

CEMETERY BILL PASSES HOUSE

Isolated Piece of New Legislation Finally Approved by Solons

Out of the flood of repeal measures which has kept the house of representatives busy since the opening of the session, one bit of new legislation finally found its way to third reading and adoption by the house Wednesday.

This measure, H. B. 180, by Representative Norvell of Umatilla county, provides for establishment of rural cemetery districts and authorizes the levying of a tax not exceeding 2 1/2 mills for the upkeep of cemeteries. Such districts, under this bill, could be formed by petition of a majority of the legal voters in the area proposed to be included.

As befitted the first new bill coming up for passage, it drew forth spirited discussion.

According to Representative Norvell, Clark and Stewart, the bill deserved support because it sought to provide a remedy for disgraceful conditions which prevail in a few cemeteries in isolated districts where the remains of Oregon's pioneers are being dishonored by neglect.

But Representative Weatherston attacked it bitterly on the ground that it was a bill to increase taxes, insinuated into a legislative assembly whose primary purpose is to reduce public expenditures.

Representative Stevens, Metsker and J. N. Scott opposed it on grounds having to do with the method proposed rather than on the merits of the general plan.

The bill carried with an affirmative vote of 35. Its opponents being Representatives Childs, Chidgren, Gulet, Johnson of Clatsop, Johnson of Union, Johnson of Benton, Knapp, Lockwood, McPherson, Malarky, McAllister, Metsker, Morrison, Russell, Scott of Morrow, Smith, Tompkins and Winslow.

Vetoes of five house bills by Governor Patterson in 1927 were sustained in the house Wednesday afternoon through motions for indefinite postponement. They were:

H. B. 34, which was a bill to appropriate $10,000 for agricultural development of the state, vetoed because of lack of funds.

H. B. 132, a proposed appropriation for the Oregon social hygiene society of $10,000, vetoed for the same reason.

H. B. 436, providing for an appropriation for preparing a standard topographic map of the state, vetoed for the same reason.

H. B. 579, appropriating funds for premiums at various county fairs, varying from $500 to $6000, vetoed for the same reason.

Upholding of these vetoes was recommended by the joint ways and means committee.

KING GEORGE WILL TRAVEL TO SEASIDE

LONDON, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The announcement made Tuesday that King George would be taken to the seaside to convalesce from his lengthy illness brought a general sense of relief and a feeling that a chance for a setback might be considered as passed. No medical bulletin was issued tonight but it was announced officially that the king's condition was satisfactory.

No date has been fixed definitely for the removal of the king but it is thought that he would be taken from Buckingham palace in about a fortnight. He is to journey at Craigwell House, a mansion belonging to Sir Arthur Du Cros, at Bognor in Sussex. The place has every modern convenience with sun porches overlooking the sea. Protected bathing facilities are only 20 yards from the house.

Carkin Opposes Public Service Home Rule Plan

The so-called home rule recommendation of the special committee investigating the telephone situation in Oregon was frowned upon Tuesday by Representative Carkin, a member of the committee.

In explaining his position Carkin attacked the following to his report: "Having such a high regard for the judgment of the chairman and all members of the committee and concurring as I do in their views and especially regarding the need of a national investigation of the telephone situation, it is with extreme reluctance that I find myself unable to endorse the so-called home rule recommendation."

DOCTORS CHARGED IN FLU EPIDEMIC

Although 10,675 cases of influenza were reported in Oregon for November 17 to January 12, physicians have been very remiss in reporting cases, states the weekly bulletin of the state board of health, which was distributed Wednesday from the health department.

The bulletin tabulates the cases week by week, showing that the peak of the epidemic in this state came the weeks of December 22 and 29, 2,513 cases being reported the latter week. At the present time the epidemic is apparently diminishing, the report states, with indications that it will soon be a thing of the past.

The bulletin also warns that "Some have tried to capitalize the situation by offering to the public variously alleged high-priced and hastily prepared preventive remedies which have as their main object the extrication of money from our pocketbooks rather than rendering any definite service."

"Use ordinary care and protection; stay away from those having influenza; live according to the basic living laws which involve exercise in fresh air, plenty of sleep each night, reasonable consumption of wholesome food and the elimination of personal concern."

STOCK MART MAKES MODERATE HEADWAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—(AP)—A powerful bull campaign inspired by further taking of gold from London ran into rather heavy liquidation in the stock market today. Although a wide assortment of issues reached new high ground, the general list made only moderate headway.

While the interstate bulls were inclined to make the most of the resumed inflow of British gold, totaling $1,000,000 with today's takings of $5,000,000 opinion as to the probable volume of the movement varied sharply.

The day's news included an unusually cheerful weekly review of the steel industry by "Iron Age," which pointed to higher steel scrap prices and keen demand for finished steel as the important features of the steel market this week.

Columbia gas, Consolidated gas, American Power and Light, American telephone and international telephone sold up 3 to 5 points.

Committee Will View Buildings At Eugene Site

Whether or not a serious fire hazard exists for state buildings at Eugene will be investigated by a sub-committee of the public institutions committee, it was decided at a meeting held Wednesday afternoon. Chairman Potter, Lane, appointed Scott, Umatilla, Smith, Marion and Russell, Yamhill as a committee to confer with the state fire marshal on fire protection for buildings mentioned, and report back later.

The infirmary of the University of Oregon was mentioned in particular as being a building where fire hazard was great.

Espee Sued for Lack of Safety Devices on Line

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Activity of government inspectors along the line of the Southern Pacific railroad between Eugene and Klamath Falls over the Natron cutoff on November 16 and 17 resulted in a suit being filed today in federal court by the government against the railroad.

3 DEFENDANTS TURNED LOOSE

Only Three Men Left to be Prosecuted in Asa Keyes Bribery Trial

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23.—Butler, at the end of Tuesday's session, at the close of today's trial of the conspiracy and bribery trial of former District Attorney Asa Keyes and five co-defendants dismissed the charges against three of them, Charles Reimer, Dave Getzoff and Jack Rosenberg. Judge Butler said that he did not consider the evidence against the three men sufficient to convict, and would grant the motion to dismiss the charges against them. The state had closed its case this morning.

Keyes, Ed Rosenberg, formerly a defendant in the Julian Petroleum Fraud case, which the state contends was "fixed" and Ben Getzoff, owner of the Springs street tailor shop in which the conspiracy was culminated according to the state, continue as defendants.

Chief Deputy District Attorney Robert Stewart insisted the motion to dismiss the charges against the grounds that one who had the least part in a conspiracy was as guilty as a leader in it.

Charles Reimer was a special investigator for the district attorney's office under Keyes, and was described in the grand jury inquiry into the dismissal and acquittal of Julian case defendants as a "Keyes' watch dog." Jack Rosenberg is a brother of Ed Rosenberg who was a Julian defendant.

During the morning session the state presented witnesses who testified concerning the ordering by Ed Rosenberg of a radio costing $1150, the payment for which was delivered to the Keyes' home.

Previously state witnesses had testified to the purchase for Keyes of alleged conspirators, of two automobiles, one valued at $5380, and the other at $859, gold clubs, an expensive chain, a watch, wrist watch costing $630, and lamps and lamp shades. In addition Jacob Berman, a Julian defendant, who turned state's evidence against Keyes, Getzoff and Rosenberg, testified that he paid Getzoff $10,000 for Keyes, and that Rosenberg told him that "fixing" his case with Keyes through Getzoff cost him $125,000.

Governor Won't Honor Papers of Chehalis Police

Governor Patterson Wednesday refused to honor papers for the extradition of L. F. Dickson, who was wanted at Chehalis, Wash., on a charge of non-support. Dickson was under arrest in Portland. Testimony offered at the extradition hearing indicated that Dickson contributed as much as $125 in a single month for the support of his wife and children.

He also provided funds with which his wife and children recently made a trip to California.

SANTA FE, N. M., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Nicholas McKinney, 96 years old, stepped cooly up to the altar today and took as his blushing bride Miss Mary Perea of Santa Fe, who has already celebrated her 90th birthday. McKinney is a Civil war veteran who came to the southwest in 1876. He had to stop smoking two years ago because his "pipe got to tasting bad." He expressed a desire for a daily hot toddy because "a hot toddy is good for an old fellow after a hard day's work."

Passed Up! THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MADE MEN LIKE HER

By ROE FULKERSON
by Central Press Association, Inc.

READ THIS FIRST: In her desire to make herself attractive to men, Betty Brown has tried to find out the secret of attractiveness from her mother and her friends. She has concluded that it is all physical. She goes to a dance social and, in imitation of the most popular girl she knows, commences to learn dancing.

CHAPTER VII The night of the dance recital Betty dreamt of being a premier danseuse, with a ballet of hundreds of girls dancing behind her. Her feet did not touch the floor and she floated around the stage to the applause of thousands, who buried her in flowers.

When she awoke she was still under the influence of the dream, and tried a few of the simpler steps as she dressed herself. At breakfast she chattered:

"We're a bunch of jolly students," sang the Williamson university chapel Wednesday, and the student body remembered that it was the season of the annual concert tour. This trip this year will be the 25th annual concert tour of the university's glee club. The men will leave the university at 8:30 Saturday morning to be gone for two weeks.

The itinerary, as announced by Paul Geddes, manager of the club, will include territory new to the men's singing group. The cities to be visited are: Roseburg, Central Point, Medford, Ashland, Klamath Falls, Butte Falls, Crescent City, Gold Beach, Bandon, Myrtle Point, Marshfield, Springfield and Mouthout.

The club this year has 16 members. It is led by Raymond Derrick, reader; Miss Edith Findley, accompanist; and Mrs. John Reed, Miss Findley, besides accompanying the club in numbers, will present solos on the marimba.

After the concert on the southern trip, the varsity quartet will make a trip including Vancouver, Mill Plain and Washougal, Washington, and Cascade Locks and Portland. Manager Geddes announced that the home concert in Salem would be given sometime in April.

GUATEMALA REVOLT COMPLETELY ENDED

GUATEMALA CITY, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The government has announced that the revolt which blazed forth briefly in two Pacific provinces had been completely ended. The cities of Quetzaltenango and Retalhuleu, which had been the chief conquest of the rebels, were recaptured today without a fight, although the federal forces previously had launched a severe attack with airplanes and artillery.

Leadership of the revolt was attributed to Juan F. Rivas. Plans for a bomb at a point where President Lazo Chacon was to pass was believed to be part of the plot. The war broke out on last Thursday night and by the following day the government had its forces in the field and was regaining the ground taken in the surprise attacks of the insurgents.

Dispatches to Mexico City papers tonight said that Colonel Leonardo and other revolutionary leaders had been executed summarily after the federal troops took Masatenango yesterday. The rebel Colonel Baudilio Santos, who commanded the city after its capture by the rebels, was reported to have fled with 20 men.

"It is a dancing school," explained Betty. "I don't think you would like it, George. I understand they laugh down there!" She was angry with herself and talking it out on him.

"I think you dance wonderfully now!" "I am awkward and I want to be graceful, George. I have been cultivating my head to the exclusion of my body. I want to be strong and attractive."

"You are already attractive to people who count. You have a splendid mind." "But no one notices that as I pass. I might wear a sign explaining I am a remarkably bright girl who averaged high in her studies!"

"Intelligence shines through the eyes and face." "So that's what makes my face so shiny?" Betty felt her nose tentatively. "You are in a flippancy mood today," announced George. "We might as well drop the subject."

"Yes," agreed Betty. "Father and I point with pride to any new ambition. You and mother view it with alarm. Time will tell whether the pride-pointers or the alarm-viewers are right! It will be a nice summer vacation. They have a swimming pool and tennis courts at the camp."

George shook his head sadly as he went into his house. The head bobbing Betty wondered if he could be right. Shaking off her doubts she joined Lois who was taking her to the same country club she had visited with George the night of the alumni dance.

Lois was dancing with Betty at an entertainment given for the benefit of a local charity. Betty watched her make up and dress. At the close of her dance a member of the committee brought his car to the front of the club to take them home.

The car was a new one, and Betty was glad to get into the closed car, another boy jumped from a veranda chair and opened the back door of the car. "Right in here, please," he said, placing his hand under Betty's elbow.

She stepped into the back seat and he refused to close the door and calling to the driver: "Home, James!" Turning to Betty, he continued, "Tom Anderson, who is driving, is a crab. I asked him to be allowed to accompany my home with Ferpichore's two fairest daughters and he refused me. I am really a worthwhile person. Beautiful. I have a name, but as it is not Algerian or Reginald I will not mention it. It really is of no consequence."

"My fatal gift of beauty and my charm of manner, added to my brilliant conversation, make all women love me. I am now shedding the bright light of my society on you for the first time, where she laid out the whole program to him, emphasizing the point that she would be able to dance for his lodger in the maid's room. He thought the fee very small, and agreed to her taking the lessons, although objecting to her being away all summer. When he learned the camp was only 25 miles down the country and that they could receive him Saturday afternoon, he was content."

Between them they induced Betty's mother not to object. One argument used was that she needed only a single nice dress for the Saturday night dances when visitors were permitted, and could wear a school or her bathing suit the rest of the time.

"We always give you one hundred dollars to go some place on a vacation," said the practical Mrs. Brown. "We will save that, and the clothes you always buy and the money you spend on the car we can afford it. But remember, I told you no good will come of this dancing. First thing we know you will want to go on the stage or something!"

Betty's father winked. She got the idea that perhaps her father would be more pleased than offended if she did go on the stage.

An intimacy sprang up between Betty and Lois. Lois loved the role of mentor, and Betty was anxious to find out as much as she could about the school and dancing in general.

George Harris met her at the gate one day. "Betty," he said, "I have viewed with alarm the sudden friendship which you have with Lois. She is not your intellectual equal. The crowd she runs with will not be a good influence in your life."

"I am going to a girls' summer camp with her this summer," explained Betty. "Where?" "At Sellkoff's School of Expression."

"Are you studying elocution?" he asked interested. "There is more than one way of expressing oneself," she laughed. "Sellkoff's school they do it with their legs!"

A slow blush mantled George's neck and face. "You demonstrate what I feared," he said in his slow way. "I don't understand what you mean."

The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know Phillips Milk of Magnesia. And you will never know yourself to suffer from indigestion or acidity again. It is the standard anti-acid with doctors and has been used for over fifty years.
