QUERY GOD CAN'T ANSWER IS TEXT AIRPORT BONDS OF CITIES ARE VALID

Evangelist Earl F. Wilde, who is conducting a revival campaign at the Nazarene church, preached last night upon "The Question That God Cannot Answer," taking his text from Matthew 27:22, "What Shall I Do With Jesus?"

"The question of the text," said the evangelist, "is one God can not answer. But that you and I must answer. What shall we do with Jesus? He is standing before Pilate and Pilate must do something with him. Hence he cried, 'What shall I do with Jesus?' Just as sure as Jesus stood there that day to wait for Pilate to decide, just so sure Jesus Christ stands before you today to wait your answer. 'What will you do with Jesus?' Something must be done with Him. Accept Him or reject Him.

"Oh, the many times Jesus has stood at your heart's door and knocked but you have said no, turned down the tender pleadings of the Saviour and He has left you to turn away sorrowful and leave you in sin. You are going something with Jesus now. You're for Him or against Him. You're accepting or rejecting Him. Friend, what are you doing with Jesus? Remember as the Christ stands before you today, to wait, you will do with Him, so there is coming a day when you will stand before Him to wait and see what He will do with you."

Evangelist Wilde sang as a solo "A Place in My Heart" and Mr. and Mrs. Wilde sang "Big Deep and Strife" with Dr. E. B. Kirkpatrick, formerly of this city.

Warren T. Powell Tells of Problem in Religious Work

Warren T. Powell of Chicago addressed the Willamette university student body Tuesday at the chapel hour on the subject of "Problems in Religious Education." Mr. Powell traced briefly the history of the religious education movement, contrasting methods of teaching 200 years ago with those of the present day.

In former days the main effort was to have pupils absorb a certain content of teaching material, whereas the present approach is an attempt to answer their questions on the problems of life.

The faculty and student body of the Kimball School of Theology were guests at the Willamette chapel program. Mr. Powell worked in Chicago with Dr. E. B. Kirkpatrick, formerly of this city.

E. MILLARD LOSES IN DAMAGE ACTION

E. B. Millard lost his damage action against Ben Clemens when the jury brought in a verdict for the defendant in circuit court here late Tuesday. Millard was suing for slightly more than $500 in damages alleged to have been sustained by Evangeline Millard, his young daughter, when she fell off the merry-go-round at Hazel Green park, owned by Clemens. The case was tried before a packed courtroom and occupied the better part of two days.

The trial of Clyde Shoemith, accused of having broken into and robbed a service station in east Salem several weeks ago, got under way with opening statements by opposing counsel just before court adjourned for the day. Lyle J. Page, deputy district attorney, told the jury that Shoemith was captured by Newell Williams after an extended chase during which two shots were fired by Williams. One of the shots grazed Shoemith's head, Page asserted.

"This is one of the most peculiar cases of circumstances that any of us probably will ever come in contact with," declared Paul Burris, who with John McCoort of Portland is defending Shoemith. He declined to outline the course of defense they would take, declaring that they "wait and see what the state's case is like."

Opinion Upholds Habitual Crime Statute of State

The supreme court today held as constitutional the habitual criminal act of the 1927 legislature which provides that a life sentence shall be imposed on any person convicted of a felony after having three times previously been convicted of felony, regardless of whether the previous convictions have been in Oregon or some other state.

The law was attacked by John E. Smith of Multnomah county, who is now serving a life term in the state penitentiary as an habitual criminal. Smith was indicted by the Multnomah county grand jury on March 21, 1928, on a charge of receiving stolen property.

The opinion was written by Justice Brown and affirms Justice John H. Stevenson of the circuit court for Multnomah county.
