Anna Case Recital Attracts Salem People

Monmouth has a peculiar faculty for drawing national talent that is making coastal towns, Friday evening in the Monmouth Normal school Miss Anna Case, soprano, on northwestern tour under direction of Steers and Coman, was heard in one of the three recitals that she is giving in the west. The first she gave in Seattle, the second in Monmouth, and the third in San Francisco.

The name is so unimposing and truly American that the audience, although expecting must not have expected the truly great singer who entertained them so graciously for nearly two hours with such glorious variations of pure melody. Her voice at times was like a double stop on a magnificent violin, at other times the volume swelled out and fairly vibrated through every inch of the large auditorium. Not only did she sing but she was a part of her music. In "My Pretty Jane" she was as sweet and demure as the girl who inspired the song, and in the "Silver Swan," her very expression of face and body was tragic and sad with mortal woe. Then again in "The Icicle" she was humorously tragic bringing real chuckles to her audience.

By her singing she won the audiences breathless appreciation of a glorious voice, and by her graciousness she won very genuine appreciation of a real personality.

Following is the program which she sang:

- O Sleep why does thou leave me..... Handel
- Chantons les amours de Jean, Old French arr. by Weekerlin
- Patron das macht der Wind..... Beach
- Care Selve..... Handel
- Alleluia..... Mozart

Old English

- Sir Henry Bishop
- The Courtious Knight arr. by Edmondstone Duncan (1609).

The Silver Swan

- Edited by Edmund Fellows
- The Dancing White Sergeant..... Sir Henry Bishop

Arie "Mi Chiamano Mimmi" from "La Bohème"..... Puccini

- Dawn..... Pearl Curran
- Syncope Song, Halden Kjerfuit
- The Night Wind, Roland Parley
- Happy Song, Teresa del Riego

W. C. T. U. Celebrate Ninth Anniversary

Rev. F. C. Taylor of the First Methodist church addressed the W. C. T. U. meeting Tuesday afternoon. This meeting marked a celebration of the ninth anniversary of national prohibition.

Rev. Taylor gave some pertinent facts and many statistics showing the good that prohibition has done in the nation so far. He stressed the fact of need for more particular parents, the need for some remedy for excess of smoking and drinking among young people, and need for more string enforcement of law.

Mrs. C. G. Doney had charge of the devotions for this meeting. Following the devotional meeting a program and short talks were given. Mrs. Edith Clement gave a reading, Miss Claudia Buntin sang two solos, and Miss Barbara Markham gave a saxophone solo accompanied by Elizabeth Boylan at the piano. Three high school students, under the direction of Miss Lena Belle Tartar, assisted with the program.

The hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Rachel Reader, Mrs. John Robins, and Mrs. Emily Prescott.

Word has been received of recent distinctions given Jean Parmentier who was a graduate of Salem high school with the class of '26 and prominent in music circles while making his home here. Parmentier has been given baritone leads with the International Grand Opera company in Los Angeles where he has been studying the last two years. According to the programs received Mr. Parmentier sang the role of Silvio in Pagliacci and of Montezuma in Rigoletto presented in the Philharmonic auditorium.

Mr. Parmentier will be particularly remembered in Salem for his having represented Salem high school in the state tournament at Forest Grove and for having sung the part of the Captain in the high school presentation of Pinocchio in 1924.

"Interesting Chinese Women" Discussion Topic

"INTERESTING Chinese Women" was the topic chosen by Leland Chapin in his talk to the American Association of University women at its regular 12:30 o'clock luncheon at the Gray Belle, Saturday. Hoshie Watanabe, attired in Chinese costume, sang a number of Chinese songs. Miss Olive Dahl, of Willamette university, presided.

Mr. Chapin gave a delightful sketch of the rebirth of the Chinese woman, who for the first time is gaining her chance to live, choose her husband, and enjoy an education. For a number of years he was an instructor at the co-educational Lingnan university, China, where he experienced the difficulties of assuring the Chinese girls raised in the older tradition that they had as much right as their brothers to the freedom of self-expression.

Mr. Chapin presented two illustrations which represent the change now going on in China. A Chinese novel, based on truth, tells of a young girl, who, walking in a garden, is obliged to implore of her father the unusual expediency of baring her arm to the elbow to retrieve a fan dropped in the pond. A criminal, hiding from justice in the garden, sees the unbecoming act is overheard with shame, is obliged by his conscience to confess, and to protect the young woman's honor, is required to marry her immediately, though their social status is so diverse. The other illustration is an amusing custom in the Peking University employed by some women in the dormitory there. If a young man is unfavored by the young lady upon whom he calls she begs to tell him that she is busy, and presents him with some peanuts to shell during her absence.

Mr. Chapin credits the late Empress Dowager, about whom there have been written some very interesting biographies, with doing the most to free the Chinese woman. From concubine of the Emperor she became Empress, later assuming almost absolute control of the government, a place she held, though still a woman of the old tradition, for over 50 years. Other notable Chinese women included Sunmy Ching, for 14 years in the diplomatic service in America and France, Mrs. Sun Yat Sen, wife of General Sun Yat Sen, after her husband's death leader of the Chinese women, and who was confined in a Russian prison for many months.

Not an absolute renunciation of the old, but a tempering of its fineness and grace of manner, politeness in meeting, and godliness of character, with some of the frankness and understanding of Western civilization is favored by Mr. Chapin for China.

In the business meeting plans were made for the play "Candida" which is being sponsored by the University Woman's club. The proceeds from this play will go to make up the quota of the Salem branch for the fellowship fund which is being gathered by the International association of University Women. This fund is to be for the use of members of any nation who show outstanding ability and who desire more education. The total sum to be raised is $1,000,000 and it is hoped to be accomplished by 1932. The Northwest district has a $30,000 quota to raise.

Salem Woman's Club Plans Open Meeting

An unusual thing is to be done by the study classes of the Salem Woman's club Monday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock when they will hold open house for both men and women interested in the thrift program which is being presented at that time in honor of Thrift Week. Dr. F. G. Franklin and Dr. Martin Perry will speak on phases of thrift. Harold Aiken of the First National bank will be the third speaker to dwell particularly upon some practical phase of thrift week as the week is viewed by the banking world. Mrs. W. J. Winkler will sing two solos, the first "My Heart, at Thy Sweet Voice" from Sampson and Delilah, and the second "Fallen Leaves" by Frederick Knight Logan. Miss Lena Middledler will accompany her.

This is the first time in the history of the study classes that an open meeting has been held. The public are cordially invited to be present.

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it is safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot put away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhoea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.
