

BE KEERFUL, the cops intimate, lest you get caught with your car parked in an alley or pay a towing charge for having it hauled out. Also be careful that you don't lead your car to the jam of traffic on Commercial street and park three deep. Something might happen. The topics are covered by pointed statements, as are other pertinent subjects, in today's gist of Tablet interviews, which follow:

GEORGE THOMASON, city traffic officer, said "A fellow reported at the police station the other day that his car, parked in an alley was stolen. It was found parked on a street nearby. My guess is that somebody wanted to use the alley. The car owner was lucky he didn't discover a fine and a towing charge chalked up against him."

MRS. GLADYS JENSEN, head of the home economics department of the Salem high school, said: "The members of the New Home Economics club are showing a lot of enthusiasm. The first test of the club will come later this week, with the bazaar which the members are sponsoring."

LESTER STAPLES, 265 North Commercial street said: "There were times Saturday afternoon when cars were parked three deep on both sides of the street, leaving only room enough for one lane of traffic to pass in the middle. Tourists driving through to the Pacific highway pass along Commercial street. They certainly must get a good idea of the city by that traffic congestion on a main business street."

C. J. EDWARDS, former public utility owner of Tillamook, said: "I can see a fine future for the linen industry. It will take time to develop trained workmen, but certainly this valley is a logical place to carry on linen manufacture."

"MIKE" VAN LAANEN, member of company M from Salem during the World war, said: "Our company reunion is going to be in Portland this Tuesday. Come on, you birds, let's get organized; everybody that was in the company has to be there."

GASTON WILDER FORT, of Chemawa Indian school, said: "Teach a youngster the right way and he'll never get the wrong way. Bring him up to law abiding habits and he'll be a law abiding citizen."

WAYNE PETTIT, Salem correspondent for a Portland newspaper said: "The getting ready for state legislature at the capitol already. Today they moved our press room from the place in back of the senate chamber where it's been for nearly two years. They moved the state veterinarian's headquarters to the postoffice building and gave us his room."

FAST TRAIN TAKES PRINCE HOMEWARD

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Edward Albert, prince of Wales, tonight was journeying through the Alps on the last lap of a 6,000-mile journey from equatorial Africa. To speed the heir to the British throne on his way to the bedside of King George, the railway authorities of Italy, Switzerland and France had cleared their lines so that nothing might delay his arrival at Boulogne, a brief one-hour voyage from the cliffs of England. The prince was quartered in a private car belonging to the heir to the Italian throne, Prince Umberto of Piedmont. The finest locomotives of Europe and crack train crews of three countries were being pressed into service to give him the right of way across Europe such as few people have had in history. The whole journey of 1322 miles from Brindisi, on the Adriatic, to Boulogne, on the channel, was planned at a speed of nearly 40 miles an hour for the entire distance, including stops and the laborious trans-Alpine part of the trip. Oregon Coast Swept By Terrific Storm Which Halts Light and Communication

PORTLAND, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Western Oregon was recovering today from the most serious storm of the season which yesterday crippled light, power and telephone lines and barricaded highways. A gale lashed the coast with terrific fury last night and early this morning, relenting toward afternoon. Communication was being restored today and highways reopened along the Oregon coast from Taft to Wheeler where the most severe wind and rain storm of the season hit full force. The telegraph line between Tillamook and Portland was still out tonight, and automobile traffic was detouring for two miles across the road between Tillamook and Barview. The gale lasted 26 hours in the

SEVENTY-EIGHTH YEAR

WORST FEARED AS INFECTION SPREADS AGAIN

Condition of King George Now More Serious Than Ever, Indication

Palace Officials 'Disquieted' At Situation; Heart Is Threatened

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Palace officials tonight were said in a semi-official statement to be disquieted by the condition of King George. They took note of the fact reported in the night bulletin that the general infection has returned in some measure.

At the end of last week the physicians were able to report that the infection which had spread throughout the system of their royal patient had become localized and that the King therefore was in a safer position. This situation now has been reversed. The spread of poison from the infected lung to other parts of the system must have an effect on the heart, which already has undergone the strain of three weeks' serious illness and concern accordingly made itself felt.

The evening bulletin was rather more informative than recent public statements and still dwelt upon the strain which prolongation of the infection is placing on the heart. It read:

Fever Persists Due To General Infection

"His majesty had a quiet day. The signs in the lung have improved. The fever persists, although it is not so high as last evening and is due to some return of the general infection which necessarily affects the condition of the heart."

Another fact tending to accentuate public anxiety was the fact that four physicians again were called into consultation. The bulletin was signed by Sir Stanley Hewitt, Sir E. Farquhar Buzzard, Sir Humphrey Rolleston and Lord Dawson of Penn.

The anxiety reported in the morning bulletin was explained tonight as being due to the action of the heart of some return of the general infection, although the actual condition of the lung had improved.

Tonight great crowds assembled outside the palace to await the bulletin despite extremely cold weather. Apprehension as to whether the King could continue much longer to wage a successful fight against his disease was evident in the mood of the waiting people. They are disposed to read more into these daily bulletins than perhaps is justified.

The wording of the night bulletin is a slightly more hopeful attitude in the throng. The comings and goings of the physicians and movements of members of the royal family were watched by the crowds with pathetic interest and the fact that Queen Mary omitted her daily drive this afternoon caused much comment.

TEACHER KILLED BY YOUTHFUL STUDENT

SHERIDAN, Mich., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The memory of a classroom reprimand three years ago, prompted Jimmy Deacons, 16-year-old student, to attack and kill Miss Florence Carter, 27-year-old school teacher, the boy confessed to state police today. Deacons told Captain Fred Armstrong of the state police, that after having been invited to ride in Miss Carter's automobile, he dazed her with a blow from his fist, assaulted her and then realizing what he had done, killed her with a stone. The slaying occurred last Friday night on a little used road just beyond the Sheridan village limits. Miss Carter's body was discovered yesterday by Roy Collier, a 15-year-old boy who lives a quarter of a mile from where Deacons drove the car after killing its owner.

Salvation Army's Christmas Drive Gets Off to a Flying Start; Let's Go! Everybody

Now—the Salvation Army drive for a Christmas cheer fund is off to a flying start—with a total of $213.38 in cash reported by Captain Earl M. Williams Monday night. Let's go!

IT WAS Sunday night in Salem. On a street corner a handful of faithful Salvation Army folk lifted their voices in a song that made up in fervor whatever it lacked in tune.

A man of 34 walked by on the other side of the street—heard the singing and the drum. They made a faint impression on his consciousness. His head drooped between his shoulders; his hands were deep in his pockets; he walked like one who does not know which way he is traveling and has ceased to care.

The woman he had sworn to love had told him more than once that she could not live under his abuse and that she would leave him and go away. And that night she had made good her promise.

"He was in the frame of mind," Captain Williams says, "of men who kill themselves, and was no one to whom he could turn. He simply walked the streets all that night."

"Early the next morning my phone rang and from the other end of the wire came an almost incoherent voice. A man, seemingly in great distress, wanted to see me at once."

The captain met him at the Salvation Army office and there he told his story, sobbing like a child. They seem to know pretty well what to do with such cases, these Salvation Army folks. They put a new heart in him. They located his wife and stood at his side while he made his humble plea for forgiveness. So he and she went back together to the home that had been on the verge of destruction, been elected this week.

Names will appear on the ballot in the following alphabetical order and will be voted on at the next Monday luncheon of the chamber:

STOCK MARKET SHOWS STRONG UPWARD TREND

Bear Movement of Last Week Checked as Reaction Takes Effect

Long List of Gains Noted With Few Sensational Rises in Evidence

By STANLEY W. PRENOSIL, Associated Press Financial Editor
NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The stock market, having passed through the most drastic reaction in its history last week, closed generally higher today after a series of highly erratic price movements in which Radio, Montgomery Ward and some of the other high priced specialties broke through their low levels of last Saturday. Final quotations disclosed a long list of net gains ranging from $1 to $5 a share, and a sprinkling of gains running from $2 to $3 a share.

Rumors were widely circulated around Wall Street over the weekend that leading bankers, at a meeting Saturday afternoon, had provided organized buying support for the market. This brought about a strong uptrend in which many issues quickly ran up $5 to $18 a share. The rally attracted a fresh outburst of selling which increased on unofficial denials that any bankers' conference was held.

Radio Corporation
Stock Shows Strength
Radio Corporation common stock, which broke $72 a share Saturday, opened $74 a share higher at $76, advanced to $78, broke quickly to $75 and then rebounded to $80 for a net gain of $9 a share. Wright Aeronautical opened at $217 a share, advanced to $221, broke to 196 and rallied to $218, up $2 a share net.

Montgomery Ward, on the other hand, opened $4 a share lower at $36, advanced to $34, tumbled to $30.50 and then rebounded to $33.87 1/2, off $5.12 1/2 net. Among the few other important issues which showed substantial net declines were Indian Refining preferred, which broke $21 a share on a couple of sales and National Bellas Hess, National Cash Register, Stanley Co. of America and Superior Steel, all off $4 to $5 a share.

SEARCHING PARTIES SEEK MISSING GIRL

Young Woman Lost Somewhere Along McKenzie River Since Sunday

EUGENE, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Bloodhounds, an airplane, and members of a mountain climbing organization are searching for Miss Fay Wilbur, 20-year-old Eugene stenographer, who became lost Sunday afternoon in the mountains near Sluslaw Falls, 35 miles southwest of this city.

The girl, in the company of Walter Weber, drove to the falls in an automobile, and had lunch there. Weber said he fell asleep in the car, and awakening some time later, discovered that Miss Wilbur had gone.

He hunted for several hours until darkness fell, he said, and then went to a farm house for aid. While Sunday was a fair day, an unusually heavy rain fell during the night and it was believed that if the girl failed to find shelter, she must have suffered severely from exposure.

She was attired for hiking, the searchers will explore every ravine and will search along the banks of the Sluslaw river, fearing Miss Wilbur may have met with an accident.

Parties of Obsidians, the local mountain climbing organization, and the American Legion are on the scene. The search has been carried out since late Sunday night.

'Northern Annex' To Murder Farm Sought in Canada

British Columbia Official Denies Graves Sought in His Province

SEATTLE, Dec. 10.—(AP)—After announcing that they had uncovered evidence indicating that Gordon Stewart Northcott killed at least one boy in British Columbia while being sought by California officers, Lewis H. Daugherty and H. M. Ogden, Los Angeles detectives left for California tonight.

The two detectives said their evidence indicated the existence of a "northern annex to the murder farm" at Riverside, Calif. While refusing to divulge any names, the detectives said Canadian officials were searching for the grave of a 15 year old boy, who dropped from sight after being in the company of Northcott.

Northcott and the boy were traced from California to Seattle and then to Vancouver where the boy disappeared, the Los Angeles men said. Northcott and the boy were said to have stopped at two hotels in Vancouver and also two hotels in Vancouver, B. C.

The detectives added that after this supposed murder a second boy was believed to have been picked up by Northcott, but the identity whereabouts of this second lad are unknown.

Daugherty and Ogden said they had been investigating the case for three weeks around Seattle and Vancouver and have evidence in show Northcott received money from Los Angeles while he was in Seattle on his way north from California.
