SPOTLIGHT ON
CODE OF LAWSComplication and Ramifications
Revealed in Repeal Bills

Surprising complications and ramifications of the Oregon legal code were brought to light when 13 of the repeal bills outlined by a committee which functioned between sessions of the legislature, came up for final passage in the house Tuesday.

A successful attack on H. B. 7, was led by Representative Withers, Henderson of Multnomah county, who contended that the section to be repealed was not fully supported by later enactments. It provided a method by which lawyers might obtain certified copies of records in county offices, at a time when such records were not open to public inspection. Mr. Henderson declared that new sections opening public records to inspection, did not provide for obtaining certified copies of private records.

Representatives Peters and Goldstein came back with the claim that all records on file in county clerks' offices are public records. After protracted discussion the bill was defeated. The 12 others passed the house, with the result that if passed by the senate and signed by the governor, 15 sections and two chapters of the code will be eliminated.

Repeal is favored because the sections have been superseded by later enactments in favor of the cases of House Bills, 6, 18, 21 and 42, and House Bills 26, 28 and 43 seek repeal of sections relating to appropriations, which were codified by error.

Two sections relating to liquor dealers, remaining in the code despite the fact that liquor dealers are no longer recognized by law, are to be stricken out if House Bills 20 and 22 pass the senate.

House Bill 125 seeks repeal of an act enabling Multnomah county to issue bonds for a memorial, a privilege which the voters of that county turned down. House Bill 126 has served its purpose, which was to permit the sale of property west of the state hospital and purchase of property east of the hospital.

The most ancient law so far brought up for repeal was mentioned in H. B. 19, relating to a section enacted in 1841 in the Civil War period, providing a penalty for trespass on state lands. The two relics of pre-prohibition days were laws requiring officials of penal institutions to provide liquor dealers with lists of inmates of those institutions, and forbidding the sale of liquor in the vicinity of railroad stations.

RICH CLUB WOMAN
KIDNAPED IN CAR
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Marion Thomas, wealthy San Francisco society and club woman, was kidnaped in her own automobile last Friday as she was leaving an Oakland Golf club, her attorney told police Tuesday, after he had conferred with Mrs. Thomas who is in a hospital here. The woman was released on Sunday evening, the attorney explained.

Although many details of the story told by Mrs. Thomas were not clear, the attorney outlined the situation in which Mrs. Thomas found herself. From the golf course she was driven by the two young men to the outskirts of Hayward where they ordered her out at a small ranch house, which she described as a bootlegging place, and held there for two days and nights.

Sunday night the men forced Mrs. Thomas back into her machine, she said, and drove her to her Pacific street home in San Francisco where she was dumped on the sidewalk in a semi-conscious condition.

Mrs. Thomas believes she will be able to recognize the kidnapers should they be located by the police. Her attorney believed the men were holding her for ransom but lost their nerve.

Dr. Steiner Host
To Legislators,
Newspaper Men

Clatsop county won the burden of honors with the stories told by Senator A. W. Norblad and Representative C. W. Robinson, when newspaper men and members of the senate and house gathered at the state hospital Tuesday night as guests of Dr. R. E. Lee Steiner at the biennial newspaper dinner.

For more than 20 years newspaper men and legislators attending each session of the legislature have been gathered at the hospital for dinner and an hour of fellowship. This year's gathering took the form of a story telling contest, over which Albert Bede, reading clerk in the house and publisher of the Cottage Grove Sentinel presided.

Impromptu speakers were newspaper men and members of both houses.

MID-WEST AGAIN IS SWEEPED BY STORMS
CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Sleet, rain and snow, forerunners of a new cold wave expected to over-repudiate the milder weather tonight, covered highways today with a slippery coating of ice that was blamed for half a dozen accidents in which more than a score of persons were killed and several others injured.

While the cold was not expected to be so severe as that of last week the damage was expected to be much greater, due to ice-sheathed highways which added to traffic hazards and a coating of ice on telephone and telegraph wires which interrupted wire communications.

At Michigan City, Ind., ice-coated rails were blamed for the collision of a south shore electric train with a freight train and the injury of five persons while at Rock Island, Ill., a fatality was reported in a coasting accident and at Moline a critical injury from a similar accident was reported.

His plan failed, but only because he was arrested here today on a charge of passing as fraudulent check. This led to the discovery that he had another wife, Mrs. Nora Stone of Fresno, who is here to press a complaint against Stone for non-support of their child.
