. From short length comedies to the full length feature films went Murray, now separated from the old partner of those lean days, Ollie Mack. Murray has forged ahead, his "mugging," fun loving face with the twinkling Celtic eyes is known the world over while Mack, is forgotten.

Now, after 15 years, Murray is back on the stage, as he says, "back among the gals . . . but how they've changed . . . these little flappers of today." Murray is coming to the Elsinore theatre Tuesday as the star of Fanchon and Marco "Idea of Hats." Fanchon and Marco have been able to secure Murray for the Elsinore theatre in spite of the bidding and opposition of every vaudeville circuit in the country, for the picture theatres, like their movie brothers, will pay a king's ransom for an attraction that will start a stampede toward the ticket office and . . . after 36 years of funmaking Charlie Murray should be able to do just that.

Capitol Presents Combination Bill With Ferber Tale

"Mother Knows Best," featuring Midge Bellamy, Louise Dresser and Barry Norton comes to Bligh's Capitol theatre today for a run of one week.

The evolution of Edna Ferber's story on the screen shows the prodigy appearing and falling on the face of the development of schild amateur night, through the baptism of fire until she reaches Broadway, the goal of all these plans, wealth, fame and affluence, with her mother the guiding spirit of the march to fame.

The Capitol also will offer three wonderful Vitaphone acts including Brown and LaVelle, xylophonists. Hawaiian singers and dancers will present a varied entertainment of songs and dances. There are 12 persons in this group. Van Schenck will offer song successes.

Wings' Epic Film Of Fearless Men In War of Skies

"Wings" at the Elsinore theatre starting Wednesday is a film setting forth the work of the young knights of the clouds in the war. It is an epic of fearless young manhood, a paean of tribute to the airman "whose wings are folded forever"—as a phrase of dedication says—and it is also an example of what can be achieved in the air. How this picture ever came to be made passes understanding. It is no combination of trickery and models, but a realistic visualization of real people riding the clouds and triumphing over the dawn.

The story is one of genuine drama, rich with the finest qualities that lie at the basis of the friendships of youth, and touched with infinite beauty of romance which runs through it like a silver thread in a purple pall. For it is also essentially a picture of war, of sacrifice, of stern conflict, of the ultimate test of human endurance and human conquest over fear. Those who have no knowledge of aviation—and they constitute the very great majority of the theatregoers—will marvel at the astounding scenes and sights presented upon the screen.
