Sixty Years Married

Sixty years is a long time when spoken of by an outsider, but to those over whose head 60 years have passed it really is not so long after all. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Keeling, a real frontier at that time, look out at you so very straight from the above picture have been married 60 short years and still do not feel the weight of them.

Way back in 1868 when the United States were fighting between themselves as to whether the state of the United States should be supreme, Mr. and Mrs. Keeling did what many a young couple did during the last great war, they very quietly married. This event took place at Winona, Iowa, a real frontier at that time. Later they moved to a still greater frontier, Nebraska, where they lived until a few years ago, when they moved to Oregon.

They have four children, George Keeling of Fruitland with whom they now live, Mrs. A. E. Moore of Corvallis, Mrs. O. H. Olverson of Oakland, Nebraska, and Mrs. J. C. Muckey of Alton, Iowa. These two people who have seen so much of rapid moving American progress not only had to adjust themselves to their own four children growing up into a new generation but also had to adjust themselves to two more generations—11 grand children and 13 great-grandchildren.

Twenty-two guests called at the Keeling home on December 13, the anniversary of their wedding, to offer their congratulations. They received many cards and letters from absent friends.

local hospital Friday morning, following an accident Thursday night. Survived by four children, Raymond E. of Portland, Artie Dale Davis of Denver, Glenn Davis of Denver and Mrs. Myrtle Arneson in Texas. Funeral announcements later from Rigdon mortuary.

Christian Science funeral services at 10 o'clock Monday at Rigdon mortuary. Interment at Bethel in Polk county.

REILING—Benjamin Reiling, 34, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Fredericka Frey, two miles east of Salem on December 18. Survived by Mrs. Frey and Mrs. Hannah Canfield, of Salem, and by eight other brothers and sisters as follows: Philip Reiling and Mrs. Emily Joyce of Boyden, N. D.; George Reiling of Tolstol, S. D.; Fred Reiling and Mrs. Christina Mueller of Lodi, Calif.; and Mrs. Dennis L. Merrenger, Norman Reiling and Mrs. Sarah Kasper of Chicago. Funeral services at 1:30 Monday at Rigdon mortuary with interment in Cityview cemetery, the Rev. J. T. Jacobs officiating.

SMALL—Mrs. Sarah E. Small, a resident of Salem since 1852, died at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon at a local hospital. She had made her home for a year with her daughter, Mrs. George J. Pearce, 267 North Winter street. She is survived by four children: Mrs. Pearce of Salem, Mrs. T. G. Hopkins of Albany, Mrs. A. S. Brasfield of Berkeley, Calif., and Charles S. Riley of Portland, and the following grandchildren Helen, and Dorothy Pearce of Salem, Clifford and Robert Brasfield of Berkeley, Calif., and one great grandchild, Robert Arthur Brasfield of Berkeley. Funeral services 10:30 Monday morning from Presbyterian church, the Rev. N. K. Tully officiating. The body will lie in state between 9 and 10 o'clock Monday at the church and prior to that at Rigdon's mortuary. Interment in I. O. O. F. cemetery.

WOOD—Edward B. Wood died suddenly December 22 near his home one mile north of Waconda, at the age of 59 years. He is survived by his widow, Della Wood, two daughters, Lela and Frances, five

Wetjen's Book is Sought by Noted Screen Producer

Albert Richard Wetjen, Salem author, will break into motion pictures with his new book "Way for a Sailor!" If he accepts the flattering offer wired to him Saturday from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, who seek picture and sound rights on the book, "Way for a Sailor!" is reported to be finding a great reader interest in the big book markets, but the eagerness with which it is sought by the largest motion picture producing company in the nation is said to be unusual.

Wetjen has referred the offer of producers to his literary agents in New York for their action as they deem best.

Subdivision Will Provide 5-Acre Units of Walnuts

Planting walnuts on 80 acres of the Twin Maples fruit and poultry farm eight miles east of Salem, and selling this land in five acre units, is planned by Rich L. Reimann, local realtor, he announced Saturday.

The planting will be in charge of Joseph Doerfler, and J. Fellows, the owner of the land, will care for the orchard for six years, planting a cover crop each year, performing this service as a part of the purchase agreement.
