

Affairs in the Social World and News of Varied Club Activities

OLIVE M. DOAK — Society Editor

Birthday Bridge It Attractive Party

A very beautiful birthday party was celebrated for Miss Phyllis Day's eighteenth birthday which comes on Christmas day, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Day, 645 Chemeketa street, Thursday evening.

The home was artistically decorated in holly, red bells, evergreen, red tapers and a large, lighted Christmas tree. Twelve tables of bridge formed the diversion of the evening. Miss Dorothy White won high score and Miss Virginia Page won second.

Miss Isobel George assisted Miss Day in serving at the close of playing.

Guests for the evening were Miss Virginia Berger, Miss Dorothy Moore, Miss Ellen Hemenway, Miss Katherine Laughridge, Miss Katherine Corey, Miss Julia Croach, Miss Margaret Brown, Miss Maxine Myers, Miss Virginia Simon, Miss Virginia Holt, Miss Margaret Draeger, Miss Lorraine Kiazler, Miss Yvonne Smith, Miss Cynthia Delano, Miss Dorothy White, Miss Isobel George, Miss Grace Holman, Miss Benita Dalier, Miss Louis Wilkes, Miss Caroline Braden, Miss Gretchen Thielson, Miss Eleanor Wright, Miss Ruth Ida Hoffnell, Miss Louis McDougal, Miss Elizabeth Waters, Miss Bertha Babcock, Miss Hazel Johnson, Miss Alida Olsen, Miss Virginia Page, Miss Edith Findley, Miss Juanita Powell, Miss Fay Driscoll, Miss Frances Martin, Miss Esther Wood, Miss Willa C. Fleener, Miss Marguerite Stevens, Miss Ruth Pick, Miss Margaret Corey, and the guest of honor, Miss Phyllis Day.

Chapter G of P. E. O. Christmas Party

Members of chapter G of the P. E. O. sisterhood were entertained at a Christmas party in the home of Mrs. W. T. Hickey Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Harold Hughes, Mrs. C. F. Temple, Mrs. C. C. Potts and Mrs. W. W. Moore acted as hostesses. Christmas greens and red tapers were used as decorations about the rooms.

Mrs. Gardner Knapp gave "Christmas in Bethlehem" as a reading and the group sang Christmas carols previous to the distribution of gifts from a large Christmas tree.

At the tea hour Mrs. Hickey was presented with a birthday cake as an anniversary token.

During the afternoon the group packed a Christmas box for the county poor farm, a bit of charity which has become an annual custom of chapter G.

Sweet Briar Club Have Luncheon

Members of the Sweet Briar club were entertained with a luncheon by Mrs. L. A. Grote and Mrs. J. K. Crabtree at the home of Mrs. Grote on the Wallace road Wednesday afternoon.

Christmas decorations of greens and tapers centered the luncheon table where covers were laid for Mrs. Arthur Uley, Mrs. Groydon Blodgett, Mrs. William F. McColl, Mrs. M. C. Petreys, Mrs. A. H. Bhan, Mrs. Ed Pratt, Miss Nellie Taylor, Mr. E. O. Moll, Mrs. C. C. Page, Mrs. James Imiah, Mrs. Karl Kugel, Mrs. Glenn Adams, Mrs. M. P. Adams, Mrs. Ralph Allen, Mrs. Ray Binegar, Mrs. F. E. Hoover, and the hostesses, Mrs. Crabtree and Mrs. Grote.

South High Street Home Holiday Interest

Mr. and Mrs. Dan J. Fry, Sr. have made the holiday spirit bit of reality that may be viewed as well as felt. They have had Christmas lights placed in both the big holly trees that stand in their yard on South High street, and in all the shrubbery which decorates the lawn.

When the night time comes on and the lights are all lighted, the sight is well worth anyone's time to view. Mr. and Mrs. Fry invite the public to come and view this bit of holiday spirit with them.

KEIZER—Mrs. William Taylor was hostess Thursday afternoon to the East Keizer Darning club. Following the regular meeting the club enjoyed a Christmas program and an exchange of gifts.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Fred Fox and Miss Harriett Darling, served refreshments to the club group late in the afternoon to the special guests, Mrs. Darling, Mrs. Van Cleave, Mrs. Howard Bivens, and Miss Lulu McCloy, and the regular members, Miss Nancy Mudge, Mrs. J. E. Bartruff, Mrs. Ernest Bondick, Mrs. John McCleod, Mrs. R. B. McClay, Mrs. Gny Smith, Mrs. C. W. Beecroft and Mrs. G. W. Browning.

A number of the Willamette university will migrate to California for the Christmas vacation. Dr. J. D. McCormick, Professor and Mrs. Monk, and Professor and Mrs. Frank Laemer left Friday morning for a motor trip to Long Beach, Cal.

Professor and Mrs. Alexander Vanakas plan to spend the holiday recess in San Francisco with a former pupil of Professor Vanakas.

Miss Helen Rodolf leaves today to spend Christmas with her parents in Aloha.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Byrnes will have Mrs. C. G. Irwin of Portland as their guest for Christmas.

Fashion Concentrates on Knitted Frocks for Onlookers

The resort mode arrives in a triumph of color, with rippled stripes and mixture effects. Smart styles for the resort season and early spring are here, says Madelon, New York fashion observer. Topping the mode of smart golf costumes is the two-piece frock, left. The high collar is for the golfer who does not want to tan. It has flat applied stripes which are especially good in kasimir jersey. Rippled stripes are featured in the slender model, center. The youthful sports model, right, consists of a three-quarters length pleated leotard jumper and pleated skirt—the very last minute in sports frocks.

Chadwick Chapter Give Children's Party

The Chadwick chapter social club, Order of the Eastern Star, will entertain at a children's Christmas party in the Masonic Temple this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Marge Merritt, who is the party chairman, is preparing candy-filled stockings, fruit and nuts for the little guests. The tree will feature the afternoon's entertainment.

The committee members for the party include Lola Millard, Fannie Millard, Mayna Stewart, Dr. Fannie Brown Tibbets, Neba Tibbet, Dora McElhane, Mayme Thompson, Anna Niseann, May Rauch, and Mildred Flagg.

Girl Reserves Plan For Holiday Service

The Girl Reserves of the city are entering into the Christmas spirit in rendering special service to the various hospitals and homes about Salem. Under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Minkewitz the girls will participate in the Salvation Army Christmas service at the Girls Training school, at the Old People's Home, and at the tuberculosis hospital Sunday afternoon. Mrs. L. W. Gleason is providing the transportation.

Together, the groups of the Leslie and Parrish Junior highs, the Washington, Garfield, and Richmond, and the Senior high are planning to provide Christmas presents for 34 children at the tuberculosis hospital.

The young members of the Technic club were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mills Thursday evening. The evening was occupied with games, jokes, and crowned with a Christmas tree which contained Christmas presents for all. Miss Ruth Braut is faculty advisor for this club of young art-enthusiasts.

The Can-Do class of the Leslie Methodist church were entertained with their annual Christmas party at the home of Dr. and Mrs. B. F. Pound, 1380 S. Liberty street, Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Greenwood, and Dr. and Mrs. C. Ward Davis assisted in entertaining and with serving.

The Joshua Smith, No. 6, and their auxiliary are planning a Christmas tree and party.

Mrs. John Carson was a charming hostess to a small group of her friends for a bridge party Friday afternoon. Three tables were in play.

High score prizes for the afternoon went to Mrs. Lawrence Hoffner and Mrs. Fritz Slade.

Mrs. G. R. Moorehead and her son Virgil recently left for Los Angeles to spend the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Dan Moorehead. They plan to be gone for two or three weeks.

Miss Elizabeth Lord and Miss Edith Schryver, recent arrivals of note in the Salem social and artistic circles, are spending a few days in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Pearson of Portland and their daughter Barbara will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Cross for Christmas.

The Daughters of Veterans will meet with Mrs. Wilks Entress, 1855 S. Commercial street, Sunday afternoon, at three o'clock. From there they will go to the various homes of veterans where they will serenade with Christmas carols and distribute Christmas cheer baskets.

Professor and Mrs. Dan of Corvallis plan to spend the holidays in Salem with the parents of Mrs. Dan, Mr. and Mrs. B. O. Miles.

Former Salem Hi Girl Announces Marriage

Miss Maude Gwinn surprised her friends Friday with the announcement of her marriage October 4, to Robert M. Newburgh. Mrs. Newburgh is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Gwinn of this city. Mr. Newburgh is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Newburgh, also of Salem.

Mrs. Newburgh graduated from Salem high school in 1925. While in high school she was song leader for three successive years and was a member of the C. M. C. club there.

Mr. Newburgh has been connected with the Pacific Coast Branch of the Southern Cotton Oil Trading company in Portland for some time.

The young people left for a motor trip through southern California from which they plan to return about the first of the year. For her going away outfit, Mrs. Newburgh wore a dress of blonde satin and lace topped with a coat of seal. Her hat was a French imported turban of silver.

Household Hints

SAUTEED OYSTERS Baked Potatoes Cole Slaw Apple Rice Pudding Coffee

Today's Recipes Sautéed Oysters—Clean the necessary number of oysters, prepare bread crumbs, lift oysters by the tough muscle with a fork, slip in bread crumbs and drop in to fry until brown. Brown on one side then turn over and brown on the other. Serve.

Apple Rice Pudding—Three cups milk, one-fourth cup rice, one egg, one-fourth cup sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon vanilla, four stewed apples. Wash rice, add to the milk and boil until rice is tender. Stir from time to time to prevent it from sticking. Remove from fire, add sugar, egg and vanilla beaten together and mix well. Arrange in bottom of buttered pudding dish, slice, stewed apples, then fill the dish nearly full of rice. Set pudding in pan of hot water and bake in oven at a temperature of 400 F. until a light brown. Serve with plain or whipped cream.

White Fruit Cake—Two-thirds cup fat, one and one-fourth cups powdered sugar, one teaspoon almond extract, one-half cup milk, one tablespoon lemon juice, two and one-fourth cups flour, one-fourth teaspoon soda, one teaspoon baking powder, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one cup blanched almonds, one-half cup candied pineapple, chopped, one-fourth cup candied cherries, chopped fine, one-fourth cup dates, chopped, three egg whites, stiffly beaten. Cream fat, add sugar gradually. Add extract, milk and lemon juice. Mix and sift together all the dry ingredients. Add these, with nuts and fruit to the first mixture. Mix well, and lastly fold in the stiffly-beaten egg whites. Pour into loaf cake tin lined with wax paper and bake in moderate oven one and one-half hours. Allow to cool before putting in tin box to keep. This improves with age.

Mrs. N. F. Wicker has left for Medford, Oregon, where she will spend the holidays with her mother. She will not return to Salem until after the holidays.

Richland parents are invited to attend the Christmas party which the teachers and students have planned for this afternoon. The program will include readings, songs, plays, and Christmas carols. The carols will be sung before a large electrically lighted Christmas tree which stands in all its regal splendor in the lower hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Phok are leaving Saturday morning for a motor trip to San Francisco where they will spend Christmas with friends.

Thousand Island

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

Three-Minute Mayonnaise—One whole egg, three tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar, one-half teaspoon salt, one and one-half teaspoons mustard, one and one-half teaspoons sugar, one-eighth teaspoon paprika, one and one-half cups salad oil. Put egg, seasoning, one tablespoon of the acid and one fourth cup of oil in a bowl and beat. Add remaining oil, one-fourth cup at a time, beating vigorously. Remaining acid is added a little at a time during the mixing. Chopped stuffed olives added make it thousand island.

Women's Social Calendar

Saturday Mrs. White's Christmas party for the junior dancing class. Josiah Smith No. 6 and their auxiliary at Woman's club tonight.

Junior Matrons Entertained at C. E. Lynn Home

DALLAS, Ore., Dec. 21.—(Special)—Mrs. Chas. E. Lynn entertained the Junior Matrons class of the Methodist church, at her home on Court street Tuesday night. It was given as a Christmas party. The house was beautifully decorated with holly and fir boughs with the cones left on.

Mrs. Walter Ballantyne sang a number of Christmas carols, which were much appreciated.

Those present were Mrs. Walter Ballantyne, Mrs. Lew Ballantyne, Mrs. Homer Brown, Mrs. Elona Burk, Mrs. Wiley Carpenter, Mrs. Forrest Ginn, Mrs. Florence Hunter, Mrs. C. E. Jepson, Mrs. Forrest Martin, Mrs. August F. Riser, Mrs. H. C. Beebe, Mrs. Forrest Holmes, Mrs. P. A. Murray, Mrs. William Russell, and Mrs. Sparling.

RETURN FROM ALASKA STAYTON, Ore., Dec. 21.—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hardman are visiting at the A. K. Luley home. The Hardmans just recently returned from Juneau, Alaska, where they spent the summer. Mrs. Hardman is a sister of Mrs. Luley.

SHERIFF BUYS CAR DALLAS, Ore., Dec. 21.—(Special)—Sheriff T. B. Hooker drove to Salem Wednesday to get his new car which is Buick, purchased from Otto Wilson, Buick dealer of Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Allen will leave for Los Angeles this morning to be guests of relatives over the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. J. R. Trindle of 1744 Chemeketa street is leaving this morning for Seattle where she will make the return trip by motor.

Stop That Cough Quick!

Famous Prescription Has A Double Action

The phenomenal success of a famous doctor's prescription called Thioxine is due to its double action. It immediately soothes the irritation and goes direct to the internal cause not reached by patent medicines and cough syrups. The very first swallow usually relieves even the most obstinate cough.

Thioxine contains no chloroform, dope or other dangerous drugs. Safe and pleasant for the whole family. Also excellent for sore throat. Quick relief or your money back, 35c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Perry's Drug Store.—Adv.

Jr. Business Girls Have Attractive Banquet

The Salem Junior Business Girls club of the Y. W. C. A. held a Christmas banquet in the Association rooms at 6 o'clock Thursday evening. A large turkey, the gift of Miss Elizabeth Baker, club advisor, was a surprise feature of the evening. Christmas favors in youle-tide colors decked the table. In keeping with the Christmas spirit, the girls sang Christmas carols between courses.

Later in the evening a merry-making program was provided by the club social committee. The program was filled with games and contests and singing around the Christmas tree which had been placed in the center of the room to accommodate the gifts which the members had brought to be distributed among the kiddies at the tuberculosis hospital.

The guests were Miss Elizabeth Baker, Betty Elofson, Betty Elofson, Beatie Tucker, Ethel Milburn, Mildred Judson, Roxanna Zielle, Olga Gath, Opal Bumphrey, Wilma Coursey, Kathryn Grady, Eileen Gilson, Wilma Finster, Anona Welch, Betty Hiebert, Inga Heron, Elizabeth Welch and Esther Hillmer.

Children's Night Is Observed by Parent-Teacher

STAYTON, Ore., Dec. 21.—(Special)—Monday night was children's night at P. T. A. and following a short business session the grad children put on a very pleasing program. At the close of the program the committee served lollypops and apples.

The domestic arts class had a very creditable display of its work, consisting of lamp shades, block printing, dainty undergarments, aprons and cunning gingham animals.

Mrs. Leonard Satchell (Lois Neve) has returned to Salem for the holidays. Mr. Satchell will return from a business trip to Medford to rejoin his wife at the A. G. Neve home for Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Griffith (Margaret Legge) and their small daughter Clair plan to arrive in Salem today to remain for the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Legge.

The Lucy Ann Circle of the Ladies Aid society First M. E. church met with Mrs. F. A. Legge at her home on State street Wednesday afternoon.

Washington school was host to members of the Old People's Home this afternoon at the school building. Each of the older students went to the home and escorted a guest to the building where a special Christmas program was presented for them.

LET'S LIVE! MILDRED LAMB

READ HIS FIRST: Byrd Browning, brought up in a small town, was trying to adapt herself to her fast-moving, magnetic, young husband, Larry, but she soon discovered that Jack Duran, his business associate, was plunging him into debt instead of making him rich as he promised. Larry's friends were lively and spendthrift and Larry, too, was spending his entire income, even the large sums he was continually borrowing from Mr. Hamilton, Byrd's father, on useless extravagance and on Linda Campbell, a former sweetheart of Larry's who "borrowed" from everybody.

Pat, Byrd's young sister who lived with them in their small, expensive apartment, intoxicated with city life, started a party of her own. Finally Byrd bought a house without Larry's knowledge and paid $1000 down on it out of the last loan. Larry approved of the purchase of the house and he and Byrd spent the entire day buying furniture and furnishings, charging everything to the new account which he opened. They moved into the new house, and before it was settled, Larry's friends began making it their rendezvous. Byrd engaged Mandy, a colored maid, to help her with the household and she wired her that she was arriving for a visit.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY) BYRD CHAPTER XLII

BYRD driving to the house from the station.

"Oh, mama," said Byrd, eagerly. "I do hope you'll like the house—and Mandy."

"Who is Mandy?" asked her mother, in an ominous tone.

Byrd steeled herself against the criticism she knew was about to descend upon her head. She and her father had never been able to please her mother while the heater-skeeter Pat and the drab Becky, her older sister, who made her effort, at all to do all the things that their mother demanded of them, were able to manage her better.

Byrd told her. "Land sakes," Mrs. Hamilton cried, "what in creation's name do you need hired help for? Aren't you strong enough to keep house for two people?"

Her thin lips clicked shut with a decision already formed behind them, to straighten out this extravagant daughter.

"I can't understand you flibberty-gibbet girls of today. All you think is in spending money. You never think of helping your husband get some where, but drive him like a slave until he drops in his tracks or you get into the divorce courts."

Byrd brushed her hand over her mouth to conceal the smile that momentarily twinkled in the corners of her mouth.

Her mother had nagged her father all his life. He had never objected to anything she did. He urged her to travel and buy clothes and things for the house. All he wanted was to be left alone. It was because he was the kindest man in the world, with a backbone as hard and as straight as an oak, that she hadn't broken him.

As Byrd took her mother through the house, she commented acidly on the foolishness of sun parlors and breakfast alcoves and the ridiculous size of closets that were built into the new houses.

The only things she really liked about the house were the two lovely elms, one in the front yard and the other in the back.

"The fool builder probably cut down half a dozen more," she said, grudgingly. "It doesn't look to me as if this house is going to last your life time."

She was examining the foundation with disapproval in her eye. "If you'd cut down on the luxuries, maids and washing machines, and all your other contraptions, you might have put more money into the house and got your money's worth," she continued.

She walked about the yard in her hat of last year's vintage—to be kind to the hat!—a high-turtered affair that gave her an emerald look, like a tall warrior leading his enemy.

When they were sitting in the living room, her mother began to question Byrd about Pat.

Byrd had reluctantly agreed with Pat to let her mother believe she was going to business college.

"You got to stick to the story you told dad," insisted Pat. "You never think it'll happen to me. I'm a department store—I'll yank me home so fast I won't know what's happening to me."

"I'm certainly glad that that crazy Patricia has settled down to something serious for once in her life," her mother was saying, grimly.

Mrs. Hamilton regarded Mandy with hostile eyes.

She had come purposely to teach Byrd how to cook and manage a house, and she hadn't wanted any interference.

But Mandy's ancestors hadn't played up to the white race during 24 hours of slavery for nothing. Hamilton wrapped around her little black fingers.

"Mandy pretends to agree with her," Byrd giggled to Pat, "and I completely lost in amazed admiration over everything she tells her."

All day long, Mrs. Hamilton gave infinite instructions on kitchen technique and economy and for Byrd's ears as well as Mandy's.

"I always use half butter and half lard when I'm baking cakes," she said to Mandy. "They're really richer."

"Yas'm," agreed Mandy, "that's jes' what I always does, too."

"Oh, what a shame that one was!" Mandy whispered to Byrd, as they were eating their breakfast. "Mrs. Hamilton had had hers at 6 o'clock."

"If you pour off the coffee that's left over, you can use it up with the next batch."

"Now ain't that a idea," Mandy would exclaim.

"Put all the left-over pieces of soap into a jar and it makes good shampoo, or if it's yellow soap for the kitchen—it's extravagant to use white for dishwashing—keep it for scrubbing rugs."

Mandy would regard her with wonder.

"I always put a little piece of veal in my chicken salad and no one's the wiser."

"When you make angel food add two tablespoons of water. It saves three whites."

"The best cooks are the most economical," Byrd said in Mandy's ear, as she carried their plates to the kitchen.

Mrs. Hamilton and Mandy could be seen and preserved and pickled in the mornings, and in the afternoons, she plunked poor Mandy out on the back steps to sew rag-rags for rugs. Mrs. Hamilton had thought to bring a lot of worn-out gingham with her for this purpose.

"They're wonderful for the bare spots," Mrs. Hamilton said forcefully, to Mandy, like a sergeant directing a raw recruit.

"Yas'm," replied Mandy, humbly.

One day Byrd and Mrs. Hamilton went into town for lunch, and while Mrs. Hamilton shopped, Byrd stopped in to see Progress Poik.

She wanted his advice. She told him about Larry's buying the Hillandale and Sunset Point stocks, and her own futile efforts to make Jack take them back.

"Every morning I wake up with the feeling that before the end of the day they may not be worth the paper they're printed on," said Byrd, with lines of worry etched deeply into her fine, white forehead.

Progress was worried, too. "They're certainly ugly reports all over town about it," he corroborated her worst fears. "My opinion is that Jack Duncans is liable to arrest any moment."

"What can we do about it?" asked Byrd, distractedly.

"I'll threaten him a little and see if I can't get him to take them back," said Progress.

"Oh, I'll be so grateful!" said Byrd, with a little catch in her voice.

Byrd was debating whether she dared to express her fears regarding the Builders' Supply stock, but she decided it was not loyal to go about discussing one's husband's integrity.

"Mr. Poik knows us too well not to warn me if Larry's doing something unethical," thought Byrd. "I know it's all right. Chet bought some."

When Pat came down to dinner that night, she was dressed to go out.

"How in the world can you study hard all day and gallivant around all night?" Mrs. Hamilton demanded.

"You always forget that you need to wear me if Larry's doing something unethical," thought Byrd. "I know it's all right. Chet bought some."

When Pat came down to dinner that night, she was dressed to go out.

"How in the world can you study hard all day and gallivant around all night?" Mrs. Hamilton demanded.

"You always forget that you need to wear me if Larry's doing something unethical," thought Byrd. "I know it's all right. Chet bought some."

When Pat came down to dinner that night, she was dressed to go out.

"How in the world can you study hard all day and gallivant around all night?" Mrs. Hamilton demanded.

"You always forget that you need to wear me if Larry's doing something unethical," thought Byrd. "I know it's all right. Chet bought some."

When Pat came down to dinner that night, she was dressed to go out.

"How in the world can you study hard all day and gallivant around all night?" Mrs. Hamilton demanded.

"You always forget that you need to wear me if Larry's doing something unethical," thought Byrd. "I know it's all right. Chet bought some."

When Pat came down to dinner that night, she was dressed to go out.

"How in the world can you study hard all day and gallivant around all night?" Mrs. Hamilton demanded.

"You always forget that you need to wear me if Larry's doing something unethical," thought Byrd. "I know it's all right. Chet bought some."

When Pat came down to dinner that night, she was dressed to go out.

"How in the world can you study hard all day and gallivant around all night?" Mrs. Hamilton demanded.

"You always forget that you need to wear me if Larry's doing something unethical," thought Byrd. "I know it's all right. Chet bought some."

When Pat came down to dinner that night, she was dressed to go out.

"How in the world can you study hard all day and gallivant around all night?" Mrs. Hamilton demanded.

"You always forget that you need to wear me if Larry's doing something unethical," thought Byrd. "I know it's all right. Chet bought some."

When Pat came down to dinner that night, she was dressed to go out.

"How in the world can you study hard all day and gallivant around all night?" Mrs. Hamilton demanded.

"You always forget that you need to wear me if Larry's doing something unethical," thought Byrd. "I know it's all right. Chet bought some."

When Pat came down to dinner that night, she was dressed to go out.

"How in the world can you study hard all day and gallivant around all night?" Mrs. Hamilton demanded.

(TO BE CONTINUED)

"My children despise eggs, yet they ought to have them"

Delight them with this sugar, vanilla and milk egg-nog!

WE RECENTLY heard a mother say that her children simply despise eggs, and yet she knew how much her children needed eggs in their diet.

There are many adults also who do not like the taste of eggs. Not only that, but many people, both children and adults, who do like eggs tire of them rather quickly.

Here is a very simple recipe for an egg-nog so delicious that it will satisfy everybody and it is almost impossible to taste egg in it.

Beat the yolk separately and blend in two teaspoons of sugar, then add half a pint of milk and whip in the beaten egg whites; add 1/4 teaspoon of vanilla and beat until frothy. This delicious blend may be varied by adding a tablespoon of chocolate syrup or a spoonful of ice cream.

This tasteful drink encourages an appetite for eggs and milk, both of which are such beneficial foods for children and adults. As every mother knows, it is absolutely necessary that her children have milk, and it is very important that they have eggs.

Note what a little sugar does for taste. Sugar is nature's ideal flavor. Sugar is not only nutritious in its most inexpensive form—it adds zest and enjoyment to nearly every healthful food that is known. There is no substitute for sugar in the daily diet. The Sugar Institute.

Advertisement for Miller's House Slippers. Text: "Just received - Delayed Shipment Women's Lambs Wool Lined House Slippers Red and Blue $2.50 MILLER'S Good Goods"