Talk, Both Humorous and Serious, Greet Advent of Proposed Laws

Bills introduced into the house Wednesday morning aroused little comment, although some of them may have a hard time getting all the way through. The bill providing for a compulsory state audit by the secretary of state for all state institutions drew the most attention, all though some talk, both humorous and serious, was heard in regard to Representative Lonergan's bill making the barbers' code more effective and on the bill by Representative Anderson, Carkin and Hamilton providing that restaurants serving meals on mezzanines or balconies be ordered to provide and maintain automatic lifts.

THE STORY OF LIKE HER @ 1929 by Central Press Associa

READ THIS FIRST:

Betty Brown was a good student at high school. Her boy associate was George Harris, a stodgy boy, who believed, with Betty, that only mental culture was worth while. At a dance one night Betty discovered that other girls were attractive to men while she was not. After witnessing a dance recttal and deciding she had cultivated her mind to the neglect of her body, she takes up dancing, going to a summer camp for that purpose. Almost at once two very desirable boys admire her. She takes Andy Adair away from red-headed Vera, a dancer, who threatens Betty. Betty is thrilled instead of scared. She resented it when he left her at the close of the dance to take Vera out of the room in the direction of the bathing pool.
