

The Day's News in Pictures

A RECORD CROP OF CORN has been harvested in Illinois this year, not less than 400,000,000 bushels having been produced. Photo shows some of the corn and a pretty maid near Bloomington.

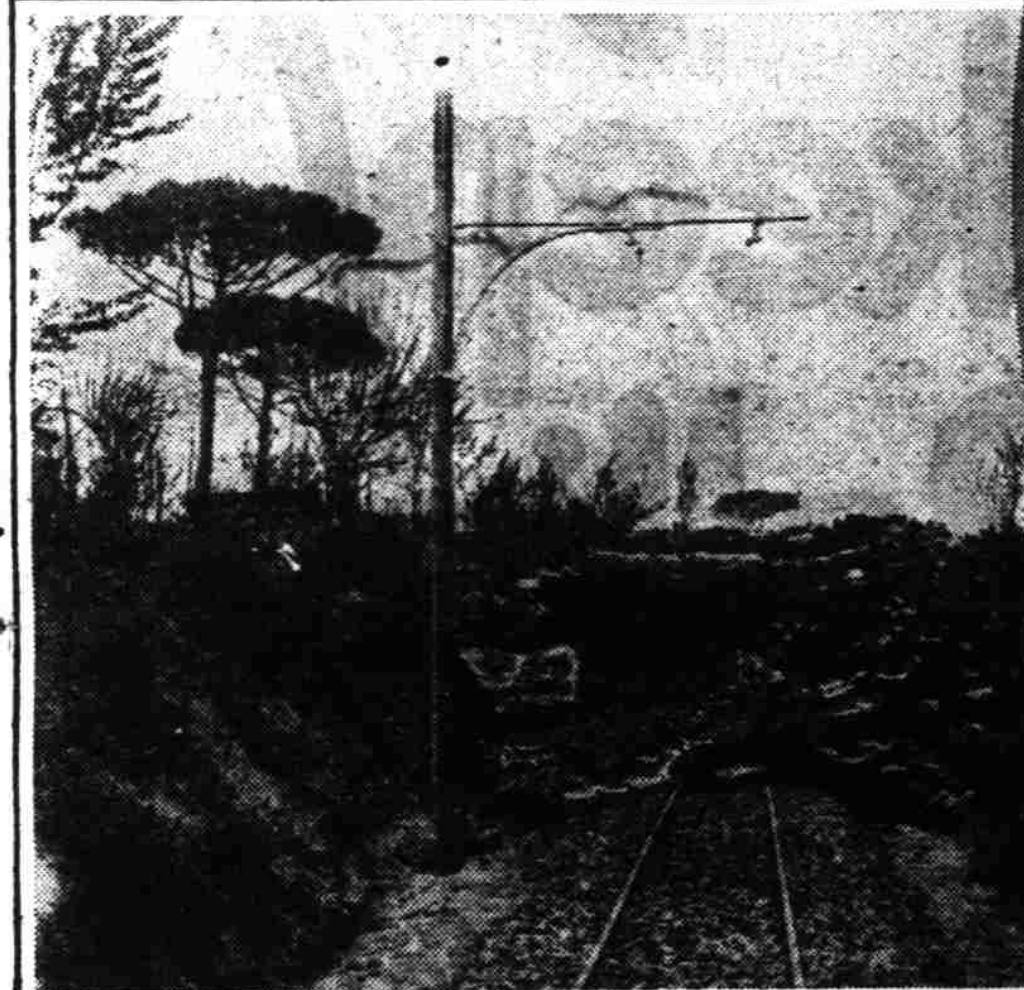

MOST EFFICIENT of the 23 aviation divisions in the United States is Philadelphia's naval reserve unit, say judges. Photo shows Lieutenant Commander Robert Hedler, in charge of the unit, being congratulated by Rear Admiral Julian Latimer, commandant of Philadelphia navy yard, while members of the air unit look on.

MEASURING THE HORIZON, this theodolite of the navy department will be used to site pilot balloons sent from shipboard for the purpose of gathering weather information. R. L. Currie, of the bureau of aeronautics, at Washington, is shown with the new compass.

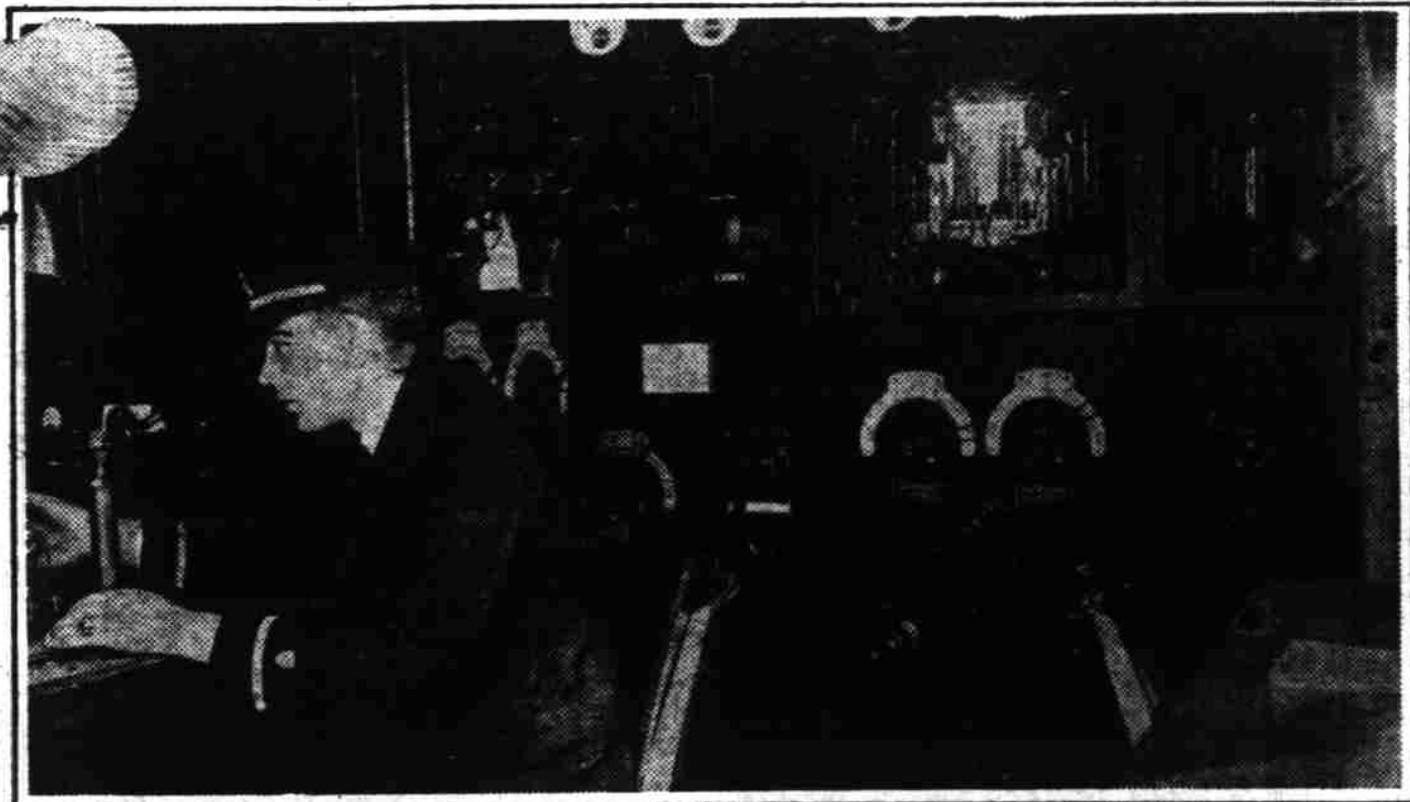

A BEAR'S HUG has nothing on this fellow's. His name is Ilak; he's an Alaskan wolf hound; he towers six feet two and a half inches on his hinders, and weighs 190 pounds, and he's visiting the United States with his master, William Strother, of Nome, Alaska. At the moment Ilak is posed with Miss Josephine Harrison while seeing Cincinnati.

TARDY TRAINS had a good alibi on this railroad in northern Sicily. The unique photo shows the mass of lava as it advanced down the tracks shortly after the volcano erupted recently. Needless to say, traffic got no further.

XYLOTRIHYDROXYGLUTARIC ACID doesn't sound very good, but it may soon be a popular prohibition beverage. Dr. Warren E. Emley, shown here, of the bureau of standards in Washington, declares it makes good lemonade. It is made of cotton seed bran, acid, wood sugar and extracting bran.

UNCLE SAM'S NEWEST CUTTER has three transmitters and three receiving sets in its radio room, shown above. It is the U. S. coast guard cutter Chelan, snapped at Washington, and cost $1,000,000. Ensign L. B. Tollaaksen is in the photo.

TEACHING HUBBY'S PARISHIONERS TO DANCE occupies the time of Dorothy Deuel, of Chicago, one-time Broadway stage star, now the wife of the Rev. Henry Scott Rubel, Episcopalian minister. She has three dancing classes, the proceeds of which go toward raising church money. Reverend Rubel and his wife are shown looking over a group of Dorothy's promising dancers.

AFTER TWO YEARS' LABOR New York has opened a new viaduct on Riverside drive which eliminates a dangerous detour. Spanning the river front valley, it cost $2,360,000.