CURTIS PRACTICES WITH SENATE GAVEL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The senate was given an illustration of the methods of its future presiding officer today when Senator Curtis of Kansas, the vice-president-elect, took the chair in the absence of Vice-president Dawes.

This was the first time since he was elected with Herbert Hoover that the Kansas senator has been called to the chair, the post he will occupy after March 4.

For the most part, Senator Curtis sat by politely enough and listened to the debate in the most approved way with traditional vice presidential silence. But, when several senators started to speak at the same time, the vice president-elect enforced the rules with a voice carrying a definite tone of authority.

"The senators will observe the rules and address the chair when they wish to be heard," Senator Curtis declared snappily. His admonition was quickly respected.

MOSCOW—(AP)—Russian youth has been swept by a resistance of interest in foreign languages. The rising Soviet generation seems intent on keeping abreast of technical and scientific achievement the world over. The result has been that facilities for teaching foreign languages have been greatly taxed.
