

PARTY RANKS SPLIT ON PACT

Some Democrats Back Peace Treaty; Some Republicans Oppose It

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, Jan. 5. (AP)—Democratic support for the Kellogg anti-war treaty in the senate today was countered by a republican attack.

Senator Swanson, of Virginia, the ranking democrat on the Foreign Relations committee, endorsed the pact as a "noble gesture toward peace" but Senator McLean, republican, Connecticut, condemned it unless it were backed by an accompanying resolution reasserting America's rights under the Monroe Doctrine.

While these two held the floor for three more hours of debate, negotiations were going on looking to a solution of the problem arising from a demand of the republicans that the treaty be amended to state that America's position under the treaty renouncing war clearly set forth.

Committee May Report
As a possible compromise between the treaty supporters and those who demand an interpretative resolution there was talk of having a report from the foreign relations committee stating the views of the senate on the rights of America to maintain its Monroe Doctrine policy and to protect her territories under the treaty.

Chairman Borah of the committee who is sponsoring the treaty, is standing firmly against interpretative resolution which he contends is unnecessary and he declared tonight he had the votes to put the treaty through the senate without reservations of any kind.

A report drafted by the chairman of the committee interpreting America's position under the treaty would be considered by some senators sufficient to offset the interpretative note of Great Britain in accepting the pact and to eliminate the necessity for an interpretative resolution.

Antis Hard at It
Meanwhile, the reservationists, led by Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, and Reed, democrat, Missouri, were collecting their forces. Senator Robinson, republican, Indiana, announced his support of an interpretative resolution. Senator Watson of Indiana, the prospective republican, joined in the conferences but did not announce his position on the question.

Senator McLean is one of the reservationists and in an address filled with caustic remarks about the pact he concluded that "the time has come to throw the nations of the world to stop throwing peace paper wads."

The Connecticut senator argued that if the treaty is ratified and no accompanying resolution is adopted other countries will leap at the opportunity of saying the United States has abandoned the Monroe Doctrine.

Senator Swanson who generally speaks for the democrats, foreign affairs, said he believed the treaty would be ineffective in abolishing war but added that it "legalizes no war."

"It permits, but does not approve war," he declared. "It is a noble gesture of declaration for world peace and as such I shall support it. It marks an advance for peace, not a retreat."

Hexathlon Will Start Tuesday at Y. M. C. A. Here
Six events are scheduled for the national test of the Y. M. C. A. work in which will begin Tuesday at the Salem association. One of two tests will be run after each young men's division class until the hexathlon is completed. High scores for Salem contestants will be sent to New York and the national winner announced from there in March.

The events are: 60 yard potato race, 160 yard potato race, 12 pound shot put, standing broad jump, running high jump and fence vault. Ben Rickli, director of the young men's division here, was northwest champion in the fence vault for several years.

THEY PAY "HEAVY" MONEY FOR BASEBALL THRILLS

The thrill of being baseball magnates has cost this quartet a "pretty penny." However, being millionaires, they haven't minded it a bit. One, Jake Ruppert, top center, has by producing pennant winning team recovered much of the money he sank into the New York Yankees. William Wrigley, Jr., left, owner of the Chicago Cubs, estimates his baseball connections have cost him $6,000,000; William F. Kenney, right, New York contractor, has just parted with $750,000 for a fifth share in the Giants. Alva Bradley, lower center, kissed one fortune goodbye in buying the Cleveland club for himself and associates and is spending another buying players.

FARM LEADERS AWAIT HOOVER

Senator Jones and Others Come Out in Favor of Extra Session

not called a meeting of the committee to consider his bill and it is believed he is among those hoping to get a nod from the president-elect.

Hoover To Call On Coolidge First

No one at the capital today had heard from Mr. Hoover. It is believed he will not initiate his conferences until he has called upon President Coolidge, nor is it thought he will pass any word on the farm legislation which is before the Coolidge congress unless he does so through the president. "I agree with Senator Borah that we should have an extra session of congress this spring," Senator Jones declared in his statement. "It should be held as soon after the fourth of March as possible."

"We have promised two things especially in connection with farm relief—the proper handling of the surplus, and a sufficient tariff on agriculture products. Neither proposition can be satisfactorily dealt with in this session of congress. The country wants no half-measures, ill-considered, hit or miss farm legislation."

"The farmers have confidence in the ability of Herbert Hoover. They are ready to follow his lead as of no other man. He can work out this problem if any man can do it. He will not shrink it and should not be put in the attitude of shirking it. He was looked to during the campaign to solve it and he should be left to do it.

"The tariff cannot possibly be considered during this session and, yet, it is a part and a very important part of the farm problem."

"It is said tariff revision should be put off until fall because it will disturb business. Business knows we are going to have revision. The sooner it is done the better, and the less disturbance will there be to business. If business is going to be disturbed, the longer revision is put off the longer will the disturbance exist."

"Tariff revision in the spring should not take more than two or three months with the hearings had this winter. We have a republican act to revise, enact along republican lines and which has proved to be extremely helpful to the country. Not many radical changes need to be made in it and not many important amendments will need to be made in the senate to any bill passed by a republican house."

MARKET SET BACK BY PROFIT TAKING

NEW YORK, Jan. 5. (AP)—Uncertainties in the credit outlook prompted heavy realizing on the stock market today, although there was a burst of strength at the opening.

Aviation stocks went forward in the early trading, Wright mounting to more than 12 and Curtiss more than seven points, but most of their gains were cancelled at the close.

Radio and Victor Machine went ahead 15 and three points respectively, on an overnight accumulation of buying orders resulting from announcement of the consolidation plan, but the traditional "selling on the good news" developed soon after the opening and Radio closed off five and Victor nearly three points, net.

Coppers encountered particularly heavy realizing. Anaconda, Greene Cananea and Kennecott receding from three to four points. Pierce Arrow issues, however, again attained new high levels.

American Express, Columbian Carbon, Commercial Electric fell five to seven points.

Some of the utilities were in demand. In the rails, New Haven and Pennsylvania again went forward.

The name of Frank Glibbreath, Bend man who disappeared from an isolated tent in the Bear buttes country more than a month ago, has been added to the list of four men lost in Central Oregon in recent years.
