

Salem High Defeats Scrappy Dallas Quint by 30-18 Score

BOB KELLY IS STAR OF FRAY

Red and Black Players Have "Off Day" in Shooting; Visitors Fast

Speed in getting down the floor and a new scoring system which might be termed the "Beech-tree" style of play, enabled the Salem high school basketball team to defeat the scrappy Dallas high quintet 30 to 18 on the local high school floor Wednesday night.

The red and black didn't look nearly so good in this game as it did against Roosevelt high of Portland last week, even taking into account Dallas' stubborn opposition. The local players were the exception of Bob Kelly, who consistently wild in shooting, and repeatedly failed to get rid of the ball until they had taken too many steps. Half a dozen clean shots went for naught because of "traveling" just before they were made.

Dallas Has Fight

The Dallas players were fast individually, a fact which showed up principally on defense; but they wasted too much time getting down the floor, allowing the Salem defense to form before they reached scoring position; and they were too small to break through. However, they proved extremely accurate on long shots, and kept trying in spite of the odds.

The Salem team showed conclusively in this game what had been suspected previously, that its members are inclined to suffer from "buck fever" early in the game. Easy shots were missed repeatedly until Bob Kelly, who apparently was immune to this disease, sank a long one. The score at half time was 18 to 8 for Salem, and in the second half the visitors came nearer holding their own than in the first two quarters.

Height Is Utilized

Aside from Kelly's long shots, Salem's most effective method of scoring was the aforementioned "Beech-tree" effect in which Beechler camped near the free throw line, received a high pass and shot, with no opponent tall enough to reach up and guard him.

Kliver, LePors and Vaughn all made spectacular long shots to pile up the visitors' 18 points, one of the largest scores made against Salem high on its own floor in several years.

SALEM MAY ENTER INTERSTATE LEAGUE

Prospects that a Salem club may be included in the proposed Oregon-Washington baseball league this year, were seen following announcement from Longview that Ed Roben, manager of the Longview team in the lumber league last year, is backing plans to invite Salem and Albany into the new circuit.

Other teams according to this plan would be the Montavilla club of Portland, Astoria, Longview and Kelso.

Leo "Prisco" Edwards, manager of the Salem Senators for the last two seasons, reports that Roben made a visit here recently but that nothing definite has been done toward organizing a league.

Edwards indicates that he is receptive to the idea if it can be worked out, as there is little prospect that the Willamette Valley league, of which Salem was a member last year, will be continued on the same basis, as nearly every club failed to "make the grade" financially.

RACING CALENDAR BACK EIGHT YEARS

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)—They set the calendar back eight years in American racing today by ordering the two-man car back into the picture at the annual 500-mile races at Indianapolis.

Effective in 1930 by order of the contest board of the American Automobile association, the old twin seated racer, with lean power but with far more color, will replace the tiny machines that since 1922 have annually demolished speed records in the big brick saucer of the Indianapolis motor speedway.

The decision brings victory to automobile manufacturers most of whom have been crowded from the motor racing limelight. The builders, in the opinion of Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, chairman of the A. A. A. contest board and president of the Indianapolis Motors speedway, will deliver "in the near future" with two-man cars capable of equalling if not bettering the dizzy marks of 120 miles an hour and faster, established by the smaller racers.

Funeral Rites for Tex Rickard Held; Numerous Friends Much Saddened

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Tex Rickard was buried today after funeral services in a crepe draped Madison Square Garden he leaves behind as a monument to his vision. After brief and simple services, which were in marked contrast to the spectacular things in which the sports promoter dealt in life, his body was interred in a cemetery where a wife and child rest.

A crowd of 10,000 sat in awed silence in the seats whose occupants in other days and nights have alternately cheered or hurled jeers and boos at referees and athletes.

The hush was profound as an organ played, a quartet sang and two clergymen and two laymen paid tribute to Rickard, "A man without meanness in his heart."

Many Sports Representatives: Every branch of sport was represented in the throng and many who had no connection with athletics joined. The man for whom the last rites were being said had aided scores of charities and represented of these bodies were there to add their tribute.

Available seats in the huge Garden were filled when the doors were closed at 1:30 o'clock after thousands had passed in double lines past the bier in a seemingly endless procession. Many, after passing the palm covered and flower banked resting place of the casket on the lower floor, went to the seats on the Mezzanine set aside for the public and awaited the funeral hour—2 o'clock.

Draped in black and purple mourning, the Garden awaited the final passage from it of its builder. There was no scraping of chairs, little craning of necks and virtually no exchange of whispers as an organ, installed for the funeral, boomed forth the stately notes of "Lead, Kindly Light."

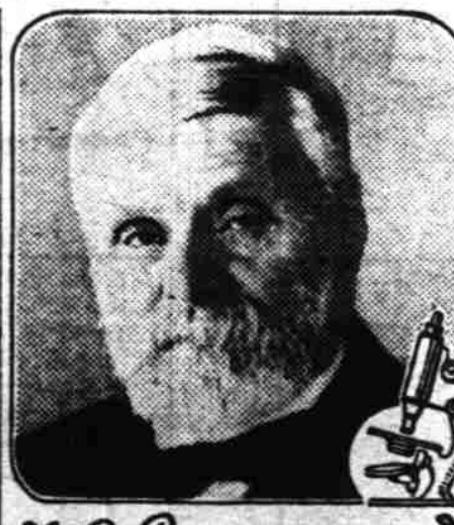

"Friends" in Section One thousand seats were set aside on the main floor for "friends." This space was dotted with boxers—friends indeed of the man they were honoring. From

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles. We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. NURMI'S PLAN STIRS UP ROW

Continuous Presence of "Flying Finn" in U. S. Irks C. L. Ornstein

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Describing as "unfair to our American athletes" the plan of Paavo Nurmi to remain indefinitely in this country, training for the 1932 Olympics, Charles L. Ornstein of Washington, D. C., a member of the board of governors of the amateur athletic union, today called the right of the Metropolitan A. A. U. to register the famous Finnish runner without authority from the national body.

Ornstein, in a telegram to Daniel J. Ferris, national secretary, questioned the policy as well as the authority of local officials in registering Nurmi under the same conditions as an American athlete.

Ferris explained that under international athletic law, athletes resident for a month or more in a foreign country automatically come under the jurisdiction of the national governing body of that country. He asserted the registration of Nurmi was referred to the Metropolitan A. A. U., because Nurmi now resides in New York and is subject, therefore, to local jurisdiction. Ferris said he considered proper action had been taken and would notify Ornstein to this effect.

NINETY GOLFERS REMAIN IN MEET

That Number Qualified Out of 300 to Play in $10,000 Tourney

By VICTOR G. SIDLER Associated Press Sports Writer LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Ninety amateur and professional golfers, survivors of a great army of more than 300 that swarmed over six courses in this section from dawn until dark today successfully scaled the 36-hole qualifying barrier of the $10,000 Los Angeles open.

Few, if any, of the outstanding candidates failed to pass this first test. Those who were successful will join forces Friday morning, with 40 players who were exempt from qualification, teeing off at the Riviera Country club course, near Santa Monica, Calif., in the 72 hole drive of the tournament proper.

At the head of the successful forces was young Dan Williams, professional of Shackamaxon, N. J., who bested old man par by one stroke in his two trips over the Fox Hills country club course. Johnny Rodgers, of Denver, Colo., and John Junor of Portland, Ore., both of whom played over the Sunset fields course for a total of 142. Rodgers, whom Walter Hagen, peer of the professionals, describes as the longest driver in the realm of golf, set a new course record for the Sunset fields layout on his first jaunt around, stroking a 69. He took a 73 in the afternoon. Junor played consistently, traversing the course each time in 71.

Frank Roda of Seattle, followed this pair with 143 in play over the Bel-Air country club course. He had a 74-69 for the two rounds.

Johnny Golden, stocky Pater-son, N. J., pro, turned in a 72-72-144 for next best showing.

Three players, one of them an amateur, had 146's. Rial Rolfe, Chicago amateur, had 71-75, Bob McDonald, great stylist from Chicago, 75-71, and Francis Gallett, of Milwaukee, 73-73.

COULD NOT SLEEP NIGHTS

Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fairhaven, Mass.—"I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life. When I feel nervous and run-down my husband gets me a bottle right away. It is a great help to me and I think that if other people would only take it when they feel all run-down and take it as the directions say, they would find it a great benefit. My worst symptoms were nervousness and tired feelings. I could not sleep nights and I was so nervous I would cry if anyone looked at me."—Mrs. ANA BRASS, 194 Washington Street, Fairhaven, Mass.

"Pass me a Lucky-I pass up the sweets."

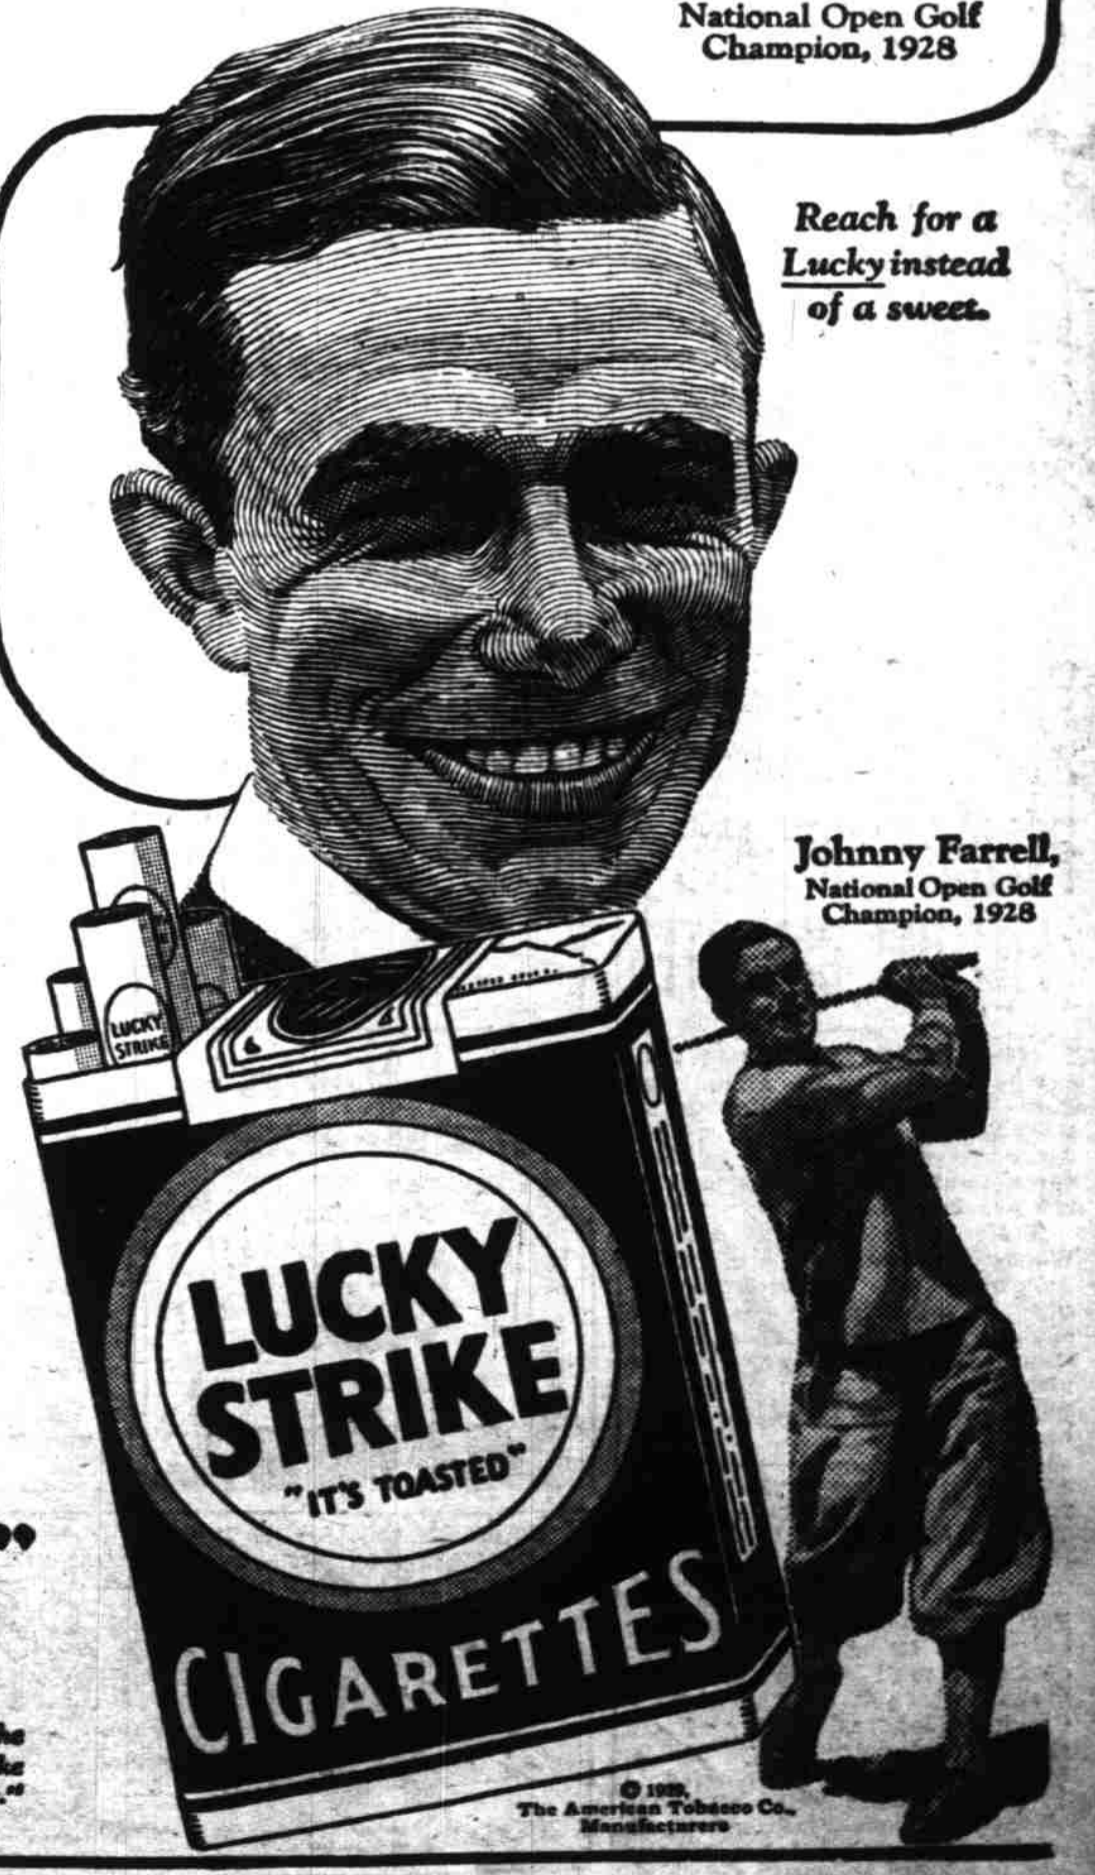

Johnny Farrell

WHEN fattening sweets tempt and you dread extra weight, light a Lucky instead. No discomfort, no trouble—just a common sense method of retaining a slender figure.

The finest tobaccos are skillfully blended to make Lucky Strike. Then, "It's Toasted." This secret process brings out every essence in the tobaccos and produces a flavor which makes Lucky Strike a delightful alternative when you crave fattening sweets—there is no interference with a natural appetite for healthful foods. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

At the same time toasting removes impurities. That's why 20,679 physicians are on record that Lucky Strike is less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why prominent athletes have testified that Luckies steady their nerves and do not impair their physical condition. No wonder that this was discovered long ago by many men, who pride themselves on keeping trim and fit, who love the "pep" that comes with health and vigor.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say—
