CENTRAL ASIA HIT BY SEVERE QUAKE

SAMARKLAND, Tajikistan, U. S., Feb. 2.—(AP)—This section of Central Asia was shaken by a strong earthquake last night. No great damage was done to buildings here but reports from the northwest indicate several villages were destroyed during an earth movement lasting four hours.

Here the shock was felt for only about 20 seconds. The audience in the city theatre was panic-stricken and rushed to the exits but through the calmness of an actress who continued to play her part, the mad rush was checked before anyone was killed. A number of persons were injured when buildings fell in Dushanb and Kullabakh.

2 STATES IRON OUT TROUBLES

Joint Meeting Held by Committees on Fisheries; Hearing Staged

in Oregon. Freight and other trucks would be registered by each state for purposes of regulation. Trucks that do both an interstate and intrastate business would affect only vehicles which do business from only one point in Oregon to Washington cities or base that operate from only one point in Washington to Oregon cities.

Columbia Fishing Season Asked Put Back
OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The joint conference of fisheries committees from the Oregon and Washington legislatures passed a resolution here tonight recommending to their legislature that the fishing season on the Columbia river open April 23 instead of May 1 as at present. The resolution would also reduce the fishing seasons 25 days. Representative E. A. Sims of Jefferson county, Washington, estimated.

The new seasons would be as follows: open midnight April 23, continuing to May 23; close from May 23 to June 23; open June 23 to September 5; close March 1 to April 23. The present fishing seasons are from May 1 to August 25 and from September 10 to February 28.

The resolution would provide a four year test period, after which the present seasons would again be in force. The status of the present fishing compact between Oregon and Washington may be determined by Washington alone in a case before the United States supreme court, it developed at the conference.

A motion offered by A. L. Norblad, president of the Oregon senate, and adopted at the meeting, would ask the two legislatures to appropriate funds to determine the boundary line between the two states.

It is probable that the dispute over the possession of Sand Island in the Columbia river would be involved in the survey. The fishery department heads of the two states were empowered in another resolution to adopt a set of definitions for the following fishing gear: gill nets, diver nets, set nets, drag seines. All gear not defined would be illegal. The two legislatures would have to approve the definitions.

Senator Fred Norman of Pacific county, Washington, and president Norblad were directed to prepare the joint report.

CAPITOL, Olympia, Wash., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The troubles of Columbia river fishermen and packers were spread in graphic manner here today before a joint conference of fisheries committees from the Washington and Oregon legislatures.

Packers, trawlers, gill netters, purse seiners and conservationists argued before the committees all day long as to a change in seasons, tagging of salmon to prevent bootlegging of the fish, laws defining fishing gear and the joint compact before Washington and Oregon relating to fishing.

The committees were faced with no easy task to formulate a new joint fishing code as the distinctive thing about the discussion was the complete lack of unanimity of opinion among the fishermen and packers themselves.

Users of different gear favored different regulations. Fishermen located at the mouth of the river, at the middle reaches and the upper reaches failed to find a common ground for agreement of the seasons.

While many favored a retention of the present season, from May 1 to August 25 and from September 10 to February 28, others desired the season to open on April 20, with a 48 hour closed period each week, a 15 day closed season in June or a 15 day closed season in September. A. L. Norblad, president of the Oregon state senate was named permanent chairman.

REVERSES VOTE ON MONEY BILL

means committee early in the legislative session, but were authorized before final adjournment was taken.

The operations of the ways and means committee at this session of the legislature are no different than at previous sessions other than that the work is not as far advanced. Virtually the first two and a half weeks of the session were devoted to consideration of reports of sub-committees, studying the budget as prepared by the state departments, boards and institutions.

With this work virtually completed last Thursday night, Senator Kiddle became impatient and requested that the committee get down to business. The suggestion was gladly accepted by Senator Strayer and other legislators who have served on the ways and means committee for years.

Within the next two hours the committee had approved a large number of appropriations, considered related reports of the sub-committee and passed upon a number of bills carrying legislative allowances. In event the committee maintains this pace, the appropriation bills should be dumped into the legislative hopper late this week. Acting in compliance with a precedent established before the governor had the privilege of the single item vote, the appropriations will go before the legislature in separate bills instead of being included in one measure as is the practice in a number of states.

One of the important bills that will come before the ways and means committee when it resumes operations Monday is one now being prepared by J. D. Mickle, state dairy and food commissioner. This will provide for the regulation of all restaurants, bakeries and other places under the jurisdiction of the dairy and food department. It was estimated by Mr. Mickle that this license fee would raise approximately $19,000 a year.

For the first time in many years the ways and means committee is not confronted with any substantial requests for capital outlay appropriations. This situation was made possible through a conference called by Governor Patterson and attended by all institution superintendents. Only two minor appropriations for capital outlays had been approved by the ways and means committee at the time of adjournment Friday.

One of these appropriations was for $35,000, for converting the old state training school for boys into a branch penitentiary. The other was for $23,000 for erecting a two story garage at the main prison. It was argued that these improvements would relieve the crowded conditions of the penitentiary, and delay the erection of another cell block for at least two years.

Approximately 75 of the prisoners now confined in the main prison will be transferred to the branch plant, while 100 prisoners will be housed in the upper story of the garage.

BUILDING-LOAN GROUPS VIEWED

Proposed Legislation Announced by Mark McCallister Saturday

at directors' and stockholders' meetings, suggest such steps as may be advisable to restore the association to a sound condition.

"If this is not done within 20 days allowed by the statute he shall report the facts to the attorney general, and it shall thereupon become the duty of the attorney general to start proceedings in the circuit court for the dissolution of the association or such other proceedings as the occasion may require."

Another proposed amendment provides that any mortgage may be surrendered upon filing with the corporation commissioner an affidavit sworn to by the president and secretary of the association, showing that it would be to the advantage of the association to sell such bond or bonds, or to assign the said mortgages without recourse, or that such mortgage is in default and that it is withdrawn for the purpose of foreclosure.

Another proposed amendment reads: "It shall be unlawful for any building and loan or savings and loan association doing business in the state of Oregon to employ any agent for the purpose of soliciting the sale of its stock or securities of any kind unless he shall first be licensed by the corporation commissioner.

"No license shall be issued to any applicant for an agent's license until such applicant shall have first made and filed in the office of the corporation commissioner, an application, thereupon a form to be prescribed and furnished by the corporation commissioner, which must show the applicant's name, business and residence address.

The application also shall show the name of the association to be represented, present occupation or occupation for the last 12 months, and such other information as the corporation commissioner may require.

"The corporation commissioner may revoke the license of any agent for misrepresentation of when convicted in any sort of violation of the criminal statutes or when satisfied that the agent is not a fit and proper person to be engaged in the business of selling building and loan and savings and loan securities of any kind.

"Each agent granted a license shall pay an annual license fee of $5.

"Associations are authorized to borrow money not to exceed 25 per cent of the amount of their capital on deposit with the corporation commissioner for the purpose of making loans, paying withdrawals or maturities, or otherwise facilitating their objects and purpose.

"The association may give its promissory note or notes in its corporate name such notes to be of such rate of interest and to be due and payable at such time or times, and to be executed in behalf of the association by such of its officers and its board of directors as may authorize. The notes may be made payable either to bearer or to the order of payees named therein.

"The holders of such notes shall be preferred creditors of the association issuing the same and the debts represented thereby shall be prior and superior to any obligation of the association to any of its members or stockholders."

Union of Senate Committee Said To Offer Saving

Consolidation of the engrossed and enrolled bills committees of the senate probably will reduce the cost of operating this branch of the 1929 legislature approximately 50 per cent when compared with that of previous sessions, it is estimated.

The records show that eight stenographers are employed in the consolidated committee as against 16 girls at this time two years ago. Not more than two additional stenographers will be required during the closing weeks of the session, it was announced.

Details of the consolidation were worked out by Fred Sefton, formerly employed as proof reader in the state printing department. Senator Strayer is chairman of the engrossed and enrolled bills committee. The consolidation of these two committees was proposed at the 1927 legislative session, but nothing definite was accomplished at that time.

Senator Strayer said he would suggest other consolidations at the next session of the legislature, which would further reduce the cost to the taxpayers.

A jury in the circuit court here Saturday returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of William Johnson of West Woodburn, accused of allowing a still to be operated on his property. The jury was out 12 hours.

HOOVER PLANS FOR MEETINGS

Leading Virginia Republican and Candidate for Governor Called

or dinner, has not yet been decided. He and Mr. Hoover are friends and the president-elect unquestionably will talk to him about the possibilities of establishing an air service to the west coast of South America. This is a subject in which the next president became intensely interested during his good will tour to Latin America.

Mr. Hammond, who is an outstanding engineer, has been an advisor of republican presidents in years gone by and is known to have declined offers of a cabinet post made by President Harding. Mr. Hoover has known him since his young days as a struggling engineer and places much confidence in his judgment.

Word coming to the president-elect here is that the volunteer cabinet makers have been rather active since he left Belle Isle. Whether their guesses will prove correct in any instance remains for the future as Mr. Hoover is determined to keep his own counsel and to withhold any announcements until he sends the nominations of his official family to an extra session of the senate to be held after his inauguration March 4.
