OREGON LIVES AMID RICHES

Salem Held in Strategic Location to Become Great City

"Oregon people are living too close to the picture to fully appreciate the riches of their location. The Miller of the Community Development company told the Salem Realty board at the luncheon meeting Thursday noon at the Marion in speaking upon "Opportunities to Realtors in Salem and Vicinity."

While some cities have been built solely upon climate to begin with—as for instance Los Angeles, and others upon a single industry, as for instance Akron, Ohio, and its rubber industry, Detroit and its automobile factories, Grand Rapids and its furniture and Hollywood, the movie center—Salem has a combination of the prime requisites for the building of a city. Mr. Miller pointed out. This in spite of the fact that many of its own residents fail to recognize the activity that is in hand.

Destiny Pointed

In support of his assertion that there is no basic reason why Salem should not grow, Mr. Miller quoted the words of Roger Babson, statistician, that there is a strip of territory 50 miles wide between British Columbia on the north and the Willamette valley on the south that is destined to become the center of one of the country's greatest populations. The strip is the Pacific northwest, where, the speaker said, almost everything known to man may be grown or manufactured and which even now is the center of one of the world's greatest industries, lumber, with its 8,000 mills and $25 billion test of standing timber.

Citing as the five requisites for a city a strategic location, industry, transportation, payroll and population, all of which dovetail into the other, Mr. Miller pointed to Salem's strategic location in the heart of the Willamette valley, to its rapid progress as a traffic center and to the 454 new families that have located in Salem recently to the new homes that are being built, and to the canning, flax, paper mills and cold storage industries.

APPROVAL OF CODE AWAITS OBJECTIONS

The four ordinances comprising the proposed Salem building code, passed unanimously by the council Monday night, have not yet been presented to Mayor Livestor for his approval or veto. Recorder Poulsen reports, for the reason that they have not yet been compiled in proper form.

The mayor has indicated that he will delay signing the ordinances as long as possible, in order to give objectors an opportunity to state their opinions.

The mayor has ten days after the ordinances are presented to him, in which either to approve or veto; if he fails to do either they take effect at the end of that time; if he vetoes them, they go back to the council for final action, passage requiring a two-thirds vote of the entire council.

HOSS HOLDS HOPE FOR AUTO OWNERS

There will be no established date set beyond which owners can operate cars with 1923 licenses, according to Hal E. Hoss, secretary of state.

"This date already is fixed by law as January 1," said Mr. Hoss, and it is not in my province to change that date or advance the time when one can operate on old plates. All that this department can do is to assume that all persons wishing 1923 plates have purchased them by January 1. I have so instructed the state traffic officers.

"But realizing as we do that all applications are not taken care of the day they are received it is not the intention of this department to establish in advance a date when arrests for use of old plates will be made.

"Every effort is being made this year to expedite the issuance of plates."

Food Taken By Market Prowlers

Burglars, evidently destitute persons in need of food, entered the Woods Brothers meat market at 2553 Portland road sometime before daylight Thursday morning, the proprietors of the market informed the police. About $2 in cash was taken, some cigars and candy and an undetermined amount of meat and other edibles. Entrance was gained by prying off the back door lock with a hammer.

Yamhill Citizens Offer Alternate Road to Portland

A delegation of Yamhill county citizens today requested Governor Patterson to use his influence in having the state highway commission designate as a state highway the so-called river road extending from Salem to Dayton.

It was argued that this road, if adopted as a state highway, would shorten materially the distance between Salem and Portland. The proposed new state highway would connect with the West Side Pacific highway at Dayton.

ROTARY FINES OF $160 FOR CHARITY

Operate vocal activities from Dr. R. E. Lee Steiner mingled with the Swedish "folk song" of Grover Hillman and with songs and recitations of other members to make the Wednesday noon meeting of the Salem Rotary club and unusual home talent performance.

The object, as conceived by Walter Stola, chairman, and Charles Archerd, "ring master" for the day, was an auditions contest as a result of which fines might be levied for the club's Christmas fund. The event was so successful that $160 in fines were collected. Of this amount $75 was delivered to the Salvation Army Christmas good will fund and the balance was turned over to the Rotary committee which will quietly carry on their own charitable activities at the Christmas season, as has been done in the past. Much of the latter activity will be directed by the boys' work committee of the club. T. B. Kay, W. S. Walton, Dan Fry Sr., and Dr. H. H. Olinger were judges of the impromptu contests to which Dr. Steiner, Hillman, C. A. Howard, Col. Carl E. Abrams, Phil Eiker and Dr. H. C. Epley contributed.
