Cougars Forge Ahead by
Fast Attack and Close
Checking Defense

PULLMAN, Wash., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Washington State college basketball team took a lead early in the game and defeated Oregon State college 30 to 18 in a conference game here tonight. The Cougars' close checking and short passing attack held the Beavers in subjection, and forced the Oregonians to use ten players in a vain attempt to win.

The Cougars took a lead almost at the tipoff and at half time were leading 18 to 6. The Beavers struggled for seven minutes of the second period without scoring. Then, hopelessly trailing, they threw in an entirely new team. The new team started a rally that was halted when the Cougars returned to the close guarding game that forced the Beavers to pass from mid-floor in the first period.

Endsow, Cougar center, was high scorer, with 11 points, with Van Tuyle, Washington State forward, trailing him by three points.

SMOKE AND DANCE ROUSE DAD ELLIOT

"I don't say that anyone will go to Hell for smoking, but I do say that it interferes with getting that plus personality because it lowers efficiency. If smoking increased my efficiency, you bet I'd smoke," said A. J. "Dad" Elliot at a forum meeting of students at Willamette university Saturday afternoon. Students were privileged to ask any questions they wished on problems of college life. Discussion included questions of religious convictions and prejudices, student amusements, the problem of fraternities and sororities, student dancing and women smoking.

At 11 o'clock this morning Mr. Elliot will speak at the First Methodist church where a large section of seats has been reserved for students. He will give his farewell address in Salem at the Willamette developer's chapel at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Kenneth Litchfield, president of the Willamette university student body said Saturday, "Dad" Elliot has certainly lifted many of us from the ruts of our everyday thinking; his influence on the campus has been both wholesome and powerful."

Of dancing as it is done in most colleges Mr. Elliot spoke in no uncertain terms. "Of course if you mean folk dancing, or the old square dance, or the Virginia reel, that is one thing, but if you refer to the usual college dance, that is something else. Personally I have never seen any great spiritual growth springing from such influence in any church or other religious organization. Social life in college is developed on the basis of a sex kick there will be no spiritual growth." Of student social activities in general he said, "I certainly favor those activities which develop our potentialities by stimulating the highest and best there is in us."

A large number of students have attended every one of Mr. Elliot's lectures and student leaders have praised him for the straightforward manner in which he has discussed the problems of youth. It was anticipated yesterday that there would be large gatherings both at the address at the First Methodist church this morning and at the meeting in the university chapel this afternoon.

SEATTLE, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A spectacular University of Washington quintet opened its defense of the northern division basketball title of the Pacific Coast conference with a 38 to 29 victory over the University of Oregon here tonight. Five thousand saw the game.

Both teams started slowly and the score saw-sawed through the first half until Washington called for time out. The Huskies came back with a sizzling attack, dropping three baskets in one minute, for a 17 to 11 lead. During the remaining five minutes of the period Oregon sank two foul shots and Washington one.

The purple and gold hoopsters walked away at the start of the second half, sinking five baskets before the Webfoet found themselves. When his first team had run up an impressive lead Coach Edmundson put in his second string which played on even terms with the tired invaders for the rest of the tilt.

INDEPENDENCE FIVE DEFEATS MONMOUTH

MONMOUTH, Ore., Jan. 19.—(Special)—Monmouth high school hoop teams clashed with their ancient enemy, Independence, in double-header games at Monmouth Friday night. Independence was the winner in the boys' game by the close score of 19-17.

The game was fast and exciting, with only an average number of fouls called. Two points was the widest margin of variation in the score at any time during the contest, and Monmouth had a two point lead until within two minutes of the close of the game.

Then Gough, Monmouth center, was removed from participation because of personal fouls, which switched the lineup, and enabled Independence to score two field goals before the final whistle sounded. F. Newton, Independence guard, was also removed from play because of personal fouls made.

Salem Bowlers Who Set M arks for Others to Aim At

Among the scores of Salemites who bowl for exercise and diversion are a number who have established high records and have contributed to the high team averages in tournament play. Above is a group picture of the City League at the Winter Garden alleys, which contains some of the city's best known pin smashers. At the extreme left of the center row, the lad with the wide smile, is Virgil Stolkler, who is credited with rolling the first perfect game ever recorded in tournament play and who was the youngest bowler ever to net the 300 or perfection point. Stolkler made this grand slam in New York, but he has rolled a perfect score since, giving him a pair of honors.

Fifth from the left is Fred Karr, who also is credited with two perfect scores. In the center of the front row, at the left of the balls, is Jimmie McMullen, who made a perfect score in the City League tourney last spring, being the first man in 10 years on this coast to perform in that fashion in a City league. He was then a member of the Schel team. The picture was taken in his honor. Six teams compose the City league and one of these, the Red Flying Clouds, the first five men in white shirts at the left of the lower row, are Northwestern intermediate champions this year.

Fight Game Resumption Is Set For February 5

The boxing game, dormant in Salem since late December because of the prevailing "flu" epidemic, will be revived February 5. Matchmaker Harry Plant announced Saturday.

And when it is revived, the fight cards will be back in the armory, the matchmaker said. The Oregon theatre served acceptably as a place for staging three cards, but the armory, the better, and back to it the fights will go. The armory will be available early in February after having been rented for other purposes for a number of weeks. Plant isn't ready yet to announce who his headliners will be for the first card, but is ready to assure the fans that it will be a big one and worthy of the occasion.

Chances are fairly strong that Ted Fox, crowned as Salem's premier boxer last fall when he knocked out Phil Bayes, will be one of the principals in the main event and that the matchmaker will bring in one of the big time crappers in the 127 pound class to oppose him.

Fox's career as the local favorite was rudely interrupted by the same epidemic of influenza that put the fight game itself on the bum. He fell a victim to this disease two days before he was scheduled to fight Sailor Willie Gordon in what promised to be the Independence boy's first adequate test in the ring.

FAST PORTLAND TEAMS COMING

Man's Shop and Legionnaires Face Northwest
Leaders Local Alleys

Two of the strongest bowling teams in Portland will appear on the Winter Garden alleys today against local pin smashers in intercity matches which are expected to be the fastest staged here this season.

The Imperial hotel five from Portland will meet O'Leary's Legionnaires and the Brazee Nettleton quintet will contest against the Man's Shop team. The local teams are made up of the high average players in the City league, so far as they are available.

The visitors are not only rated as the fastest teams in Portland, but stand high in the northwest rankings. Members of the Imperial hotel team are Jennings, Ingram, Damann, Blasner and Raymond. The lineup of the Nettleton team has not been announced here.

Top Men Picked
The O'Leary's Legionnaires quintet will be chosen from among Greenlaw, Victor, Stolkler, S. Steinbock, Mohr and Poulain. Players who will represent the Man's Shop include Kantola, Titus, Karr, Hall, Newton and Kertison.

The team matches will begin at 12:30 p. m., and will be followed by singles and doubles events in which all local bowlers are eligible to enter.

PROFS REFUSE TO OUST BAGGY

Plan Advanced to Name Assistant With View to Succeeding Coach

SEATTLE, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A compromise agreement to retain Enoch Bagshaw as head football coach at the University of Washington was agreed to tonight by the coaching staff and the faculty athletic committee after a day of continuous discussion.

The proposal was immediately turned over to the student board of control, which yesterday ordered the Husky mentor's virtual ouster. With two student representatives who attended the faculty meeting opposing the plan, the board took it under consideration at 9:15 o'clock tonight.

Refusing to sustain the student board of control of the University of Washington in its vote to oust Enoch Bagshaw as head football coach, the faculty athletic committee, after five hours of deliberation today, sought to effect a compromise between the warring factions.

The plan, it was unofficially reported, is to name as assistant coach for football, acceptable to Bagshaw. The faculty committee visited Bagshaw during the afternoon to ask him to accept the proposal. When under fire at the close of the season last fall the coach refused to countenance such a move. His reaction to the proposal today was not disclosed.

Students Noncommittal
Smith Troy, president of the student body, and Ed Allen, member of the board of control, were called into conference with the faculty representatives and told of the plan. They declined to say whether they accepted the compromise idea.

It is the general opinion on the university campus that both the board of control and Bagshaw are opposed to the new scheme.

Reports seeping out of the conference room indicated that four of the five faculty members were favoring the retention of Bagshaw as head football coach, but submitted the compromise agreement in order to reach an understanding with the factions.

The board of control, facing a deadlock with the faculty committee, began to draw lines for a legal battle for the right or student management of athletics.
