Virtually Entire Gang Wiped Out in Chicago's Worst Massacre

tions, a laundry labor controversy and a Detroit rum running syndicate were touched on as the police poked about for tenable theories of the slaughter. The police gave passing notice to a suggestion that strife in the cleaning industry was the origin, then turned to listen to a report that Detroit gunmen hired by a syndicate shipping liquor from the seven Chicago, had executed the seven in retaliation for recent hijacking of the Detroit trucks by Moran gangsters.

Surface At Capon May Be Involved

Another explanation offered the police traced the shooting to a warning from Al Capone's followers to supporters of Martin Klass, who has entered a three-sided aldermanic campaign. The Moran gang, headed by the Moran gang, Klass, a nephew of city collector Morris Eller, was reported to have refused to withdraw in favor of Capone's candidate.

The Wholesale Execution, an Innovation in Chicago Gang Warfare which brought the total gang victims to more than 135 in the past few years, was carried out with all the precision of an army firing squad. Five men drove up to Moran headquarters in a garage at 2123 North Clark street after putting through a telephone call inquiring whether certain members of the gang were there.

Pistols and Machine Guns Flashed on Victims

They rushed into the garage with their pistols and machine guns flashing. Some of the men were killed. Some were wounded. Some were taken to a hospital. Some were taken to a morgue. Some were taken to a court yard in the rear.

Overhead gleamed a powerful electric light to make the work of the firing squad easier. Whether the victims realized they had been trapped by a machine gun or not, there was a roar from the leader, and the matter of machine guns and pistols and the massacre was completed.

A few minutes after the firing squad, still carrying the pistols and machine guns, sauntered out, climbed into an automobile, stowed the weapons in the rear and drove away. Apparently few persons heard the firing.

A woman told a policeman that someone had been hurt in the garage and he entered to verify this prosaic report.

Gruesome Sight Greets Cop On Examination

Six victims he found lying where they fell, feet to the wall, their faces turned to the wall. Some of them were mortally wounded, were found in another room. He lived for two hours but stoically maintained the gangland code of silence.

The garage, conducted as a blind for the north side liquor running syndicate, resembled a shambles. Blood spattered the walls. Scattered about the floor were the broken bricks. The victims, killed by their merciless executioners without having a chance to escape, sprawled grotesquely on the floor, the hats of some of them still at the same cocky angle affected by gangsters and hoodlums.

FACTS and GOSSIP

"Journalist" spent the day learning just how a legislature is run. The class also was received by Governor Patterson, Tom Kay, and Hal Hoss, at which time Mr. Kay explained some of the intricacies of state government.

Several prominent "cake eaters" had a chance to prove that they were all the same. Implicated in Oregon's birthday party Thursday night, for they not only ate at the Oregon birthday cake, but consumed all of a large piece, and one of these aforementioned actually got away with a second slice, in spite of the protests of his wife. Today, it is rumored these "cake eaters" are planning to form a permanent organization, provided, that is, that enough of them are on hand after last night's strenuous party to do the organizing. Those made eligible by passing the test of one whole slice are Marion Barnes, Mrs. C. C. Chapman, Richard S. O. U. Snyder, Paul Ager, Bernice Graw and Senator Moser, the last named to be president because of his two-piece resistance. Associate members, who qualified for this honor by eating the frosting off their pieces are C. C. Chapman, Hermione Smith, Catherine Addink, Steve Packwood, the Governor, and Elbert Bede, reading clerk and traveling editor of the Cottage Grove Sentinel.

IKE PATTERSON IS HAPPY WITH SHIRT

astor to call on the state's executive, and he called the governor's attention to the quiet shade of amberdasher he had donned before making the call.

"As a matter of fact, I admired that shirt you had on yesterday. I wish I had one like it," remarked Governor Patterson.

Thursday's present is the result of the governor's expression made to Smith. Mrs. Smith was called upon and the governor now possesses a new silk jazz shirt.

At the capitol Thursday, conservatives of what the well dressed crowd should wear, expressed belief that the new jazz shirt would go well with the derby and one, which was presented to the governor by a group of legislators early in the session. They added, however, that the governor needs a gardenia and some suede spats to make him a gay "boulevardier."

Commission for the latter two could have to be obtained, however, from the amalgamated peach growers' union of Polk county, it was decided.

SALEM'S DEBATERS WIN ONE, LOSE ONE

"Dollar diplomacy with its combination of bonds and battleships means the distinction of our nation just as it did of Egypt, Rome and others of later date."

Denying that arbitration would do away with war and yet recognizing its use so far as practicable, the Salem speakers defended ardent protection of smaller and weaker nations on economic, moral and political grounds.

Miss Edith Starrett, Willamette university student, presided over the debate and the judges were A. S. Jensen, J. F. Santee and A. C. Stanbrough, of the normal school at Monmouth. H. W. Adams, principal of the Corvallis high school, accompanied the visitors here.

CORVALLIS, Feb. 14 (Special)—Corvallis high school won a 2 to 1 decision from Woodburn here Thursday night in the third of Middle Willamette district debates.

WOODBURN, Feb. 14 (Special)—The affirmative debate team of Lebanon high school defeated Woodburn high's negative team here tonight by a unanimous decision. Lebanon debaters were Kathleen Skinner and Clarence Booth. Woodburn was represented by Kenneth Gillanders and Matthew Mochel.

Judges were Ray Lafky, Hayes Beall and Ray Harland, all of Salem. Warner Guiss was chairman.

CONSOLIDATION IS NOT BACKED

Strong Delegation Urges $30,000 Appropriation for Mine Survey

chasing agency is asking for an appropriation of $74,000 for the current biennium, while $30,000 has been requested for the conduct of the state budget department.

Appropriation For New Mineral Survey Wanted

A number of prominent men from various mining districts in Oregon appeared before the committee Thursday and requested an appropriation of $30,000 with which to make a mineral survey. This appropriation would be matched by the federal bureau of mines. The work would be done by employees of the federal bureau of mines and would cover both eastern and western Oregon.

William M. North, secretary of the Baker chamber of commerce, J. C. Bowe, Baker, president of the Eastern Oregon Mining association and Senator Strayer spoke in favor of the appropriation.

Senator Miller reviewed briefly the mining development in southern Oregon and especially in the Grants Pass section of the state. He said that mines had been operated in southern Oregon for many years, but that the surface had not yet been scratched.

Appropriation Bills Will Be Discussed

The ways and means committee will devote Monday and Tuesday nights to discussing bills carrying appropriations. The session will be held behind closed doors. It is proposed to report out virtually all of the appropriation measures next week, so that they will reach the house not later than Wednesday or Thursday. At the 1927 session of the legislature these bills were reported out during the fourth and fifth weeks.

A report of the secretary of the ways and means committee tonight showed that appropriations have been authorized aggregating $4,820,034. Unappropriated items before the committee at the present time aggregate $2,031,111.

INTANGIBLES TAX WILL APPEAR SOON

levy, yet the yield would be large it is pointed out. Thus a man could have stocks and bonds valued at $100,000, averaging six per cent in yield, and he would pay but $180. There are many, many stocks and bonds in the state, it is estimated, hence the really substantial yield.

It is proposed to exempt mortgages held on real property, since the theory is that real property is already paying enough tax. Certain other classifications might be exempt also.

Just how this will harmonize with pending income taxes, whether or not it would be deductible as it is proposed to make property tax, is still an unsettled matter. However, many legislators agreed that a tax on intangibles should be levied, and this proposed measure seems to be the best yet devised.

There is a possibility that the bill will appear today or tomorrow, and it is certain to be out in a very few days, as fast action is desired when it does start its legislative journey.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., Feb. 14 (AP)—While Trenor A. Rice, 37 year old deputy sheriff sat in the county jail in Brooklyn awaiting trial for the murder of County Detective William E. Jackson, a note left by Mrs. Gertrude Jackson, the detective's widow, who yesterday committed suicide, exonerated him of the stigma today.

Although its full contents were not made known by authorities it was stated by Medical Examiner Louis A. Mason that Mrs. Jackson wrote she was to blame for the killing of her husband, and that Rice was innocent.

JACK HOLT STARS IN NEW ELSINORE FILM

Seven hundred cattle, milling wildly in a night stampede, and a raging range fire devouring everything in its path, provide two of the many spectacular scenes of Paramount's Zane Gray production, "Sunset Pass," which features Jack Holt, at the Elsinore theatre.

These scenes were filmed in the cattle country of Arizona, a few miles from the old trading post of Tubu City. The film company spent two weeks in that region making exteriors for the production with the aforementioned range fire being the highlight.

The cattle stampede was a dangerous task assigned the cameramen. They were in the midst of the frenzied animals, and Roy Clark, chief photographer, was brushed to one side by one steer, but fortunately escaped serious injury. His camera, which fell upon him, also escaped injury, and the thrilling "shots" which had been recorded by Clark were saved.

Country White House Project Is Investigated

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—A special commission to investigate the advisability of erecting a country white house was suggested by the senate public buildings committee today as a counter-proposal to the recommendation of President Coolidge that $48,000 be appropriated to repair a government building for that purpose at Mount Weather, Virginia.

While only the most guarded comment was expressed privately by members of congress, it appeared as if the president's selection of Mount Weather had incurred some disfavor at the capitol among members who desired that other localities be considered before a decision is reached.

STATE HONORED UPON BIRTHDAY

Pioneers Who Established Oregon Government Lauded by B. L. Eddy

lem then was presented to Mr. Smith by the governor. The resolution conveyed the appreciation of the legislature, the state and the executive department.

In the receiving line at the reception which followed were Governor and Mrs. Patterson, A. W. Norblad, president of the senate and Mrs. Norblad, Ralph Hamilton speaker of the house and Mrs. Hamilton, Adjutant General and Mrs. White, State Treasurer and Mrs. Kay, Secretary of State and Mrs. Hoss, and Percy Smith.

"Pioneer Oregon" Recalled by Eddy

Following the reception the legislators marched to the lower rotunda of the capitol where they listened to an address, "Pioneer Oregon," by Senator Eddy of Douglas county.

"The story of the Oregon country," said Senator Eddy, "is linked with the names of men whose achievements stand out upon the pages of history. Beginning with that eminent navigator, Captain Gray, who sailed into the Columbia River in 1792, we have later the Lewis and Clark expedition sent out by President Jefferson. There was another expedition sent out by John Jacob Astor, for whom Astoria was named.

"Linked with our early history also is the fame of Dr. John McLoughlin, representative of the Hudson's Bay company, but the kind and effective friend of the American settler. Abraham Lincoln was offered by President Taylor, the territorial governorship, but declined it.

"Our political fortunes were for a certain period linked with the cause of slavery. For a time many good, but when they learned that there was danger that the proslavery administration at Washington would probably endeavor to plant slavery in all American territories, they desired statehood and liberty. The question of holding a convention and adopting a constitution and seeking admission to the union was several times defeated at the polls. But seventy years ago today Oregon became a state, a free and a strong supporter of the union, and of the constitution of the United States.

"It is noteworthy that when the constitutional convention met in 1857 to frame the constitution under which Oregon was to be admitted to the union, just 70 years had elapsed since the writing of our national constitution, and the same period of time has elapsed since our Oregon constitution became effective. Therefore the framers of the Oregon constitution stood midway between the framing of the national constitution and our day.

Government's Framers Accorded High Praise

"I believe that the men who have had the largest part in framing constitutional government in the United States have been men who looked into history and learned its lessons, men who have made personal sacrifices for the good of humanity, and men who have relied upon divine providence.

"We live in a day when dependence upon God is becoming more or less unfashionable. Many would instruct our youth that man is the captain of his own soul, and that there is no God to whom he must give account. This was not the spirit of the men who laid the foundations.

"Our government, state and national, is built upon reverence and the fear of God. When that foundation is removed the superstructure will fall."

Governor Patterson then cut the birthday cake, after extinguishing the 70 lighted candles in one breath. Cake and punch were served to the crowd by a bary of state capitol employes including Misses Josephine Maulding, Irene Hughes, Myra Gleason, Odile Matthews, Mildred Miller, Kathryn Grady and Ola Volke.

Dancing followed with music by the 126th infantry band of Portland. The band previously appeared in the house during the joint session, and later gave selections at the ceremonies held in the lower rotunda of the capitol.

The program also included the song, "Oregon My Oregon," led by Dr. Eppley of Salem, and numbers by the Willamette university quartet.

Reports here indicated that the furnishings presented to the state by Mr. Smith had a monetary value in excess of $10,000.

TAX MEASURES PASSED BY HOUSE

Special Commission's Bills Go Through With But Little Opposition

Little opposition presented itself today as the house passed three measures containing provisions recommended by the property tax relief commission seeking to relieve the taxation burden and at the same time meet present governmental obligations.

The measures passed are: House bills 232, 234 and 415, all by Anderson, Carkin and Hamilton.

House Bill 232 provides that a majority of votes cast at the last preceding general election shall be necessary to validate a proposed bond issue in municipalities. Representative Carkin said that about one-half of the vote of a preceding election would be necessary to validate bond issues. It will serve as a brake on the loose spending of money on public projects that some municipalities have experienced, he said.

A similar law has been in effect in Washington for some years and has been operating to advantage to taxpayers, he said.
